Rockets Again Take Win

The Mill City Rockets again rolled over the opposing team when they tripped the Capital Business College 62 to 29 last Thursday night on the Mill City floor.

While the Business College five are members of the Salem city league they were no match for the Mill City team. At no time did the opponents give serious threat. Half time score was 13-31 with the Rockets at the helm.

Coach Ken Chance stated the Rockets would play the toughest game of the season here on Monday night when they meet the Aumsville cagers. The Rockets barely got by with a win with only a 1 point margin when they last met the Aumsville team.

If Mill City can score a victory Monday the league title will belong to them. If they drop the game, another vie with Aumsville will be scheduled. The Rockets now hold the league cup and three successive season wins will entitle them to its permanent possession.

Townpeople are urged to support their team.

MEHAMA

By JEAN ROBERTS
With the cold spell tentatively broken, most people are laughing at the inconveniences suffered during the past week when cars refused to start, radiators froze and broke and chains were a necessity. Several complained of balky motors with Ercill Wilson and Keith Phillips having difficulty starting their cars. Ralph Downer said it required three batteries before his would start. The silver thaw at the end of the week slowed traffic to a snails pace with a glare of ice on the windshields. Some ingenious people however, were successfully using a lighted candle fastened to the dash as a defroster.

Icy streets were a hazard for pedestrians with one man using a scoop shovel as an improvised sled to transport a box of groceries home. A sheet of ice several inches thick surrounded The Pub, with several cars stuck and bets flying hot and heavy as to whether the new sawdust tires could lick the ice.

Telephone service has been partially restored in the Mehama era with the installation of a new line, from Mehama to the Julius Teets home several miles above the town, by a number of local men last week.

Mill City team consisted of Ardith Jones, Phyllis Gibson, Dorothy Downer, Wanda Vandemeer, Dolores Poole, Sue Mikkelsen, Joann Hoffman, Pat Wolverton. Reserves were Pat West, Alona Daly, Arlene Kuhlman, and Phyllis Timm.

The Seniors are now busy taking notes for their research paper in English class. The paper will be their project for this six week period. It is to be fifteen pages on a subject of their own choice.

Those working on the line were Keith Phillips, Pat McCarley, Delbert Bailey, Charlie Bouche, L. Kirkland, Julius Teets, Ray Roberts, Ercill Wilson, and Johnny Lambrecht.

The Home Extension unit met last Friday with Anne Bergholtz giving a demonstration on making draperies. As the weather was bad and pavements icy, the meeting was adjourned early in the afternoon.

A party celebrating her seventh birthday was given Nancy Sue Kelly last week with a large number of children attending; Mehama first graders, some pre-school, and several from Lyons. The children were entertained at the Riverview cafe each one taking home a balloon as a party favor.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Barkmeyer have spent the past week at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kirsch. Owing to snow and weather conditions they were unable to reach their home above Lyons.

The Ladies Aid will hold their next regular meeting Friday February 10 at the home of Mrs. Inez Crook.
