introduced and some that will cause a great deal of debate in the coming session. Among them he cited the bill to come up setting up liquor by the drink regulations, with the local option clause drawing considerable attention, and the proposed bill to create one tax collecting agency, along with a legislative districting bill giving representation to rural areas such as in Marion county where all four representatives come from within the city limits of Salem. He stated that Harry S. Dorman's purchasing office report would show that over $500,000 had been saved since all state purchases had been consolidated into the one office, and that this record might help considerably in getting other consolidations put into effect.

Hatfield was critical of the state's antiquated commissions and boards system of state government, but expressed little hope of change, because the people were slow at changing customs of many years standing. He urged groups and organizations or individuals to write letters to their representatives expressing their wish, or better still to appear before committee hearings to make their wants known at the time bills come up for hearings. He requested that anyone wishing to know the time of these hearings write requesting they be notified when such hearings are scheduled that they may be interested in. The next meeting of the North Santiam Chamber of Commerce was set for Gates on February 4th. After the meeting adjourned the Sublimity members and their ladies served coffee and donuts to the large attendance present.

The Gates Parent-Teachers association is planning a box social and card party to be held in the recreation rooms of the high school, Saturday evening, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m. Ladies attending are requested to bring box lunches or be subject to $1.00 fine. Coffee will be served by the P.T.A. Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Cole entertained New Year's Eve at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Henness and Mrs. Minnie Everton, Mrs. Cole's mother.

The Gates school opened Monday after an 11-day vacation. Two new faces will greet the students upon their return. David Barnhardt has

New Fan-Shaped Glass Backboards

The new fan-shaped basketball backboards made of Herculite will provide greater free visual area for spectators. Development of the fan-shaped glass backboard came as a result of scientific measurement of places hit by a basketball. The study revealed that the important area is in the shape of a big fan or kidney, which eliminated the necessity of a four by six foot rectangular backboard. This latter type has been mandatory on recommendation of the Association of College Basketball Coaches. Fan-shaped backboards already have been approved by the National Basketball Committee and have gained in popularity with high schools and secondary schools. Long vigorous tests under actual playing conditions have shown that 3/8-inch Herculite is four to five times stronger than ordinary glass of the same thickness.

been engaged to take over the janitor service for the two buildings while Charles Tucker will become the new bus driver for the shorter run on the Linn county side of the river. Harold Wilson, who resigned Dec. 24, has handled both jobs in combination for the past 13 years. T. Henness, who has been seriously ill at his home for several weeks, is slowly regaining his strength and is able to be up part of each day. Tillman Raines, who has been hospitalized in Salem for the past three weeks, following surgery was brought home Sunday afternoon. He is reported to be doing as well as could be expected after his serious illness. In 1948 Wilson received an award from the Oregon Motor Transport association, whose slogan was "Safety Is No Accident," as outstanding commercial driver for the month, he having driven the bus for nine years without an accident. His record to date is still clear.

New Year's day guests at the Clarence Rush home were Mr. and Mrs. B. Hales of Salem and Mrs. Mary Evans and two daughters from Marysville, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Henness were hosts in their new home on King's Prairie to a group of the younger set who danced the old year out and the new year in. Their guests were the Misses Patty Stewart, Betty Tucker, Barbara Haun, Carol Andreasson, Elda Webster, Birdie Larson and Isabelle Blackburn. Also Jerry Larson, Earle Henness, Mervin Haun, Wilmer Crites, Herbert Romey and James Carey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hudson entertained at Salem Tuesday morning for a two weeks' vacation to be spent in Phoenix, Ariz., their former home. On their return trip they will stop over in Los Angeles, Long Beach, and Sacramento, Calif., to visit. Mrs. Jesse Haywood will operate their business, the Gates Automatic Laundry, during their absence. Joe Joaquin and his mother, Mrs. Laura Joaquin are in Oakland, Calif.,
