Toastmistress Panel Discusses 'Charm'

"Charm" was the theme of the regular Toastmistress meeting Thursday night, June 11, Ruby Crosier, president, gave the invocation and presided. Edythe Means was topicmistress.

Vera Hathaway brought as her guest her daughter Nellie; Lucille Lowery had Tearly Muir as her guest, and Barbara Yarnell brought her sister-in-law, Dolores Lowery, a visitor in Mill City from Portland.

The "Charm" panel was made up of Toastmistress members Aline Steffy, Barbara Yarnell, and Louise Palmer, with Edna Hutcheson in the role of moderator.

The panel covered as many aspects of "Charm" as was possible in the time allotted for this portion of the program, including discussion as to the part charm plays in grooming, etiquette, and effective conversation. A general discussion was held on the subject of charm in human relationships—both in the business and social worlds, and in our every-day home life.

During the course of the business meeting, a panel was submitted by the nominating committee, for officers of Mill City Toastmistress club during the next year. A unanimous ballot was ordered cast after vote was taken, and the new officers will be installed at the next regular Toastmistress meeting on June 25th. An announcement of the new officers will be made after the June 25th meeting, along with an account of the installation ceremonies.

The fisherman's tale, the big one got away, went into reverse this week when Gervel Hill landed a trout measuring 22 inches long, and weighing 4 lbs. 4 1/2 ounces dressed. Where did he get him? In Rainbow lake. He was a little backward about coming out. Had to back him into the net. Said they seen his granddad in there too. Maybe so. How did he taste? A little muddy they said, whatever that means.
