Mrs. Willard Gabriel presided at a meeting of the American Field Service chapter held Monday evening at the home of George Stovall.

There was considerable discussion on further plans for entertaining Okinori Ono, exchange student from Japan. It was pointed out that anyone desiring to entertain him or take him on a short trip might do so by contacting Mrs. Gabriel or other AFS members.

It is planned to take him to the coast; a trip to Eastern Oregon; fish hatchery and Detroit dam tour and other places of interest.

George Humphreys, home placement chairman said it was again time for anyone wanting a student in their home next year to contact him or Mrs. Jack Duggan and an interview will be arranged. The requirements for having a student are not at all difficult and those who had such an experience agree that it is a rewarding one.

Plans for having a three-act play by members of the AFS were tentatively made and Mrs. Jan Erickson will select a play suitable for the group with April selected as the month for presentation.

Santiam Ripples

By Ed McCurdy
After a 12-day vacation getting up in the middle of the night to attend school at 8:30 is quite a jolt. But we only had to go three days last week, and we're now getting use to it again.

Every Friday in P. E. we get a special treat. Dancing lessons from our light-footed instructors, Mrs. White and Mr. Kosydar. Some of us are learning to trip the light fantastic but most of us are just learning to trip more gracefully. So far we've learned the fox trot and swing (slow-slow-quick-quick) the stop (one, two, three, four, five, one, two, three kick, one two three. It's long), and the Cha-Cha (one, two cha cha cha). Next week is finals week. Everyone is cramming for the semester tests, and working hard to get in those term papers and notebooks they've overlooked up 'til now.

Time spent on applying make-up and assembling an outfit pays big fashion dividends. "A dress might be stylish and 'just right' for you, but if it is wrinkled, slightly soiled, or minus a button, the fashionable image is shattered. The crisp cleanness of each garment is as important as its style."

Smart Homemakers Tell Us:

To keep rim of a plate from becoming messy while you frost a cake, try this. Lay strips of waxed paper on the plate. Place the cake on the paper. After you finish spreading frosting, gently ease out the paper strips, leaving a neat and clean area around the cake.

No more aching fingers from trying to unscrew the cap of a bottle of nail polish which has become solidly stuck since the previous use. Just wax the screw top section of the bottle the first time you open it and you'll have no further trouble. Use either a furniture or a cleaning and polishing wax.

RAMBO'S RAMBLINGS

By Goldie Rambo
I really don't have much to say and this will be a good week to say it as the main subject of thought and conversation seems to be the school bond issue and/or reorganization.

There are a lot of experts giving out information on this subject so I will not express myself, which will no doubt be just as well.

Was trying to comb my hair this morning and it has reached the stage where that is quite a problem. But anyhow I was "teasing it", as they say nowadays. Have to laugh at this expression—in "my day" it was called rattling. Maybe that is a sign of the times, calling a plain fact by another name. Fashion Note: The Cleopatra Look which brought on this hair wrestling bit is supposedly on the way out—as far as I am concerned, it was always WAY OUT.

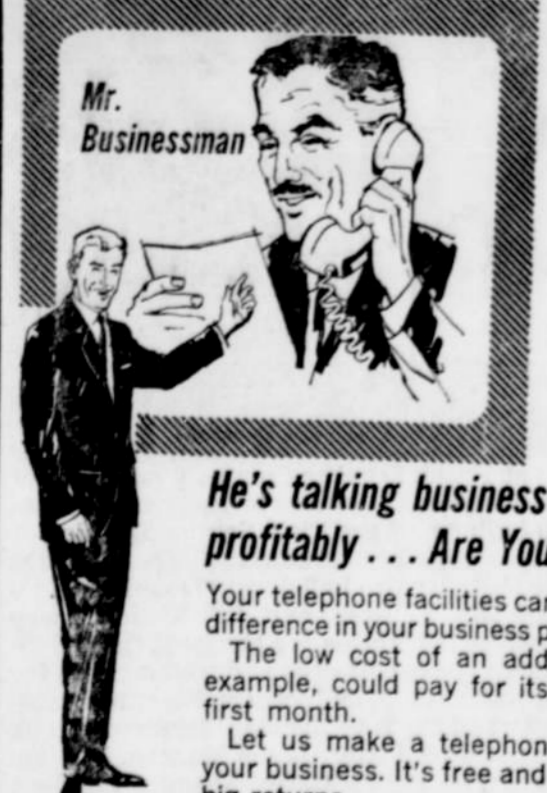

Was listening to one of my favorite radio commentators this morning—John Salsbury. He had quite an engrossing subject and no doubt many of you listened, but it was a subject I will just mention in passing. He was talking about how different the term "square" is nowadays compared to its former meaning. We used to think of a square deal, putting our shoulders squarely to the job, square with the world, and so on. In other words it was a good feeling. But now a square is someone or thing we must at all prices avoid being—with the young people using the word to expressing their feelings for someone that definitely isn't with it!

We hear so much about the middle aged or older person being unable to find employment—well as far as women are concerned I have about decided they don't want to work (for pay) at one type of thing—and that is housekeeping. We have been trying, with the aid of friends and neighbors, to find a housekeeper for my parents who are in poor health. But it seems to be a non-existent type job.

One of my friends said to me today, "how about going to the welfare department and asking them to take one of their able bodied women off the rolls." Probably a good idea.

How did you come out with your postage stamps this week—did you buy 1c ones to go with your 4c stamps—2c's to go with the 3c or just give the whole thing up and send it by carrier pigeon? One thing about it, postoffices throughout the country were crowded with people Monday morning—almost like the Christmas rush.
