

PLANT YOUR ROSES IN THE FALL FOR THE BEST RESULTS

All-America Rose Selections advise gardeners in the northern states to take advantage of the fall planting season to give roses a head start. Prune lengthy canes back to a height of 18 to 24 inches as shown at left. Soak roots in water until planted. Dig hole large enough to accommodate roots without crowding and work soil carefully under the roots (center). When hole is two-thirds full, pour in half a pail of water to eliminate air pockets. Fill hole, tamping the earth firmly about the roots and mound soil to a height of eight inches around the base of the plant for winter protection (right).

RELIEF AT LAST

It used to be that the Mill City Theater was for women only. Now there's standing room.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Now They're Sitting Pretty

Squint Miller, who's working as a telephone lineman, was telling me about some birds that got into a fight with his company.

Seems a couple of woodpeckers set up housekeeping in a telephone pole. Nobody minded them living there, but they kept pecking at the wires—causing one short circuit after another.

Finally, the telephone people—who had nothing personal against the birds—just stopped up the hole where they lived. But they kept coming back. At last, the company donated that pole to the woodpeckers and set up a brand-new one for their own use!

From where I sit, we'd all be better off if we were as tolerant with our own kind as that telephone outfit was with the woodpeckers. Let's consider the other fellow's point of view—whether it's his right to live where he wants, or to enjoy a friendly glass of temperate beer or ale when and if he pleases.
