

Cool to look at; cool to taste! What could be more appealing on a sultry summer day than this luscious Coconut Lime Chiffon Pie. And best of all—especially if you are the one to do it—it's cool to make because this lovely dessert never sees the inside of an oven. That's right—not even for baking the shell. The refrigerator does the job.

You see, this Coconut Lime Chiffon Pie boasts a tasty graham cracker crust—and that, of course, can be put together in no time and then chilled. Without benefit of oven, it is crisp, tender, and delicious.

The filling is whipped-until-fluffy lime-flavored gelatin—a fresh, cool green that makes this pie a real appetizer. It is topped with whipped cream, generously sprinkled with frosty white coconut. A really heavenly dessert with so little effort—and no hot-weather-baking discomfort!

Coconut Lime Chiffon Pie

1 package lime-flavored gelatin ¼ cup cream, whipped
 1½ cups hot water 1 cup shredded coconut, cut
 ½ teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons lemon juice 1 Graham Cracker Pie Shell

Dissolve gelatin in the hot water. Add salt and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Then place in bowl of ice and water and beat with rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold about one-third of the whipped cream and ½ cup of the coconut into the whipped gelatin and turn into Graham Cracker Pie Shell. Spread with remaining whipped cream and sprinkle with ½ cup coconut. Chill.

Graham Cracker Pie Shell: Mix together ½ cup melted butter, 1¼ cups fine graham cracker crumbs, and 2 tablespoons sugar. Press firmly on bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan. Chill.

PNEUMONIA LEADS DISEASES

Six cases of pneumonia led the list of communicable and reportable diseases released by Marion County Health Officer Dr. W. J. Stone this week. Four cases of whooping cough, and two each of chickenpox, gonorrhea and mumps and one of poliomyelitis were reported.

The first night baseball game in Pacific Coast league history was played in Sacramento on June 10, 1930. Sacramento defeated Oakland, 8 to 0, in the game.

FOX VALLEY

By MRS. J. H. JOHNSTON

Mrs. Ivan Smith of Lyons was a Monday morning business caller in Fox Valley. Mrs. Smith's parents have arrived here from Dakota to spend the winter with the Smiths.

Funeral and burial service was held at the Fox Valley cemetery Tuesday for the still-born infant of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Gray of Stayton.

Louis Morgan of route one, Stayton was a Saturday night visitor with Leland West.

Mrs. Walter Bevier is very ill in a Salem hospital since Saturday. She suffered a paralytic attack at her home early Friday and was removed to the hospital Saturday morning. Her condition was reported as unchanged late Monday of this week. Mr. Bevier is some better at present. He has been ill for several weeks.

Mrs. Hugh Johnston and children with Mrs. Earl Thayer and children went to Stayton Monday to pick boysenberries for canning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnston were Sunday dinner guests at the Hugh Johnston home.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff West Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Stout of Willamette and their daughter Mrs. Clark Ainsworth, and son Boyd of Forest Grove.

Traffic Death Total Zoomed in July

Traffic fatalities in Oregon leaped to new highs during July with more than a 100 percent increase over deaths recorded in July of last year and a 67 percent increase over June fatalities.

Preliminary count of last month's deaths reached 50, the worst July on record. The toll may go higher if delayed reports of fatalities are received or if persons now listed as injured later die as a result of their injuries.

May, June and July have been tragic months in the state's accident picture . . . with 31 deaths in May, 30 in June, and 50 in July.

Earlier in the year it seemed probable that Oregon would continue the downward trend in traffic deaths first noted in 1947. Now we are faced with the possibility that this year's accident fatalities will skyrocket to new records unless motorists exercise increased caution on the streets and highways.

Rev. Jones Welcomed By Lyons Methodists

Lyons—A reception was held Wednesday evening at the community club house honoring Rev. and Mrs. O. L. Jones. Rev. Jones is the new minister for the Methodist church. Mrs. Glen Julian, Mrs. Clinton Hubbard and Mrs. George Huffman were on the committee in charge. Mrs. Eugene Royce and Mrs. Art Boltzer were on the program committee. The address welcoming the new minister was given by Willard Hartnell after which Rev. Jones responded. Mrs. Donald Sheythe of Mill City favored with several piano numbers. Games helped furnish the entertainment. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.
