Flying Bluebirds Meet At Albin Coopers

The Flying Bluebirds met at the home of our leader Mrs. Albin Cooper Monday after school with Mrs. A. L. Olmstead assisting.

Officers were elected with Cynthia Cobine chosen as president; Sandra Warner, vice-president; Carol McCall, treasurer; Linda Olmstead, reporter; Peggy Cooper, flagbearer; Bluebird Wish, Kathy Duggan, and Helper, Barbara Sawyer. Cynthia said they were moving away in February but she will be president until then.

We played games instead of working on crafts. All the Bluebirds served refreshments. Linda Olmstead, reporter.

Installation Held For Rev. Dick Cole

Formal installation of the Rev. Richard B. Cole as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Mill City was conducted by the Presbytery of Willamette at impressive rites Sunday evening in the church sanctuary. A large group of members and friends of the church were present.

Distinguished members of Willamette Presbytery here to participate in the installation service included the following: Dr. Robert Daugherty, moderator of Presbytery, Salem; The Rev. John MacDonald, minister, First Presbyterian church, Dallas; The Rev. Leigh Taylor, assistant minister, Westside Presbyterian church, Seattle, Wash.; The Rev. William Hiser, min-

Small Crowd Out For Club Meeting

Only seven members of the Mill City Woman's club turned out for the regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jerry Pittam due to the inclement weather. Even the president, Mrs. Don Paul, was unable to be present because of other commitments, so Mrs. Pittam, vice president, conducted the business session.

Following the "club collect" the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. C. Kimmel, and the treasurer's report was given by Miss Daisy Geddes. It was stated that many individual dues are not in as yet, and it is time to pay the per capita dues each to the Oregon Federation, so it would be appreciated if members would see that their

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

WHAT MORE CAN A HUSBAND ASK FOR!

Dear Amy:
I am writing about my wife. She is 2 months pregnant and we already have 4 boys. She is always complaining about being tired and sick. I know that the kids take up most of her time but it seems like the housework is never caught up. I think she's lazy, don't you? The three boys that are home are all under 4.

Wondering:
P. S. She cooks and manages to straighten up before I come home at night, but that's all!

Dear Wondering:
I'm wondering what more do you want? If the house is straightened, the children taken care of and your dinner ready, you have nothing to complain about. Her complaints about being tired are justified. She IS tired! If you want her to keep up with the housework, cut down on her homework!!!

Dear Amy:
I am a widow of 64. My husband has been dead for 25 years and I'm very lonely. I've tried living with my married children but I can't stay with them because they do things to hurt me. I try to help them in any way I can but it's never appreciated. Should I get married?

Dear Rickey:
If you have a man in mind that will appreciate you, by all means, marry him. You have been lonely long enough! Good Luck!

Dear Amy:
I am a lovely girl of 14 and have never dated a boy. My mother says I never can. I also dance but she doesn't think I should.

Lonely Bee:
I'm quite sure your mother doesn't mean "never". You are too young to start dating regularly and you should respect Mother's wishes until the time she feels you are ready. In the meantime, perhaps she will permit you to attend social functions at school or invite a few friends to your home for special occasions. . . .

Dear Amy:
Every year the married couples in my neighborhood throw a New Year's Eve party and we all chip in time and money to make it a gala evening. There is one couple that we are still trying to collect from for last year's affair. She was the first to call me up and ask where we are having this year's party. I told her that as yet it had not been decided upon but actually I would like to discourage her from coming. How can I do this without starting trouble? Peevish

Dear Peevish:
What you want to do will certainly create hard feelings. I suggest that you forget about last year's party and inform your friend that this year the party is on a 'Pay-As-You-Go' plan. You pay as you go . . . IN!

Dear Amy:
I met a boy while I was in the Dayton T.B. Hospital. He worked in the lab while I was there. The same day I got my transfer to the State T.B. Hospital, he went back to medical school.

Dear R. J. K.:
You have stimulated more than a professional interest because his attention far exceeds the usual medical therapy. Time will tell what the future holds. His M.D. might lead to your M.R.S.! Good Luck!

Personal to K. P.:
Get your husband to put one of the properties in your name otherwise his children can really put you out in the "COLD"! For a detailed explanation of the laws of your state, see a lawyer or the Legal Aid Society.

dues are paid as soon as possible. Several cookbooks are still on hand. Mrs. Harry Mason suggested that petition forms be secured for signatures of those interested in preventing the unsightly appearance of billboards along our highways. These will be circulated in the near future. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing Bingo, proceeds of which were to be donated to the scholarship loan fund. Several dollars were raised through the use of white elephants as prizes. Hostesses for the refreshments served later were Mrs. Harry Mason and Mrs. J. C. Kimmel. Others attending included Mrs. John Swan, Miss Daisy Geddes, Mrs. Charles Kelly, and Mrs. James Putman.
