TO THE EDITOR:

We are now in New York City enjoying ourselves by going on sight-seeing tours over the city. Today we are going on a yachting trip and up in the Statue of Liberty. This is a wonderful city. We won't even scratch the surface of the things to see.

Sincerely,
Clyde and Dora Rogers

AMERICAN BANKING IN ACTION

BOTH OF THEM BENEFIT

The druggist back of the counter is proud of his new soda fountain. He might be surprised to learn that the young man on the stool helped him to get it. This is the story: The druggist borrowed at the bank—the same bank where the young man has a thrift account. His deposits, and others, make business loans possible. And the interest on loans helps to pay interest on thrift accounts. Customers and store-keepers help each other. And banks help both.
