

IN OREGON

BEER IS A NATURAL

Brewed slowly, by a centuries-old natural process, beer is Oregon's traditional beverage of moderation—light, sparkling, delicious.

And naturally, the Brewing Industry is proud of the millions of dollars it contributes to this state's economy through wages, advertising, rentals, insurance, transportation and utilities. Money made in Oregon, spent in Oregon. In Oregon, beer belongs, enjoy it.

Legislature Grinds to an End With Many Issues Undecided

In these last few days of the 1963 Legislature, it becomes almost impossible to evaluate the outcome of some of the major pieces of legislation. As is generally the case, the more important problems are never resolved until the last couple of weeks of each session. This is especially the case with regard to the major budgets before Ways and Means such as education, welfare, highways, etc. The Joint Taxation Committee conference cannot complete its work until they know what the total General Fund requirements are going to be.

However, it seems fairly clear that the total General Fund budget will closely approximate Governor Hatfield's recommended budget of $405 million. The important difference is that Governor Hatfield recommended a $405 million General Fund budget with an added bonded program for buildings, principally higher education. The Ways and Means Committee has turned thumbs down on this "mortgaging in the future" proposal and is incorporating a more limited building program into the General Fund appropriation.

It also is perfectly clear that about $60 million of new tax revenue will be raised to balance this budget. There is, however, considerable controversy remaining, principally between the House and Senate, as to how this money should be raised. Senate majority members want to raise it from income taxes and a "one-shot" device of speeding up payment of withholding taxes by employers. The House generally feels that the income tax burden should be less severe and 12 to 15 million dollars should be raised from imposing a cigarette tax. Oregon is the only state in the Union that does not tax cigarettes, either through a sales tax or a direct tax on cigarettes.

Some of the more important pieces of legislation which apparently will not be acted on this session appear to be: Governor Hatfield's reorganization of the state government. The Department of Commerce and Department of Natural Resources both appear to be dead in Committee. Workmen's Compensation reform. This major bill was passed by the Senate and was tabled in the House Committee. However, labor and management interests are still working on a compromise that may still be acted upon. Income Tax reform is doubtful.

Unemployment Compensation—the reforms advocated by employers through Associated Oregon Industries were stymied in the House Labor and Industries Committee. One bill has passed both houses which increases maximum benefits from $40 to $44 a week and reduces benefit amounts for those persons who earn between $1600 to $3100 a year. AOI opposed this bill while the AFL-CIO favored the bill and their views prevailed.

A new financing program for unemployment compensation has been passed which will stabilize the fund and provide continuation of merit rating for employers once it has been restored. The Department of Employment has predicted merit rating will be restored to eligible employers commencing January 1, 1964.

Lyons WSCS Meets At Mac Mormon Home

LYONS—Members of the WSCS held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Mac Mormon

Some Highway Safety programs advocated by the Governor have been acted upon favorably, as well as better controls dealing with sex deviates. Some important changes have been made in laws governing elevator licensing and use, electrical licensing, and milk controls which fix prices at the producer and wholesale level. The 1963 legislative session will go down in history as the longest and perhaps one of the hardest working in terms of time and effort. However, the results of the session still remain to be evaluated.
