Mikkelsen-Poole Wedding Vows Read

One of the lovelier weddings of the holiday season was that of Miss Susan Elizabeth Mikkelsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Mikkelsen of Richland, Wash., to Leo Albert Poole, of Monmouth, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Poole of Mill City.

Bouquets of white flowers adorned the altar of Central United Protestant church of Richland, Wash., for the Saturday afternoon wedding with tall baskets of white flowers on either side.

The Rev. Robert A. Uphoff officiated at the double ring ceremony and the bride's father escorted her to the altar.

She was attractive in a floor length gown of eyelet embroidered organza, fashioned with the three tiered skirt draped to a longer length in back and worn with tiny jacket with mandarin collar. Her close fitting cap of embroidered lace held the handmade, fingertip veil of net, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

Miss Betty Millsap, maid of honor, Miss JoAnn Hoffman, Miss Dolores Poole, the bridegroom's sister, serving as bridesmaids, wore floor length gowns of contrasting pastels and carried harmonizing bouquets.

James I. Poole was best man for his brother with William J. Mikkelsen, the bride's brother, William Poole, cousin of the bridegroom, John Tacke and Jack Lacey, ushering. Mrs. Gordon Pappas provided the traditional organ music.

To greet her daughter's wedding guests, Mrs. Mikkelsen wore a turquoise wool dress with white accessories and matching corsage.

Fall colors of browns, yellow and white were used in the floral arrangements for the reception following in the church parlors and Mrs. J. O. Murray and Mrs. Robert Hammersmith assisted with the serving. Miss Marilyn Lockwood was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride wore a brown, white and grey checked suit with black accessories and a corsage of ivory baby roses. The young couple will make their home in Monmouth.

The bride attended school in Mill City and the University of Oregon. She is affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta, Kwama, woman's honorary, and the YWCA senior cabinet. The bridegroom also attended high school in Mill City and is a student at Oregon College of Education, formerly attended Oregon State college.
