GERMAN BROWN TROUT SOUGHT FOR N. SANTIAM

The theory that German brown trout are cannibalistic and ought not to be placed in streams like the North Santiam River has been held by the game commission, but local sportsmen don't believe it.

Moreover, the practice of stocking the river only with rainbow trout is not working out, they say. Pink Mason, local fishing enthusiast and a member of the Chamber of Commerce fish and game committee said that most of the rainbows stocked in the Santiam in recent years went to the ocean and came back steelheads upon completion of their life cycle.

Dr. David J. Ferguson has been lobbying in legislature this week for a change in policy on game fish for the North Santiam, including the adoption of German browns.
