BARBECUE CLEAN-UP may not be as glamorous as cooking and eating, but there are always to cut it short.
Pick up grills and spits with asbestos mittens as soon as cooking is finished and wipe quickly with a large cloth soaked in cold water. This will remove most of the grease and burned food particles. Give it a final washing later in soapy water.
Dump left over coals in a bucket of water or put in a tightly covered can to smother them. These coals can be re-used.
You'll need soap or deter-

Work Smarter . . . Not Harder

By Bernice Strawn
Extension Home Management Specialist Oregon State University

WHAT CAUSES Yellowing of White Cotton? Women asked this question so often that home economics researchers at the U. S. Department of Agriculture decided to make a special study. They say one cause is accumulation of body oil. Home laundings do not always remove these oils. Over a period of time, especially in warm humid atmosphere, the oils turn yellow.

Tests show that bleaches, both liquid chlorine and dry perborate types, help whiten these yellowed fabrics. The scientists hope to eventually recommend way to prevent the yellowing. We'll keep you posted as their experiments progress.

WHEN APPLIANCES are good, they are very good, and when they are bad, we realize how much we miss them. Service problems still plague many home makers but not nearly so much as a few years ago.

Mary Huen, home economist for a large Ohio appliance manufacturer, gave us some good news on her recent trip to Oregon. She says records show that 1962 appliances required 40 per cent less service than 1958 models, which in turn were much more reliable than those produced 15 years ago.

So, all in all, everything should be better and better. But are we doing a better job of reading instruction books? Service records show one out of every five calls made by servicemen to repair washers is needless, because nothing is wrong with the appliance.

Check to see that appliance is plugged in and controls properly set according to the instruction book before calling a service man.

OVEN CANNING is dangerous says Virginia Weiser, nutrition specialist with OSU Extension Service. It makes no difference what kind of jars, lids, or oven you use. Jars are likely to explode, even though not tightly sealed. Serious personal injury could result.

There are no safe canning short cuts. Don't fall for trick canning methods such as use of aspirin for preserving fruits and vegetables.

Miss Weiser says you might be lucky for years with unreliable canning methods, but there comes a time when everything spoils. Always follow proper processing directions and you'll be better off in the long run.

If you have questions about canning methods, call your county extension agent in home economics.

MANY PARENTS Are Con- cerner because their children seem to like dessert better than their vegetables. Mrs. Roberta Frasier, family life specialist for OSU Extension Service, suggest that if this is true in your family, take a look at what you've been teaching.

If you've used dessert as a reward for eating all the food on his plate or all his vegetables, he'll value it highly.

If this isn't what you want to teach—take a different approach. Let him have his portion of dessert whether he eats all his vegetables or not. This will de-emphasize it. He will be better off in the long run, especially if dessert is well selected.

OSU Students Mix Earning-Learning Realize $194,631

Jobs arranged through the Student Employment Service made $194,631 available to students earning their way through Oregon State University last year.

Mrs. Rose Duthie is in charge of the Student Employment Service, located in Commerce Hall, which registers students wanting and needing part or full-time work.

Last year, 2,490 men and 520 women signed up for work. Minimum pay is from $1.25 to $1.50 an hour, depending on the type of job.

Some of the jobs secured by men included concrete work, tutoring, laboratory work, fry cook, surveying, farm helper, mechanic, service station attendant, truck driver, cafeteria worker, grocery clerk, cleaning basements, piling wood, gardening, and washing windows.

Coeds worked at clerking, typing, fountain work, waitressing, housework, mimeographing, caring for children, sewing, assisting in the library, etc.

Of the $194,631 total earned by students who secured jobs, $160,420 came to students with steady jobs during the school year; and $23,016 was earned as room and board in managing apartments or working such as a houseboy.

Everybody who registered for work at the Student Employment Service obtained some kind of a job, Mrs. Duthie said.

Something New at Oregon State Fair

There will be something new at the Oregon State Fair this year, Howard Maple, manager said today with tongue-in-cheek. There will be a "Lost Parents" area "all nicely reserved in Kiddieland."

Every year, Maple explained, there are scores of children—sometimes small toddlers—whose parents become lost. This year all "lost parents" will be instructed to go to Kiddieland, the spot they are most apt to find the wandering children. He added that one good reason for this is that at Kiddieland there is trained child help who will know how to comfort the children until the parents are found.

All children found parentless upon the fairgrounds will be taken or sent to Kiddieland at once where they will be retained until the parents are located. Fair dates are August 30 to September 7.

gent, but nature will provide the scouring agent. Add small pebbles to suds and shake to loosen food stuck to deep jars or pots.

Smudge on the outside of cooking utensils comes off with a mixture of sand and suds rubbed with a cloth. As a preventative, you might also rub a bar of soap on the outside of the pan before cooking.
