

Mill City Bakery To Add Ready Prepared Rolls

"Brown 'n Serve" rolls, golden crusted and piping hot will pop from home ovens all over town this week with introduction of a revolutionary new "Brown 'n Serve" roll baking process.

The development promises more oven-fresh rolls for local families than ever before. At the same time, according to Mr. Muir of the Muir's bakery the new rolls will lighten the home-maker's mealtime tasks.

It's all because the new "Brown 'n Serve" rolls, as introduced here by Muir's bakery are white but fully formed rolls all ready for browning. The housewife merely places them in her home oven for seven minutes. They emerge deliciously crusted and ready for the table.

The rolls mean a new high standard of eating for local families. Packed in convenient packages, "Brown 'n Serve" rolls will keep ready for quick baking for several days on a pantry shelf, two weeks in a refrigerator, and for four months in a home freezer.

Mr. Muir described the rolls as one of the greatest contributions to better living ever made by the baking industry.

For years laboratories at flour mills, bakeries, and other allied industries have been searching for such products. The problem was to develop a baking method for bakers that produced rolls to the point of full volume and rigidity without any semblance of crust color. Furthermore, the rolls had to have the same texture, flavor and aroma as rolls baked by other methods. Finally a method was discovered that met the necessary requirements and the rolls were named "Brown 'n Serve".

Mr. Muir reports that customers who have tried his "Brown 'n Serve" rolls are highly enthusiastic about them. So much so that he plans to

Why 95% of our farms now have electricity ...

... against a national average of only 78%

Oregon's sensational growth has been possible because of leadership that recognizes the importance of the farm and the farm home in general prosperity. Oregon knows that jobs and business in our cities depend upon the prosperity of the surrounding community.

Mountain States has shared in that leadership. Millions have been invested to extend power lines to provide power machinery and living comfort for farms in our Oregon Territory. Often it has not been immediately profitable. But this faith in the future has paid enormous dividends to the community and the state.

Broad visions to see the future of an area as a whole is important to you and your future opportunities. Selfish, self-centered local interests can sell your future short. What builds the whole community of city and farms builds opportunities for you ... no matter where you live ... no matter what you do.

"What builds the whole community, builds opportunities for you ..."
