CABINET SHOP PURCHASED
George Hollingworth of Denver, Colorado recently bought Roy Beebe's cabinet shop and is moving the machinery to a new 20 x 40 building he has put up on property he bought from Lee Towell on the River Road. He is adding more machinery to that he purchased. The shop opened for business July 18.

Mr. Hollingworth was engineer for the Highland Research Co. before the war. During the war he was a test pilot in the army air force. He was also chief engineer and designer of the modification of the B-24 planes for the government, he added.

With him are his wife and son,

FURNITURE STORE TO MOVE
Dave Epps, owner of the Mill City Furniture Co., has announced the lease of part of the Hill Building, where he will move his furniture store when current remodeling work is completed.

The move will be Mr. Epps' third in two years. He moved from a small store on Broadway to the Dawes building two years ago.

STORE HOLDS GRAND OPENING
Faust and Ross' Red and White store will hold its grand opening on Saturday in its new building on the new highway west of the downtown section.

The new store, which greatly increases the floor space they had in their former quarters, is lighted with cold fluorescent tubing, and is equipped with many new installations, including open freezer meat compartments.

The store will carry a wider line of clothing, and is adding several brands of appliances. The hardware section of the former store will be continued.

The building was erected in record time by the Yoder-Martin Construction Co. of Corvallis and Mill City.

Santiam Bean Festival

Crowns Jack in the Beanstalk

Denny Frank, the lad who flew to emmissary for Gov. Douglas McKay of Boston with a case of Santiam beans Oregon to Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts Thursday night, was back in achusetts. He presented a blanket to Stayton Tuesday night to be crowned Jack of the Beanstalk, to rule over the 10th annual Santiam Ben Festival.

The festival is the biggest ever undertaken by the neighboring town, and an event for the entire valley.

Festivities are scheduled to continue through Saturday.

Ormond R. Bean, Portland city commissioner, officiated at the crowning of Jack, who is the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Amandus Frank. Mr. Frank is a prominent Canyon lumberman.

Jack, or Denny, was crowned with a beanbag cap on his head. Setting for the ceremony was arranged by the Stayton Garden Club.

Manager Gene Malecki interviewed Jack about his plane trip across the continent. Highlight for Denny was a big league ball game between the Boston Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Czech Jolly Dancers of Mill City danced the Beseda, Bohemian national dance, attired in active costume.

Jack' Trip Eventful...

Jack, his mother, Mrs. Frank, and Gene Malecki left Salem by plane Thursday and arrived in Boston the next day. He was greeted by an official delegation. Later he acted as Gov. Dever. He appeared on television and was interviewed and photographed by leading magazines and news services.

Historic points in Boston were visited in his two day stay there. A real gold key was presented to him, with the hospitality of Boston.

'Big Red' to Appear.

"Big Red," the horse that outwalked Paul Smith for 75 miles Sunday, will be in the horse parade Saturday afternoon.

Invited also for the parade are the Riders of the Santiam and horsemen groups from Salem, Silverton, Albany, Scio and Portland. A horse show will follow the parade.

A special bean feast is scheduled. The beans are being barbecued and cooked in the ground in beds of live
