The Third Rail

By LEO C. DEAN

The Third Rail is fortunate this week in having as guest columnist J. Coonrod Dusenberry, editor of the Yelton Argus. Mr. Dusenberry, a free and independent editor if there ever was one (there never was) slugs straight from the shoulder. Let the chips fall where they may, though the chill autumn zephers frisk through the bosom of his wan and neurotic seersucker britches. We had thought to admit that these were his wan and only pair, but journalistic ethics and the feeling that J. Coonrod might consider this an invasion of privacy and comb us athwart the dome with the ballbat he uses as a cane gives us the necessary pause. He has chosen as his subject "The Atomic Bomb, or Let's Talk It Over, Joe." His deathless editorial follows.

"Down through the ages, or at least ever since the first barefoot husband paced the icy linoleum and wondered where the goodwife put the baby's bottle, while the clock in the steeple struck the witching hour of twelve, and his first-born emitted screeches that caused Patrolman Clancy, on the gas house beat seven blocks away, to clutch his nightstick with both hands, consisting entirely of thumbs, the problem of the scientist has caused the brow of the scientist to become more furrowed than a washboard. This is granted. But for the sake of clarifying this premise, how did John L. Lewis get into the act? Ah, there we place our finger on the sore spot, which throbbeth even as a deacon's bunion, or as the area on the posterior of Junior, who sat down on the dilligent little honey bee, which is no mean atom itself when goaded. But we digress. Let us not sidle up a side street trying to recall what the governor of North Carolina suggested to the governor of South Carolina, incisive as it was.

"The atom bomb is a ring-tailed snorter. One of them, no larger than a pawnbroker's heart, can upset a man's calculations no end, and the dropping of one of them in Brooklyn is thought to be the only way to ascertain the identity of the scoundrel who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder. To state the case mildly, any country upon which a number of atom bombs has been deposited might as well be his by the seven-year itch, or prohibition.

"So let us approach this matter with circumspection, and not start out with two strikes on us, like King Canute, who attempted to sweep back the sea with one of Ginsberg's sixty-five cent brooms. In fact, the failure of that befuddled old jerk can be directly attributed to lack of clear, follow-through thinking, and not to Old Craekskull whisky, as has been charged. I pause for station identification."

WOMAN

By George Steffy

She's an angel in truth, a demon in fiction—
A woman's the greatest of all contradiction.

She's afraid of a cockroach, she'll scream at a mouse,
But she'll tackle a husband as big as a house.

She'll take him for better, she'll take him for worse;
She'll split his head open and then be his nurse;

And when he is well and can get out of bed,
She'll pick up a teapot and throw it at his head.

She's faithful, deceitful, keen sighted and blind,
She's crafty, she's simple, she's cruel, she's kind.

She'll lift a man up, she'll cast a man down,
She'll make him her hero, her ruler, her clown.

You fancy she's this but you find that she's that,
For she'll play like a kitten and fight like a cat.

In the morning she will, in the evening she won't,
And you're always expecting she will, but she won't.

Idanha

By RHEBA SNYDER

Saturday morning found Idanha nearly devoid of male population, hunting, of course, and some came back with their buck.

The North Santiam Willing Workers held their first fall meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Gordon with eight members present. Mrs. John Sundquist was a visitor. A committee was formed to obtain a Cub-master and Den mothers for the year. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Jerry Pittam and daughters left Friday by train for Portland for Nebraska where they will make an extended visit with Mrs. Pittam's parents and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Snyder and Mr. Pittam drove them to Portland.

Mrs. Ruben Jensen and son, Johnnie, of Astoria, were week end guests at the home of her brother, Lloyd Girod.

Mrs. Chester Cole was taken to a Salem hospital Tuesday morning. Her ailment was diagnosed as a kidney infection. She has been with her mother near Salem since her dismissal from the hospital.

William and Arnold Hiebert of Dallas were week end guests at the home of their brother, Henry Hiebert, and family.

A teachers' reception Monday evening, sponsored by the Deanha PTA in the library of the grade school, was one of the highlights of the year. The evening was given a good start by two vocal solos by Mrs. Cauble, accompanied by Mrs. Skidmore at the piano. Get-acquainted games and fun games were played, followed by dainty refreshments. Of the 15 teachers in grade and high school, only one was unable to attend.

LITTLE ILLS
MAKE BIG BILLS!

• True, that "little illness" you've been mentioning in an offhand way, may not seem to amount to much—just a few faint symptoms. But, neglected, these "little ills" can lead to big bills for doctors, medicines, etc; not to mention needless suffering and loss of precious time. Consult a Doctor now—you'll save by it in the end. And, of course, we hope you'll bring his prescription to us for careful compounding.

'The liveliest weekly in Oregon'

That's what folks outside the canyon are saying about THE MILL CITY ENTERPRISE. Yet just a little over three years ago, The Enterprise was a four page, handset weekly. Like dozens of other businesses, it's growing with the Canyon.
