Detroit High Frosh Entertain Students

Detroit — The freshmen class of Detroit high school played host to the student body Friday evening, Oct. 26, in the basement of the high school. The home economics room was decorated in Halloween colors. Black and orange crepe paper streamers formed an archway overhead and numerous cutouts of black cats and witches decorated the scene. Curtis Kunkel and Frank Barton dressed the black board with hideous faces and a grave yard complete with headstones, witches and ghosts.

Molly Vigil was in charge of game planning; and Joyce Watkins was general chairman for the party.

Although it was announced as a costume party there were a number who did not attend in costume. There were many very good costumes such as a negro family, husband, wife and pickaninny, Mary Gordon, Shirley O'Brien and Patsy Ann Marcks; a Chinese man with coolie hat, sandals and mustache and very realistic was John Davis; a red and white polka-dot clown was Miss Kazi Inuzuka; a very good imitation of a flapper was Jon Tucker; three gypsy girls, Joyce Watkins, Sally Ann Osborne and Loretta Nygaard; a master of ceremonies in cut-away was Robert Lady; an old witch, was Mrs. White. There were ghosts, and goblins, hay seeds and many others who made an enjoyable and entertaining evening.

Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies, ice cream and cider. About 45 persons were served. Thirty-seven were students of the high school.

Deanha PTA Seeks New High School

Detroit—The Deanha PTA met at the Detroit grade school last Thursday evening. It was an early meeting at 7:30 and was followed by a short reception for the teachers. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Alfred Cokenour, president.

Mrs. Ray Walters membership chairman announced that there are 57 paid members in the PTA. Mrs. Jim Gordon reported that Mrs. Booth, county school superintendent, will speak at a meeting for parents who are interested in the plans for the high school here after this year. She will discuss and point out the advantages and disadvantages of the various courses the local district may take. She will outline what must be done by the district if the high school is consolidated or kept where it is.

Mrs. M. B. Miller's room won the prize for having the most parents present. Russel Hoyt, accompanied by Mrs. Otis White, led group singing. After the meeting was adjourned, Mrs. Cokenour asked that all teachers form a line so that all parents could meet them. Miss Inuzuka presented each teacher with a corsage cleverly made from colored autumn leaves, paper pumpkins and black ribbons.

Refreshments were served to about sixty guests in the cafeteria. The committee consisted of Mrs. Dick Farrow, Mrs. S. E. Moore and Mrs. Warner.

MILL CITY

Halloween has hit and citizens study and clean up the results. Certain areas felt the furor of Halloween more than others and in varying ways. Roads got mysteriously blocked. Gates disappeared and railings went down. Windows of business houses, homes, and cars got smeared with soap. The trick-or-treaters got the best end of the whole deal—plenty of goodies and fun. We all remember we were young once . . .

Ladies Scoop Men In Speech Study

The ladies have stole the lead from the men in Mill City by bringing to this city a toastmistress club. The object of such a club as this is the fostering of better speech. Mill City's toastmistress club meets the second and fourth Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. This public speakers group currently is meeting in the homes of its members until a permanent meeting place can be established.

Because of the nature of a toastmistress club membership in the club is limited to 30. A reference list is maintained for those interested, but prevented from being members because of the 30-member limit.

The last meeting of the Mill City Toastmistress club was held in the O. M. Mikkelsen home in CBI addition, Thursday, Oct. 25. Mrs. Lorraine Caughey, temporary president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Vera Hathaway gave the invocation. Mrs. Caughey greeted the members and introduced Mrs. Stewart, hospitality chairman, who in turn introduced guests from Albany, Mrs. Van Dahl, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Fisher.

The president presented the topic mistress, Mrs. Zella Hautala, who gave a choice of two topics, "My Pet" or "Why I joined the Toastmistress Club", and announced the time of speech as one and one-half minutes. Each member spoke. Mrs. Caughey then introduced Mrs. Miley, who greeted the members and presented Mrs. Savage. Mrs. Van Dahl was the evaluator for the day.

Mrs. Savage, temporary treasurer of the club, announced that the dues of the charter members are $5 per year payable in advance. The charter will cost $25 and ties the Mill City group to the international toastmistress club. The membership committee and treasurer duties for the time being are combined. Mrs. O. M. Mikkelsen has the press committee duties.

The next meeting of the Mill City Toastmistress club will be in the Kenneth Crosier home in CBI addition, Thursday, Nov. 8, at 7 p.m.
