Doctor Explains Polio Statistics

In spite of an increasing population, there has been no substantial increase in the polio death rate, says Dr. Gaylord Anderson of the University of Minnesota school of public health.

"When an infantile paralysis epidemic occurs, there are two outbreaks," Dr. Anderson remarked. "One is an outbreak of polio, and the other an outbreak of hysteria."

The doctor points out that more cases of polio are now being reported because additional types of cases are now included in the statistics.

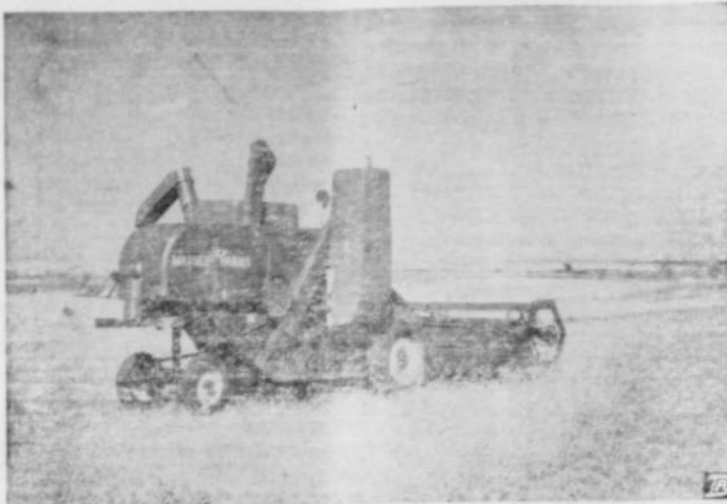

In addition, better methods of diagnosis increase the figure as does the fact that many states did not previously have statutes requiring formal reports on polio cases.

Figures released by Dr. Anderson show there were less than 1.2 deaths per 100,000 persons from polio in any year for the last 16 years.

In the disastrous polio year of 1916, there were ten polio deaths for every 100,000 persons.

Winter Wheat Brings High Price

KANSAS CITY—After spirited bidding, the first carload of winter wheat, a ripple in what will become a flood of golden grain, was sold for $2.44 1/2, regarded as an excellent price. Last year's first carload brought $1.99 1/4. Harvested in Temple, Okla., the first of the new grain was graded as No. 1 hard. It test-weighed 61.7 pounds and protein content was 12 per cent.

Warm, dry weather in southern sections of the winter wheat belt resulted in early maturity of the advanced grain. As the harvest progresses, Massey-Harris Self-Propelled combines like the above will again be seen in large numbers, each machine combining 50 or more acres per day. Rains halted a critical stage in crop prospects in some large-producing areas. Timely moisture brought some improvement in yields and the Department of Agriculture's report of 154 millions in Kansas alone may be topped by 10 million bushels.

Lampblack Used To Get Fish Eggs

When an airplane swept low over ice coated East Lake, south of Bend, this spring and dusted fine soot over the frozen surface of the lake, the state game commission was breaking the way for spring collections of rainbow trout eggs from the 6,400-foot high lake.

The altitude of the lake prevents early melting of the heavy ice cover. Many trout become overripe before spawning crews are able to seine them.

Bob Borovicka, central Oregon fisheries agent, conducted the first lampblack experiments on the lake in May, 1949. Covered by a warming layer of lampblack, ice on the lake melted at the rate of two inches per day.

More than four million trout eggs were obtained from wild rainbow by Oregon state game commission spawning crews this spring. Diamond Lake spawners alone produced nearly two million eggs. At East and Paulina Lakes, spawning rainbow seined from shoal areas were stripped of 370,000 eggs.

Mc Kenzie hatchery yielded 1,538,000 eggs and Spencer creek in the Klamath basin supplied 500,000.

The spring take supplies only part of the trout hatchery demands. Fall spawning rainbow, a hatchery developed strain of trout, provide many million eggs from brood stock held at the hatcheries.

Most of the evening was spent in working out details of the breakfast hop. The meeting adjourned to be continued in a special meeting at the airfield for a pre-show briefing Friday night.

Jack Bartlett was accompanied by Herman Lemke, "his old mechanic", in his visit to Mill City. Earlier, he had visited the Davis airport.

Rock Creek Timber Up For Auction

All salvable timber in the Rock Creek area south of Mill City will be offered at oral auction by the state forestry department at Salem, Monday July 24 at 10 a. m.

The sale involves a minimum of eight million board feet of timber, Lynn F. Cronemiller, assistant state forester, said.

The sale covers salvage of patches and scattered stands of yellow fir, snags, windfalls, hemlock and red cedar on about 7,000 acres of state forest land. This area was logged off some twenty to thirty years ago by the Hammond lumber company.

Present high lumber values make it possible to remove this type of material. It would not be economically feasible to cut this timber under ordinary conditions. Removal of the old stagnated timber and replacement with young fast growing trees is a part of the state forestry plan to get the land back into maximum timber production.

Minimum stumpage prices that will be considered are listed as follows:
Old growth Douglas fir—$5 per thousand board feet.
Western red cedar and hemlock ---$3 per thousand board feet.
