

Elkhorn Consolidation With Mill City

By GEORGE...
Consolidation of the school district with the Mill City system became a reality today when voters accepted the plan in Mill City by a vote of 15 to 1 and Elkhorn accepted 15 to 1.

Only eight voters turned out at the Mill City election at the school while 26 of the 28 eligible voters voted in Elkhorn.

Action to bring the election in the outlying district here will not be carried out at the start of the next school year. Elkhorn district has hired a contractor for the present school year.

Proposed routing of a school route to pick up the youngsters in the Elkhorn district and transport them to the Mill City school building led to much controversy in the district's school board meeting today by Z. E. Merrill, the citizens in the community.

The route would carry the students to the Gates-Elkhorn road, which is a two-mile detour to simplify rates, and to eliminate the use of individual meters wherever possible.

County School Supt. Agnes B. Merrill stated that the changes in the district, effective in January, 1950, were designed to simplify rates, and to eliminate the use of individual meters wherever possible.

Total taxes from the additional school to the local district will be given to the Mill City school system. The school will have more to work with for the next year. This will be used for additional teachers and buildings badly needed here.

A decision for routing the school will be left until the next meeting, Sheythe said.

Soil conservation district formation for Linn county will be discussed at a special meeting at the new Lyons school Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Petitions for formation of the district are being circulated throughout the local area to gain approval of a district in this immediate area.

Anyone owning ten acres or more of land are urged to be present at the special meeting Thursday evening. Several of the soil conservation staff from Stayton will be there to answer any and all questions pertaining to soil conservation.

Those circulating petitions for the formation are Ike Myers, Steve Dark, Chet Blum, Tony Marnick and Elmer Taylor.

Rate Changes In Electricity Due Here

An explanation of rate changes for customers served by Mountain States Power company from its Yamette Valley electric system was made today by Z. E. Merrill, president of the Power company.

Merrill stated that the changes in rates, effective in January, 1950, were designed to simplify rates, and to eliminate the use of individual meters wherever possible.

The new rates were adopted to conform to the practice of other companies on some of its other systems and with the practice of a number of other electric utilities in the Northwest.

The new rates were adopted to conform to the practice of other companies on some of its other systems and with the practice of a number of other electric utilities in the Northwest.

However, will find it to their advantage to change their electric service to receive all of their requirements on one meter. It should be noted that present customers will receive an increased rate as a result of the new rates.

Electric Service Disrupted Here By Failing Tree
Electrical power was put out for three hours and 25 minutes in the Mill City, Lyons, Mehama area Tuesday night when a tree uprooted and fell across a power line between Scio and Lyons, it was reported by the Mountain States Power company officials today.

An emergency power unit carried power to parts of Marion county 45 minutes after the accident, it was reported. Light service in the Stayton area, however, was not disrupted.

The accident occurred at 10:35 p.m., company officials said. Many local citizens used left over candles from the holidays and flashlights during the emergency.

Amalgamated Mine Officials May be Isolated again
Mining company officials living at the old Amalgamated mine located on the Little North Fork, 15 miles above Elkhorn, are in danger of being isolated again, as they were from December through March first of last year.

More than two feet of snow covered the ground New Year's day, seriously hampering transportation to and from the mine.

Loaded with house trailers for Mongold, the semi-truck and trailer belonging to E. R. Hitchman of Salem, came to grief Monday morning. Though the road had been sanded, the equipment skidded and broke a window in the Daves building and also damaged the trailer house on the truck. It was an hour before the wreckage was cleared and the hazard to traffic removed. The upper picture shows how the truck and trailer finally stopped and the lower a close-up of the damage. Ice and Snow Cause Wreck In Mill City

Snow, bad visibility, and icy roads combined to make it tough going for R. B. Hitchman, Salem truck owner, who was transporting a heavily laden semi-truck-trailer load of prefabricated homes from Portland to the Mongold government camp, Monday morning.

About 9 a.m. the truck driver hit the famous Banfields' loop out of Mill City, slid, and lodged against the wall of the Mill City tavern, causing damage to the houses, wall of the tavern, and breaking in the window in the establishment.

Traffic was snarled for more than an hour before the equipment could be turned around. A Hammond stage line bus, as well as travelers through the city were delayed by the accident.

Another truck bound for the same place, and the large semi involved in the wreck, had to return to Salem and wait for better conditions before again attempting the trip.

Two days later, one of the trucks did make it through with a load of houses, it was reported. Stewart's wrecker removed the stalled truck.

Registration of Bicycles With Police Due Here
All bicycle owners are being urged to register their two wheelers with the local police, J. T. King, police chief said today.

Police will register the name, address, number and color of the bicycle for filing. This will facilitate finding of stolen bicycles if such a need should arise.

King said owners can register anytime during the day or evening.

Funeral Service For Gas Victim Held in Stayton

Funeral services for Virgil Johnson asphyxiated victim when his automobile slide into a snowbank recently on the Dalles-California highway between Bend and Klamath Falls, were held at Weddle's Funeral parlor in Stayton Thursday, December 29, with the Reverend Lloyd Whitford of Sutherland officiating.

The body was brought from Klamath Falls, where it was previously reported the burial was to take place.

The victim died from fumes of carbon monoxide from the exhaust of his car after the car slide backwards into the snowbank as he was traveling from Crescent Lake to Bend.

Also killed in the accident were Jack Virgil Friedley and his wife, Druella, of Idanha. The trio had been working the vicinity of Bend.

Johnson was formerly a resident of Mill City and had worked here as a logging truck driver.

He is survived by his wife, Virgie, and four children.

Burial was in the Fox Valley cemetery near Lyons.

Weather Does Not Hamper Dam Project

The heavy fall of snow throughout this locality has not stopped work on the Detroit and Big Cliff dams, although workmen did remain off the job Wednesday, Jack Murray, CBI official reported today.

He added that work has already begun on construction of the aggregated storage plant as well as placing of a 108 inch steel retaining tunnel. The tunnel will be 370 feet in length when finished.

A few new workers are being put on the pay rolls, replacing those who have left the job, he said, but there is no foresight of adding more workers in the near future.

Meanwhile, Colonel Miles reported work is going ahead of schedule at the dam-sites, but snow has stopped work at the new fish hatchery.

Bids will be opened soon on construction of an information booth, to be located on the highway, he added. Bids will also be open for call in the near future for construction of a storage house for rock core. The core, obtained from drilling in the area of the dams, will be saved for general information and inspection.

Fifteen housing units and utilities originally scheduled to be open to call this month, have been temporarily stymied through army negotiations.

Snow and Ice Front Hits Local Area

The universal elements combined forces this week over the Canyon area to furnish a taste of summer, winter, spring, and autumn for residents in the vicinity.

More than six inches of snow covered the ground at Detroit while Idanha reported a good foot of the white blanket stopping transportation through that city. Mill City also had its sub-freezing weather, combined with snow Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Old Sol beamed his flicker of rays down on the city Wednesday afternoon for about two hours, but snow again drifted from the sky Wednesday evening and rain Thursday afternoon.

Both city and state police reported few accidents, even with the hazardous driving conditions along the highway. Police still urge drivers to use caution because of the icy pavement.

Most schools again resumed Tuesday, although busses were hampered by traveling conditions. The Parent Teacher meeting at Stayton was called off because of the weather, but Mill City parents will hold their meeting as per usual.

A scheduled basketball game between Mill City and Turner Friday night will be played, it was reported, although a scheduled non-league game between the Wolves and Chemawa was called Tuesday evening because of road conditions.

Throughout the northwest, floods are endangering several communities in British Columbia, ice flows caused blocking of the Yakima reservoir, cutting off the water supply for some time, and icy roads in Portland and Seattle caused many accidents.

Schools were closed in many suburban communities in Washington state. Railway transportation was delayed for several hours by the weather wave.

Here at home, three families at the old Amalgamated mine 15 miles above Elkhorn were in danger of being isolated by the heavy snows. It was just one year ago that heavy equipment was put into action to carry relief supplies through to the same location. The group, last year, were marooned for more than two months.

Electric power service was cut off for more than three hours in the Mill City area when a tree became overloaded with snow and uprooted, severing a power line in its fall.

Sleigh parties, skiing and general winter time partying occupied the time for most of the younger set in and around Mill City. Planned entertainment and work for the youngsters still carried on.

Travel Hampered By Bad Roads
Accidents have hit a low ebb during the week although rain, snow, sleet, and the many elements of the universe have hampered travel through the Canyon area, Chief of Police J. T. King reported today.

Most serious accident was the Monday morning freak on the hill going through Mill City in which a heavily loaded truck slipped on the icy road and lodged against the Mill City tavern.
