

New Motif in Disposable Fabric Towels

The effect of cool sea breezes is brought into the bathroom this summer by the new "Shells" design of the Masslinn disposable fabric guest hand towels. Made of non-woven rayon and cotton, they come in light and dark shrimp pink, and sapphire blue. Style-coordinated by Dorothy Draper, famed decorator, the new towels have the textured softness and absorbency of linen, and the convenience of paper. No laundry problem here!

ORGANIZED LABOR

SPEAKS OUT AGAINST PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF ELECTRIC UTILITIES

UWUA (CIO)

"It is our firm belief that the best interests of all of the people of this nation can best be served and secured through collective bargaining in investor owned public utility corporation.

Where power is generated in conjunction with worthwhile water projects, the transmission, distribution and sale of such energy should, under proper regulation, be allocated to the private utility companies.

Where investor owned companies fail to provide for the distribution and sale of electric energy then, and then only, should the government undertake such duties."

Excerpt from resolution passed at annual convention of CIO Utility Workers Union of America.

IBEW (AFL)

"The IBEW raises its voice on the subject of public power at this time in the interest of organized labor in the electric light and power industry. We support free enterprise not only in our capacity as citizens of the United States but also in our capacity as representatives of organized labor. The increase in the area of government and quasi-government ownership operation in utilities necessarily carries with it a decrease in the area of freedom for labor as well as other groups.

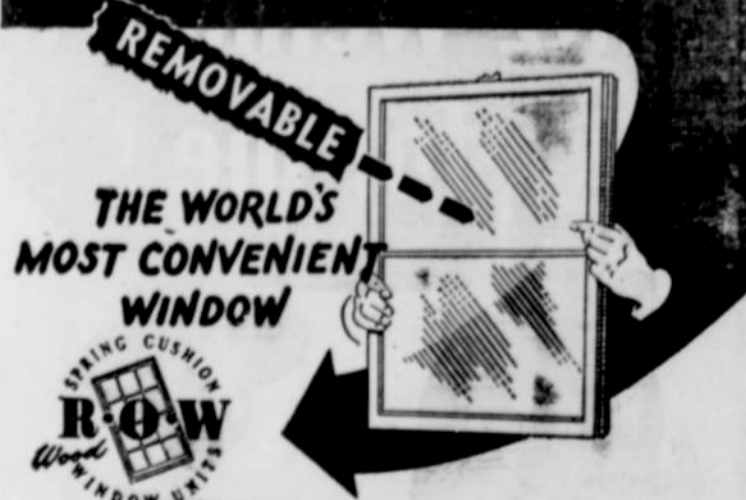

Labor does not choose to have its welfare determined by the administrative orders of government officials no matter how well intentioned they may purport to be."

Excerpt from statement of Executive Council of AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.
