Camp Fire Leaders Hold Training Camp

Leaders of Camp Fire Girls in the Willamette area council had a one-day session of fun, fellowship and training in directing their groups when they met at Camp Kilowan on May 27. There were sixty leaders from the three counties, Marion, Benton and Polk counties which comprise the Willamette area council. Three leaders attended from Mill City. An authority on nature, Mrs. Elwood Smith of Corvallis conducted several interesting excursions during the day.

After gorging themselves on tasty food, the group assembled near Lake Kiloqua where they could supervise their young children playing in the shallow water, and Mrs. Ben Greenwood of Corvallis told some of the history and traditions of Camp Kilowan. Mrs. Greenwood was the first director of camp in the early years when there were no cabins on the present site. The younger high school girls' unit now is named for her.

Mrs. Carl Bryan, a Blue Bird leader from Salem, led camp singing. Mrs. Sylvia Forbes demonstrated an interesting craft project which could be done with simple equipment. Mrs. Forbes is director of Camp Kilowan this summer.

Mrs. Charles Harmon and Mrs. Lee Pinkston of Mill City gave short, clear and very helpful demonstrations of bed-rolls and packs. Mrs. Cortland Rue also attended from Mill City.

Camp Kilowan is owned and operated by the Willamette area council of Camp Fire Girls, which is an agency of the Community Chest. However, no chest funds are in any way used for camp, which is supported by the co-operation and endeavor of members and friends of the Willamette area council of Camp Fire Girls, who donate their time, work and finances so that this fine camp may serve their daughters in this area. Mill City has had seven fine groups of girls in this character-building organization this past year. This work can be carried on only by means of the help and support of the Community Chest which contributes to the Willamette area council of Camp Fire Girls.

Jim Cooke has returned home for a few weeks visit before leaving on a summer cruise with the navy.
