Young Life Meetings To Be Held Monday

Young Life meetings will resume following the holiday vacation Monday evening, January 24 at 7 o'clock at the Burton Boroughs home.

Club meetings are held three successive times in the same homes ordinarily; however, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Alban set a new record with five meetings held there before the holidays.

The Young Life leaders from Willamette University have just returned to their classes, necessitating the unusually long time between meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Cooper, who actively assist with the meetings said this week that any high school student in the community would be welcomed at the meetings. They said there was also a need for more homes to be used as meeting places.

RAMBO'S RAMBLINGS

By Goldie Rambo

Guess I have joined the ranks of snappish dogs and irritable parakeets lately. At least I was reading this week that those are symptoms of those creatures when watching too much TV—and believe me the way most programs are nowadays they are hardly worth wasting time and electricity on. Of course I do have about two that I have been following for some time and still like—but hear they are going off the air, one being the favored Perry Mason series.

Speaking of entertainment, we hadn't taken in a movie for ages—so went to Salem Sunday for dinner and a show. Boy, they are really geared to the adolescent mind. You know the type; for adults only—but they let me in!

At this point will have to give the eating establishments around here a plug. We tried a favorite eating place which had just changed ownership—you won't believe this but we spent two hours in the place just eating an ordinary type dinner (very ordinary)—and one hour of this time was spent waiting for service—good thing it was a leisurely day.

Here it is only the third week in January and the political pot is doing more than simmering. Noticed on the news Monday evening that "our Boy" had made the national network news—and isn't he pretty! With the well oiled machinery he has going for him am sure he will make the senatorial race—but think he is far more interested in himself than his state. Of course that is only one person's opinion—I did vote for him the first time he ran for office. But I was quickly disillusioned.

Speaking of running for office this little squib was given to me and fits in with the usual political picture—Democratic, Republican or what have you.

Running for Office
"I don't understand all these political upsets over the country. Politicians are using the same methods they always did so I guess it must be the people that are getting new ideas."

My Uncle Archie ran for county tax assessor this year and when I asked him how he came out he took a little book out of his pocket, and he said—here's the history of my campaign. I lost 1214 hours of sleep thinking about it. Lost two front teeth and some hair in a personal encounter. Donated one cow and six sheep to county barbecue. Gave away two pair suspenders, four calico dresses and $5 in cash. Kissed 126 babies, put up four stoves; walked 4076 miles; shook hands with 9508 people. Told 10,101 lies. Attended 16 revivals; made love to nine widows; hugged 40 old maids; got hit by 24 dogs and lost the election by 353 votes."
