Regional Toastmistress Meeting Held Saturday

Council No. 2 Northwest Region International Toastmistress Clubs convened at Fellowship hall here November 5.

The 12:30 luncheon was followed by the business meeting and program. Evelyn Prugh of the Stayton club conducted the business meeting when a resolution was passed to be sent to ITC asking that a more flexible scale of price ranges be allowed in housing and eating facilities at Toastmistress conventions. Mrs. Prugh stated she would be attending a Regional workshop in Portland and asked anyone wanting ideas presented or desiring information to contact her.

Ten clubs were represented at Saturday's council meeting: Eugene, Evergreen, Fu-Lane, Philologist, Albany, Chemeketa, Mill City, Salem, Stayton and Lebanon. Those not present were Springlane and Redmond.

The invocation was given by Ruth Ullman of the Salem club and the welcome by Arta Glidewell of the Mill City club. Ellen Pearson of the Evergreen club gave the response.

Topicmistress for the afternoon was Florence Graville of the Philologist club of Junction City with the theme "The Spirit of November." Toastmistress was Edythe Means of the Mill City club. Distinguished guests present were Lola Leach, northwest regional supervisor from Victoria, B. C., and Ethel Daniel, ITC director from Eugene. Other Council officers present were Vice chairman, Edythe Means; secretary, Mary Willis; treasurer Frances Eckhart and junior past chairman, Virginia Frye.

Eunice Phillips, education chairman presented an educational program by the Stayton club, of which she is a member. Mrs. Leach gave an instructive talk to the group on "Pointers in Evaluation" with audience participation.

The Eugene club, first place winners in the ITC program planning contest, gave their winning program with Midge Proudfoot acting as Moderator. The Albany club presented a symposium "Building a winning speech contestant" with Frances Eckhart acting as moderator. Mrs. Eckhart is a many-time speech contest winner at various levels.

"Parliamentary Reminders" was presented by the Lebanon club with Ellen Wilshire and a panel giving this in skit form.
