Weekly Fruit and Nut Crop Review

With processing only a week away, Oregon strawberry growers are still in the dark regarding prices to be paid by processors, according to the weekly fruit and nut crops review prepared by the OSC Extension Service from USDA reports and other data.

Processors Talk 15 to 19 Cents

Most Oregon processors expect to be operating by the first of next week. No prices have been named as yet but the talk centers around 15 to 19 cents a pound. No one has been willing to make a definite commitment.

In California prices are generally 17 cents delivered to freezer or freezer's receiving station, according to a report received last week on the leased wire.

In some parts of Tennessee and Arkansas processors are still paying 17 to 19 cents with one area in Arkansas reporting a high of 20 1/4 cents a pound for capped berries.

Oregon Strawberries Go To Market

The first volume shipment of Oregon strawberries arrived on the Portland wholesale market this past week. Indications are that shipments will increase rapidly now that harvesting is getting under way. Wholesale prices for local berries are down about 50 cents from the prices paid for the first shipment of berries received last year. The first crate of harvested berries received at Portland this year sold for $3.25. The Narcissus variety wholesaled at $3.50.

On Monday, May 26, some 258 crates of local strawberries were received on the Portland market. Wholesale prices ranged from $3.25 to $3.50, with some poorer quality berries selling as low as $3.00 a crate.

Shipments from California are still coming into Portland in volume and demand is good. Wholesale prices range from $3.50 to $3.75 a crate for California berries. Around 3,000 crates were received in Portland on Monday, May 26.

Local Gooseberries Drop

Gooseberries have been received in fair quantity during the past week but prices this morning were somewhat lower. The first berries received in Portland a week ago sold for 20 cents a pound. Wholesalers on the Portland market this morning were offering gooseberries at 12 to 13 cents a pound. Processing in the Salem area expected to get under way this week. California Cherries on Portland Market

A few California cherries were sold on the Portland market during the past week. In the Portland area 21 lugs were offered to retailers. Prices ranged from $7 to $7.25 for 16 pound lugs.

Cherry harvest in the Milton, Ore., area is expected to get under way sometime during the second week of June, according to reports received

Mill City Hi-Lites

By GARY PETERSON

There's lots of juicy tidbits of interest happening at MCHS, especially since this is the last week of school.

Baccalaureate services were held in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening for the twenty-six graduating seniors. The Class of '52 filed in as Mrs. Doris Sheythe played the processional, Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance". The church choir sang "Bless This House" and Belle Trask sang a vocal solo "Prayer Perfect". Rev. Noble Streeter addressed a fine sermon to the seniors. The twenty-six half-stepped out to the strains of "Largo" played by Mrs. Edna Ross.

The twenty-six seniors graduating from Mill City high this year are: Elnora Albright, Bob Baltimore, Donna Cooke, Elaine Clark, Pat Cree, Alona Daly, Dick Downer, Darrell Farnen, Bill Hamblin, Ardith Jones, Lela Mel Kelly, David F. Keyes, Arlone Kuhlman, Vera Loucks, Denny Marttala, Hazel Neal, Charles O'Kins, Gary Peterson, Dolores Poole, Maxine Scott, Bob Shelton, Delmer Skillings, Shelby Umphress, Glade Waite, Beverly Weathers, and Joyce Irene Westgaard.

Monday and Tuesday were pitfalls in the high school lives of MCHS students this week—semester exams from that area. In The Dalles area harvest is expected to begin around the middle of June.

(excuse the language) were brutally forced on the knothead students who didn't study during the course of the term.

Wednesday afternoon the Student Body got out of the "semester test" frame of mind with a picnic at Breitenbush, where they swam and hiked and ate. Swimmers were somewhat cooled off by the wind which was also rather cool.

An awards assembly was held at one o'clock Thursday afternoon. Baseball and track letters, along with GAA and Honor Society awards, were presented to those earning them. Also passed out at this final meeting were the reports cards along with the students who got them.

Thursday evening (tonight) the Class of '52 will receive their high school diplomas in commencement exercises held in the Mill City grade school gym. Rev. Morton Booth of Albany will be guest speaker and W.L. Krause, the class' 8th grade teacher, will sing a vocal solo. Dolores Poole as valedictorian of the class and Ardith Jones as salutatorian will deliver short speeches. Various students in the graduating class have won scholarships and other awards, and these also will be presented at the commencement exercises.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Paul Williams and Mrs. Bert Morris collaborated on a combination going-away and birthday party in honor of Dick Williams. All members of the junior and senior classes were invited to this surprise party. Highlight of the evening was a hot-dog roast by the edge of the river. Later on, after a gift-opening period, ice cream, cake and punch was served. Good luck, Dick!

Inasmuch as this is the last week of school, this, too, is the last Mill City Hi-Lites column I'll have my by-line on, so those faithful readers of this epic literature can breathe a sigh of relief until next fall when Richard Lovel takes over the typewriter and emits. Right now, I'd like to thank the kids that thought I could write well enough to elect me their publicity manager, and those hardy folks who kept on reading this column all year. Farewell, etc.

COLOR BLINDNESS DOES NOT STOP ONE FROM PLAYING CARDS

It is not true that color blindness eliminates a person from playing card games, says the Journal of the American Medical Association which points out that "in all card decks, the suits are distinguished as much by the form of the pips as by the color. Even if the red card appears as a drab gray, the intensity of the hue is sufficiently different from that of the black cards to permit recognition even if unaided by the shape of the pips."
