To three-year-old Denny McKinney, adventurous son of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinney, Idanha proved to be a large unexplored world. Deciding Thursday to visit the Idanha Lumber company mill where his dad works, Denny—when just two blocks from home — was frightened by a black dog. When Denny stopped running he found he was some place he had never been before, and had no idea where that was. When Mrs. Frank Ray, who with others were searching for him, found him, he was back of the dry kiln and a very sad boy indeed, and it was a happy and relieved mother who led the wayward boy home.

A hold had robber visited our fair city Wednesday. When Mrs. Carl Schaffer answered the telephone at the Idanha Lumber company office, she glanced toward her home to see a man at their door, looking away and back an instant later she saw no one, being a little suspicious of his disappearing act, she completed the call, donned her coat and went to investigate. When she arrived home this "cool character" was calmly knocking on the open kitchen door of the house, inside the enclosed porch. As if discovering her presence when she opened the porch door he asked if So-and-So lived there. When informed he did not, Mrs. Schaffer's caller said he was from Bend, was looking for work and took his departure, and Mrs. Schaffer then went back to the office.

That evening Carl discovered that the bill-fold in the trousers to which he had changed was empty. He was thankful for once that he had but about $6 in it, which just goes to show that lack of cash on hand is beneficial at times. Carl must have an enemy, as someone swiped the fuses out of his fuse box some two weeks ago, and when the power was being used at that! Oh, well, it takes all kinds.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Dallaire are her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Heft of Portland and her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wisheart and daughters, Linda and Judy of Hood River.
