

Canyon Avenue Parade

By DON PETERSON

One of Scouting's biggest events, its Court of Honor, came last Wednesday evening and was hardly noticed by most of the parents of the boys involved. Isn't it strange that they will not come out to these really big events in the lives of their boys?

Scoutmaster Charles Kelly has given at least one night a week during this past year to guide these boys in their scouting work. Most of the time there has been at least one troop committeeman from the Lions club, the troop sponsoring organization, present to assist the scoutmaster in his work. They have given many hours of their time to make the troop a successful group of boys. One night from a parent on Court of Honor night would prove very encouraging to these men. Bob Veness has taken on the duties of assistant scoutmaster and has proved popular with the boys while he has been conducting work in signal work and some of the working of electronics.

These men deserve a great big handshake and vote of thanks for their devotion to the program of Scouting. Let's see that they get our thanks!

Hospital Auxiliary Financing Blood

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Santiam Memorial hospital is very busy this week carrying out plans so free blood may continue available in Marion county hospitals. Because the Red Cross money raising campaign did not reach its quota the free blood program will be discontinued in Marion county unless $5,500.00 is raised before July 1.

At the present time blood is furnished to all hospitals from donated blood. This is delivered weekly to hospitals by the Red Cross and no charge is made to the hospitals for the blood or delivery. In turn the hospitals provide the blood free to patients. There is a laboratory charge in the hospitals when blood is used as follows: blood typing, $1.50; cross-matching, $2.50; RH factor determination, $3.50; disposable tubing to administer blood, $1.50. The cross-matching must be done for every pint used. There is no charge for the blood, itself.

The only time direct donors are used is when there is not enough blood of that particular type on hand in Red Cross supplies. The same laboratory charges are made for this except they generally run to a large amount because matching the typing must be done until the correct match is made and more containers and supplies are required than with Red Cross blood.

The first month of opening, operating at only a very small part of capacity, the Santiam Memorial hospital has used 12 pints of Red Cross blood.

If Marion county must carry out its own blood program, many people would have to pay from $35 to $50 a pint for blood from professional donors. The laboratory fee would be added. There would not be enough blood available from free donors.

The Auxiliary is relying on voluntary donations which may be given to G. W. Schachtsiek at the First National Bank, Stayton, and to D. B. Hill, Mill City Bank.

Letters are being sent to all churches, organizations and schools in the area asking them to solicit voluntary contributions from their students and members as individuals.

The Nurses organization, a part of the Ladies Auxiliary, will have charge of collections which will be taken up at the Star theatre in Stayton and the Mill City theatre. Dates for this will be announced later. Agnes Kirsch, president of the Nurses organization will have charge of this in Stayton and Robert Wingo, R.N., will conduct the collection in Mill City.

A benefit tea will be given by the Ladies Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. R. D. Paris, Stayton, early in June. Mrs. Paris will head the committee in charge and all ladies in the Santiam valley will be invited to attend.

Fred Winburn Killed in Canyon Auto Accident

Fred Winburn, a Mill City logger was killed instantly early Sunday when the light sedan in which he was a passenger skidded off the North Santiam highway and plunged 600 feet down the canyon wall, almost to the banks of Detroit reservoir. Two other occupants of the car escaped serious injuries. Winburn, 61, had resided in Oregon for the past 20 years.

Injured were Joe Challender, 39, Mill City, driver of the 1937 Ford coach; and Eugene Roland Fluitt, 33, also of Mill City. Fluitt was released from Santiam Memorial hospital at Stayton after treatment of superficial wounds, as having a dislocated hip. Both were apparently thrown from the car in its roll down the canyon.

Deputy Coroner Charles Edwards said Winburn, whose body was found in the wreckage, apparently died instantly. He said it appeared that the car failed to make a sharp curve in the highway about three miles above Detroit dam and skidded about 300 feet through loose gravel before plunging down the mountain.

Fluitt, least injured in the 3 a.m. accident, crawled back to the highway for help. Buck Delano, Detroit, carried Challender back up the rock-strewn slope to an ambulance.

Winburn was hospitalized several days last month in Salem as the result of another auto accident on the Santiam highway. He had only recently returned to work for the North Fork Logging Co. of Mill City. He made his home in a trailer-house at Mill City.

The accident victim is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn McCarthy of Waldport; son, Eddie Winburn, Eureka, Calif.; mother, Mrs. Betsy Ann Franklin, Salem; sisters Mrs. Etta Yoss, Salem; and Mrs. Shirley Russell, Sandy; brothers, Vernon Winburn, Salem and T. B. Winburn, in Colorado.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Weddle Funeral home of Stayton.

Winburn was born November 23, 1891 in Irvin, Ky., and came to Oregon in 1933. He had been in the Army during World War I but did not see overseas service. He had been employed as a logger in the Marion county area much of the past 20 years.

Eagles Start Work On Their New Home

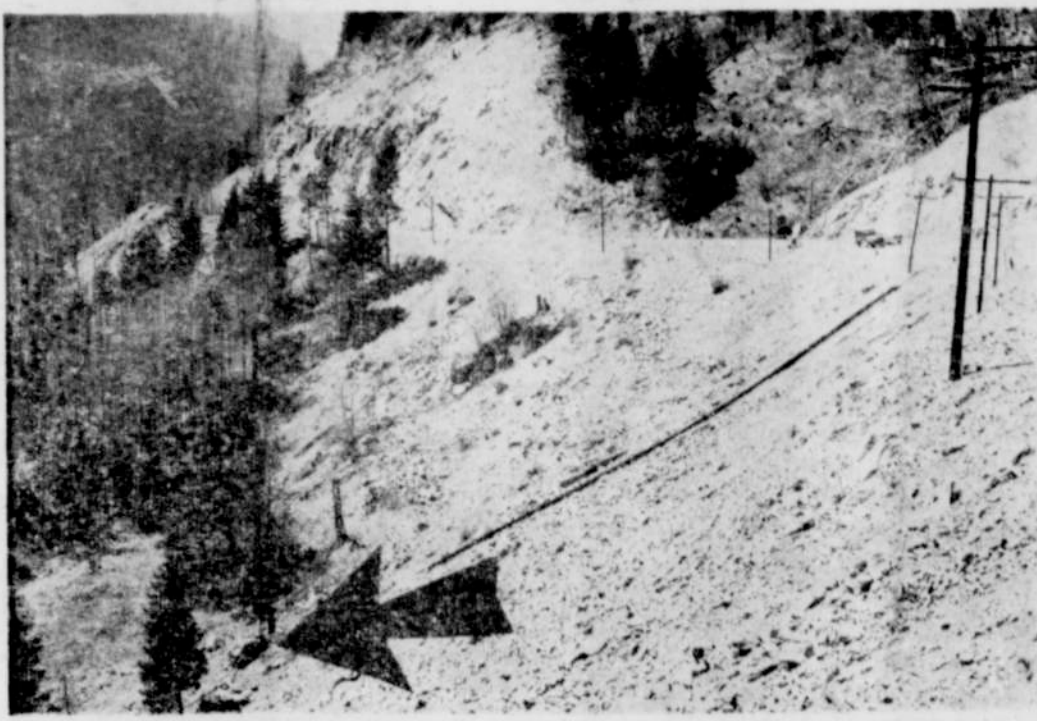

Detroit—Members of the F.O.E. and Volunteers have been busy the past week tearing down one of the buildings at Mongold, donated to them by the government.

Members of the Auxiliary armed with hammers, wrecking bars, saws, etc., are really putting them to some good use. They are no softies.

Once in a while the King's English gets kicked around when the hammer smacks down on a sensitive finger, or a stubborn nail refuses to budge. Or that nice beautiful board is almost off, and bingo, goes an ugly looking crack.

But it is all in a day's work, and the constant laughter and chatter of the workers takes the ouch out of smack.

Mari-Linn School Is Hub of Community

By JEAN ROBERTS

Lyons—Though the present school term is about to end, Mari-Linn school looks back over a busy year of achievement. Combining districts in both Marion and Linn counties, the school has been the hub of community activity.

Scarcely a night has passed during the year that the school buildings have not been in use. A large dining or general-purpose room, added this year, has been used by the whole community.

Twice a week from morning until noon, a kindergarten is conducted by mothers of pre-school children of the district, in this new room. The Cub Scouts, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher club, hold their pack meetings here.

The local church group, whose church and community hall burned last Christmas also make use of the new all-purpose school room. Banquets and benefits are held there. Telephone meetings or any gathering of public interest centers at the school.

The school gym nearby, does not stand idle as many do in other communities. Each Tuesday night half of the double gym is open to the young people of the community to roller skating. Skates are rented for a small fee and to date 200 pairs of skates, a record player, records and a microphone have been purchased from the skate rent.

The town basketball team made use of the gym all winter for practice and games. Occasionally teen-agers of the district hold dances and parties there, also.

The school building itself does duty five days a week and also Saturdays.

People in the Mari-Linn district believe in making use of the school buildings. First by schooling the children of the district and second by accommodating the parents who paid for the school.
