Santiam Ripples

By Joyce Gleason
 "Silence is Golden"? Not when you're winning awards like members of the Santiam speech classes were doing last Saturday! In a contest between the members of the first-year speech classes of Scio, Cascade, and Santiam high schools, Santiam swept the three division contests with three first honors, one second place, and one honorable mention. Thirteen students from Santiam participated in the three categories of impromptu, dramatic readings, and extemporaneous.

In the impromptu division, the students were given their subject five minutes before their four to six-minute speech. Bill Wilson spoke on the "Future of Communication" and the "Future of Communism," to win first place.

Entrants in the extemporaneous section had a choice of doing research on Presidential candidates or three political novels. They were given a specific topic in their field one hour before speech time and could use their notes in preparation. DeLores Dishong won after doing research on Presidential candidates.

In the third category, John Kelly won first place with his original poem. John also won first place in the dramatic reading final with a score of 193 points out of 200. Janice Gordon ended up with 180 points for second place and Sharon Rose received an honorable mention.

Judges of the contest were from the speech department of OCE. The speech instructor from Santiam, Mr. Ricketts, suggested the possibility that a tournament such as this might be hosted at Mill City next year. As it stands now, the winners of the tournament (all from Santiam), plan to present a program before each of the Cascade and Scio student bodies.

Both World Geography classes from Santiam visited Detroit dam Friday afternoon. They spent two hours touring the eight-floor structure. The classes viewed the control room from which both Detroit and Big Cliff dams are operated. The Frosh and their chaperones Mr. Truitt, Mr. Williams, and Mr. Rosamond, learned how, when and why the gates are opened. The guides for the tour were provided by the dam officials.

Four members of the Student Council from Santiam and Mr. Lewellen traveled to Stayton High school to sit in on a Student Council meeting there. After the meeting, Jim Hirte, Joyce Gleason, Don Podrabsky, and Randy Marshall sat in on some classes with students they had met. In at least one class they were able to observe the method of team teaching that is being tested at Stayton. A return visit from some of Stayton's Student Council is expected in the near future.

Oregon Mounted Posse Drill in North Fork Country Sunday

Riders of the Oregon Mounted Posse, a group of Marion County horsemen under the supervision of Denver Young, sheriff, conducted a search and rescue drill in the rugged hills of the Little North Fork country Sunday.

Gathering place for the event was Scarlet Manor, formerly known as the Cranberry house, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fisher. The group enjoyed a pot luck dinner in the perfect weather that day.

The drill, second for the posse, was to train members for possible rescue work in conjunction with police agencies. About 20 riders turned out for the session.

It is reported that one of the members became lost for about two hours giving the riders some real "on the scene action."

CHUCKLE CORNER

"ANYTHING HAPPEN WHILE I WAS AWAY, FILBERT?"

non-existent Thomas Station, Rt. 3, Scio, he spent his early life helping with the family farm. In his teen years he served his father in logging operations at Detroit and in saw mill work at Mill City.

In 1934 he entered road construction. He spent the following 17 years in various phases of road construction from road bed preparation to surfacing and oiling. This experience included the operation of rock crushers and heavy equipment. These years gave him a background for understanding county road problems, he pointed out.

His interest in law enforcement led him to become a member of the Albany Police Reserves, with whom he served for five years in his spare time. He later became a full time policeman in the city of Sweet Home where he served for the past 12 years.

Yunker is married and lives in Sweet Home. Mrs. Yunker, the former Mary Lois Goar from the Scio area, is a teacher in the Sweet Home Junior High school. Their eldest son is a radio station program director. Their daughter, Diane is a senior at OCE, and a second son, Gary is a senior at Sweet Home Union High. They also has two grandsons.

His parents still live on the farm at Scio. Yunker is a charter member of the Sweet Home Elks, a life member of the National Rifle association, and holds memberships in the National Peace Officers association and the Oregon Association of City Police officers.
