Forest Service Worker Cited for Heroic Effort

A summer employee of the Willamette National Forest has received an award of merit and $300 for the heroic rescue of a 15-year-old girl at Pamela Lake last July 27.
Leece Jackson, 19, of 3805 21st, Lubbock, Texas, was then employed on the Detroit Ranger District as a guard at Pamela Lake Guard station. Jackson received word of the award in a letter from Forest Supervisor David R. Gibney.
On July 27, by eye-witness account, Jackson swam to the aid of Marilyn McDonald of Salem. She and a friend had poled a raft about 500 yards out, when Marilyn decided to swim to shore. About half way, she was unable to go further and called for help, according to Mrs. George P. Lanning, Jr., of 2187 Bruce, N. E., sister of the girl. Jackson then swam to her rescue.
Jackson attended Lubbock High school, graduated in 1961, and is now a pre-dental student at Texas Technological College at Lubbock.
Jackson had spent the summer of 1960 as a life guard at the municipal pool in Lubbock.

PARDON, MY ERROR!

Santiam Ripples

By Joyce Gleason
This is a big week for Santiam students. A clothing drive project has been set up that will require a busy schedule for many of the students. Clothing donations will be picked up in a door-to-door campaign on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings. Any usable or repairable clothing collected will be sent to an organization that will distribute it throughout America and around the world.
December 7th was the date of the official opening of the Capital Conference basketball season. The grand jamboree held at South Salem High provided a sneak preview of the teams in the Capital Conference league. The teams were divided into two sides, East and West. Santiam played for the East, along with Scio, Stayton, Mt. Angel, and Cascade. North Marion, Serra, Gervais, Central and Woodburn represented the West. In the competition that followed each team played one of the teams on the opposite side. The single games lasted for 10 minutes each. Santiam drew Central as its opposing team. This was the same team that we had played last year at the jamboree. The West won by a substantial margin.
In addition to the athletic contention at the Jamboree, the cheering sections were judged on the following points: the cheerleaders, appearance, organization, spirit, etc. The trophy awarded for this contest went to Serra with Scio being in second place. Serra has won the trophy twice in a row.
(Crowded Out Last Week)
One suggestion of consequence brought before the last Student Council meeting was the question of having Yell Kings. It has been proposed that with Yell Kings, more of the boys in the Student Body might take a more active part in the cheering section. It was also noted that most colleges and some of our own league's rally squads include both boys and girls. The Council had some reservations on how to choose them, how many there would be, and if they could be prepared for the jamboree. At a later Student Body meeting, the idea was discussed and put into the form of a motion. The motion passed, and it was decided that the Student Council would select the Yell Kings and that there should be two, at least for this first year.

IT'S YOUR LAW

Respect for Law Makes Democracy Live

UNCONSTITUTIONAL LAWS
Two years before his term expired, President John Adams named John Marshall to the U. S. Supreme Court.

And two days before he left office, Adams named one Marbury a justice of the peace in Washington, D. C., one of the land's lowest judgeships.

Between the highest and the lowest judges, you can find out why the U. S. Supreme Court may hold a state or national law void.

Marshall swore in Thomas Jefferson as President. Once in office, Jefferson would not let his new Secretary of State James Madison give Marbury his commission. Marbury took his case to the Supreme Court, and Marshall's court held that Marbury should have his job. But Marshall went on: the law passed by Congress, which let this suit start in the Supreme Court, violated the Constitution.

The Constitution says only cases which affect ambassadors and the states can be started in the Supreme Court. As a rule, all other cases must come up from lower courts.

This curb, Marshall held, meant that suits like Marbury's should not start in the Supreme Court. For Congress to give such cases to the Court went against the Constitution. So the act of Congress was void.

Such was the first case where the Supreme Court overruled Congress.

Said Marshall: The Constitution is supreme and is binding on all who act for the United States. It curbs and defines the citizen's rights.

Suppose Congress could trample the citizen's rights? Then, said Marshall, the Constitution would vanish, and Congress would rule supreme.

Hence the judges must uphold the Constitution over Congress. They must void all laws not grounded in the Constitution.

Said Marshall: "A law repugnant to the Constitution is void; and the courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument."

Still the Supreme Court avoids constitutional questions where it can find other grounds for reaching a decision. For the court has a policy of trying to respect the power of the legislature (Congress), as well as the executive (the President) branches of government.

Note: Oregon lawyers offer this column as a public service. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney, who is completely advised of the facts involved. Even a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.
