

Soil Conservation Measures Taken

Henry Thessin, the owner of a farm property five miles southeast of Salem, is just completing 2,500 feet of diversion terrace on a sloping field. This terrace winds around the hill on grade and should intercept surface that has been flowing into and damaging a cherry orchard. Thessin plans seeding the diversion terrace to improved pasture such as is now in the adjoining land.

Over 100,000 feet of tile has been installed the past few months in the Santiam soil conservation district. Tile has been installed on the farms of Henry Miller and Fred Hottinger of Stayton, Tony Minden of Sublimity; Ralph Wilson, Sappingfield and Kleen, Nichols, and the Marchant farm all living east of Salem and north of McClay. Assistance in laying out was secured from SCS Engineers working with the Santiam SCD. Financial assistance was secured from the Marion County PMA located at Salem.

Steve Dark of Mehama has completed two sections of grassed waterway and seeded same to improved pasture mixtures.

A mobile crew of soil scientists, of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, has been soil mapping the area of land east of Stayton including the Mehama and Elkhorn area.

The district D-7 has been constantly busy since last March except for stormy days or breakdowns. Most of the work has been land clearing with limited ditching.

Those children entering Mill City Theatre's "Alice in Wonderland" color contest are instructed that they should clip this picture, color it, put their names and ages plainly on it and give their work to the theatre judges on or before Thursday, Oct. 18. Judging will be on the excellence of the color work done by each contestant.

"There is no entrance charge to this contest. Merely submit your best effort," Robert Veness, proprietor of the Mill City Theatre, commented.

second grade boys. The party honored her son, Duane, on his eighth birthday anniversary. Twelve little boys helped Duane celebrate his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Aronsen and two small sons moved to the Apple Tree Court last week. They have been living with the Jack Christensen family for sometime. Their household goods arrived, Monday from Duluth, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schiewek and family spent Monday in Independence on business. They also called on friends.

W. M. Scott and Leo Bowers were lucky hunters. Each returned home with a buck. About as many black bear have been seen on cars this season as deer. Some say the bear are fat, but many deer are too poor for killing. The extra dry summer evidently didn't shorten the supply of bear food, which could be why the deer are in rather poor flesh.

Mrs. Jack Johnston left Thursday for southern Oregon. She will visit her daughter, Hilda Humphreys, and family at Myrtle Creek. She will spend sometime at Medford visiting her sister, Mrs. Nellie Thomas, and family and friends at Grants Pass before returning home.

Pvt. Albert Miller Fights Communists

With the 7th Infantry Division in Korea—Pvt. Albert T. Miller, Mill City, is taking part in the current assaults against Communist positions in the wild mountain terrain of east and central Korea.

He is a member of the 7th Infantry Division, one of three divisions leading the United Nations attack.

His group participated in the liberation of Seoul, and drove to the Manchurian border earlier in the war and is now above the 38th parallel.

Miller received his basic training at Fort Ord, Calif., and sailed for Korea after a leave at home.

The Mill City soldier has completed six months of service. He recently joined the 17th Infantry "Buffalo" Regiment.
