Remember to Stop For School Buses

Renewed attention to Oregon's school bus stop law will soon be in order as schools throughout the state re-open for another year. Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry reminded motorists Friday.

The law calls for drivers approaching from the front or rear to stop when a bus is stopped to load or unload children. If children are not leaving the bus drivers can proceed after stopping, Newberry cautioned.

This year, many buses will be equipped with red flashing lights on the front and rear as an additional warning to motorists that children may be in the road and that they must remain stopped.

Only time vehicles are not permitted to stop when the big yellow buses are picking-up or discharging passengers is when approaching the bus from the opposite direction on a three-or-more lane highway.

Strict enforcement of the law, Newberry said, should be expected.
