The Federal Tax Is Increasing Your Telephone Bill Again

After the shortest tax reduction on record, the United States Congress has reimposed the 10% Federal Excise tax on telephone service. This tax will remain until April 1, 1968 when it is reduced to 1%. Under the new law the tax is scheduled to be eliminated entirely by January 1, 1969. We know you share our hope that this will really happen.

Traws Return From Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Dewane Traw returned recently from a trip east and said they were glad to be back as their comments below indicate. While they were gone her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Christensen of Stayton kept their two-year-old son.

"We returned Friday after two weeks vacation spent in the East. Our first stop was Tiffin, Iowa where we spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore, former Mill City residents. It was a frightening night. We had just been missed by a tornado in Des Moines about two hours before, arriving at Tiffin, and they were touching the ground everywhere. We spent most of the night listening to Tornado Warnings on the T.V. We left there the next morning, traveling East again, arriving in Akron, Ohio that next morning. We spent several days with my aunt, Mrs. Arthur Isreal and family. (Sister of Mrs. K. V. Christensen of Stayton). While there, Mr. Traw attended a National Automatic Fire Sprinkler Fitters Contest which he had been selected to compete in and reported that it was quite an experience. This took place in Warren, Ohio which is about 60 miles East of Akron. We left there traveling West . . . to Cottage Hills, Illinois where we visited Mr. Traw's aunt, Mrs. Edwin Evans and Mr. Evans. We had a wonderful time there. We traveled to Springfield, Ill., and saw Lincoln's birthplace, New Salem, Illinois, and then visited his home while he was President. The next day we took in the St. Louis Zoo, across the river from Cottage Hills, and had a great time. We motored on the next day, to Sikeston, Missouri, where we spent several days visiting with Mrs. Bessie Evans, grandmother of Mr. Traw. We saw many relatives there and relaxed for the first time on our trip, I think. We then drove on to Reno, Nevada, spending the last days of our trip (reporting fair luck) and then home.

I must say . . . all a person has to do to appreciate our beautiful Oregon is to take a trip back east . . . and they'll come home loving this country more than ever before. People drive like they are crazy. I don't think any of them want to live. They drive like there's no tomorrow."

RAMBO'S RAMBLINGS

By Goldie Rambo

Here I am back on the job resting up after my vacation—came to work a little late this Monday morning and had to leave a few minutes early at noon. The Boss says, "that figures—catching up on lost time."

Anyhow, guess I have a small injection of ink in my veins even though I did start a little late—wasn't too hard for something new to take hold.

We have had our son and his family here the past week and have enjoyed getting reacquainted with our grandchildren. At first, 7 months old Elizabeth took a dim view of her grandmother but after she got used to my peculiar ways decided I might do in a pinch.

So much has been written about the Fourth that I will give you a rest on that one—and just hope that you spend it at home and have a pleasant and safe one. Saw our 4th of July princesses on Telescope this morning and they ALL looked so nice that I know the judges will have a hard time selecting the winner. But win or lose it is good experience for them and am sure they are having a lot of fun, too.

I happened to pick up an old copy of Reader's Digest the other day and was reading all about the Hadaad Hullahaloo. Remember that one? Perhaps I am behind the times and it is still around. It was quite a razzle-dazzle at the time and made several million for those producing the bottled "genie". It was really an off-spring of the old medicine show on a more spectacular scale. This really dates me—but how many remember what fun it was when we were kids to take in those shows. Boy, what spikers they used to have. I was thoroughly convinced that the medicines offered, to say nothing of all those extra bits they used to "throw in", would cure anything from snake bites to claustrophobia. Evidently a lot of adults were taken in, too.

Getting back to work — I was reading the other day that one never need be tired. That is of course if one is in good health. It is NORMAL not to be tired after a hard day's work. (It sez here).

If a person could work at the thing he'd like to play at, ten to one he would never be tired, or so the psychologists say. In other words we are oftentimes emotionally tired or bored with our work—so think we are exhausted.

It is true that the people we know who are the most "interesting" are the ones who are the busiest and always involved in so many things that they never have time to be tired.

We all fight for more leisure time to get rid of that "all in" feeling but according to medical experts that won't solve the problem. Well perhaps not, but I bet I could stand it for about six months. Then imagine I would be rarin' to go again.

So next time you feel tired—say, "I feel swell"—even though it's a whopper.
