

THE BEST WAY TO WASH DISHES

By Hand or by Machine

From Maine to California women spend up to two hours every day on "the meanest job of all"—washing dishes. In 30 years of married life the dishes stack up a pile twice as high as the Empire State building, an estimated 340 tons of plates, cups, glasses, preparation dishes, pots and pans, not counting silverware. With a job of that size, efficiency saves a housewife countless steps and time.

There are almost as many ways of washing dishes as there are housewives—from splashing the dishes with hot water at one extreme to placing them in an automatic electric dishwasher at the other. For the majority of women who wash them in a dish pan of hot water, Hotpoint home economists make these recommendations for greatest ease and speed.

First, segregate glasses, cups and saucers, and silverware. Place the garbage pail on a stool and use a rubber scraper to remove food from plates. Rinse sticky dishes and cups under the faucet. In the dish pan use a sudsy cleanser in powder or liquid form. These new products drain the water off without leaving the dishes spotted. Do not use too much soap or suds since longer rinsing will be required.

The order you wash the dishes in is not too important but most women start with the glasses and silverware and wind up with the cooking utensils. This cuts down the number of water changes necessary. Rubber gloves are a big help not only in saving your hands, but also in permitting you to use hotter water than your bare hands could stand. Not only should dishes look clean when you are through, but also they should be exposed to sufficient suds to be actually clean. The dish cloth is usually more effective than a dish mop for washing. A brush can be helpful not only on pots and pans, but in removing adamant food matter from the dishes. When the dishes have been placed in the rinsing rack, hot water can be sprayed over them with a faucet hose attachment or poured over them with a teakettle. If you are doing a very small number of dishes, it is handier to hold them directly under the hot water faucet. Dishes should be left in the racks long enough to drain well for best results.

Silverware should not be left too long in the pan of heated water. A few pieces at a time should be given short soaking and then wiped off with a dish cloth.

While many detergent users let the dishes dry in the racks, glasses and silverware should be dried with a towel. A good supply of towels should be on hand for these items and for times when you want to dry them out of the way.

Experience shows that cleaning pots and pans encrusted with grease or food matter is the biggest time killer a woman faces. This is a tough problem to solve but best tips are to have a good scraper on hand, wash these utensils as soon after use as possible or, if you must leave them till later, put hot water in them to soak.

Also watch that food does not boil over on them while cooking. The above suggestions represent a brief consensus on how to cut down the time involved in dishwashing by hand but to top up to an hour and a half from the job, many women have been considering the purchase of an automatic dishwasher. Reports from several thousand owners sent to Hotpoint, largest dishwasher producer, indicate that these machines require less than one half hour daily, since women merely place the dishes in them and start the machine.

There are several types of automatic dishwashers, but the best known and the most automatic have a rack that slides out when the front is opened leaving the top of the appliance as free working surface for stacking dishes. The racks hold 60 dishes, cups, saucers, pots, pans and glasses plus silverware. These are washed and electrically dried at the turn of a dial.

Women who use dishwashers reverse the ordinary hand routine and place the pots and pans in the dishwasher immediately after use to let the machine wash them while the family is eating. The racks are loaded with the dinnerware five to ten minutes after dessert dishes have been cleared. The appliance takes over when the dial is set and 30 minutes later the dishes are dry and can be put away. Some women leave the dishes stored overnight in the machine until ready to use them again next morning. With a large group, the appetizer and dinner dishes can be put in the machine to wash while dessert is served. This leaves only the final course dishes and coffee cups and saucers to be put in the racks before the housewife can rejoin her guests.

The preparation of pots, pans and dishware for a dishwasher is similar to preparation for hand washing which means brushing off all loose foreign matter and for greasy ones, running them under hot water.

For fine china and stemware, a good dishwasher is neither kinder nor harder than hand washing. Where the machine has heated forced air for drying, a point to watch when shopping for a dishwasher, glasses and silverware will dry spotless and sparkling.

Because good dishwashers use water at 150 degrees, which is hotter than the hands can stand, they do a more thorough washing job than can be done by hand.

Before you purchase any dishwasher, you should discuss installation with your dealer or contractor. The best models all require plumbing but with the increased popularity of this modern work-saving appliance plumbers are experienced in installation.
