Mr. and Mrs. Ettinger had visited in Mill City many times.

Old Man Winter Hits Detroit Area

DETROIT—Old Man Winter threw his weight around pretty much Sunday and Monday blanketing some areas down at the 2,500 level with snow, and pelting other areas with heavy rainfall and blustery winds. Winds were pretty strong during the night Monday, or it could have been in the wee hours of Tuesday morning. At any rate it was blowing hard enough up the canyon to awaken this reporter.
According to reports, some of the loggers were chased out of the woods early Tuesday morning due to snow.
A large slide was reported to have occurred on French Creek near Martin Butte Road approximately two miles N.E. of Detroit. This plus other turbulent disturbances have caused a lot of debris to be deposited in Detroit Lake. A spokesman at the Ranger Station said, the heavy rainfall has also caused some damage to Forest Service Roads.

It Takes Only A Few

Mrs. Noyes Whitten has almost decided that it isn't worth it. She means fixing up the grounds around their place. The above picture was taken on S. W. Douglas street, where she has spent many hours beautifying an area near the railroad tracks across from their home. The photo shows a portion of the fence which was taken down. This one post has been removed several times she said. "It always happens after football games. It seems when we contribute to the PTA, the annual, and scholarship funds, these few young people would appreciate it enough to let citizens' property alone."

Bus Driving Workshop To Be Held In Area

Linn-Benton Community College has scheduled Bus Driving Workshops in accordance with the State Department of Transportation request that all school bus drivers complete a state-approved Bus Drivers' course.

These workshops will be held in Sweet Home, Lebanon and Mill City on November 12, 19, and 26, and in Albany, Philomath, and Central Linn on November 13, 20, and 25. All classes will be held from 7:00—10:00 P.M.

This program is offered as a public service by Linn-Benton Community College in cooperation with the IED office, State Department of Transportation, and the school districts. The course is free-of-charge to all drivers.

The course consists of nine hours of instruction in the areas of Defense Driving, Management of School Bus Passengers, Driving the Route, and Laws, Rules and Regulations.

Teaching the workshops will be a team of three instructors—Jay Gould of Sweet Home, Jay Dummer of Lebanon, and Richard Crisler of Corvallis.

Any bus driver desiring more information about the course may contact the Adult Education Office of Linn-Benton Community College (926-6091).

New City Officers To Have Orientation Meeting in Portland

An orientation session for persons elected for the first time to serve as mayors or city council members at the November 5 election will be held November 17 in Portland. The session will precede the opening of the 1968 convention of the League of Oregon Cities. The League's 43rd annual convention will be held November 17-19 at the Portland Hilton Hotel.

The session will open with a noon luncheon talk by Edward C. Harms, Jr., city attorney, Springfield. Harms is former mayor of Springfield and a past president of the League of Oregon Cities.

During the afternoon, a panel of three experienced city officials will discuss various aspects of city government. J. W. Barney, city manager, Hillsboro, will discuss city organization and programming of city activities. Arnold C. Swanson, councilman, Astoria, will review working relationships between elected city officials and the city's administrative officials and staff. Mayor Morgan G. Beck, Ontario, will discuss intergovernmental aspects of the city policy-maker's job.

More than 1,100 Oregon mayors, councilmen and other city officials and guests are expected to attend the League's three-day convention.

Herbert Peck is the newly elected Mill City Mayor and Dale Howell and Larry Plotts, Jr. are the councilmen.

Your Social Security

By C. I. Flaten, Dist. Mgr.

Betty Smith's death was tragic, not only because she died in an auto accident but more so because she left 3 small children and a bereaved husband. What does a father do to keep house, feed the children, keep them clean, get them off to school, without their mother? Bill Smith tried a succession of hired housekeepers, but none stayed long. The good ones charged more than Bill could afford, and the housekeepers he could afford weren't very capable.

Bill had checked with Social Security to see if there might be some benefits, because Betty had worked about five years before their marriage. He learned there were none. As she had not worked since the first child was born, her earnings were not recent enough for the children to be considered dependent on her for their support at the time she died. That was in 1966.

Last month Bill read a newspaper account of changes in the Social Security law affecting children whose mother had died. He called at the Social Security office, found out that the change in the law does make his children eligible and filed an application. As a result, he will receive about $200 a month for the children. Bill says he can now afford to hire an excellent housekeeper and make sure the children are well-cared for.

The names in this story are fictitious but the incident is real. If a "Bill Smith" sees this story, the folks at the Social Security office hopes he will call to learn whether benefits are now payable to his children.

For answers to questions about Social Security contact the Social Security office in Salem located at 702 Church St. N. E. Telephone number 585-1793. That office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For the convenience of those who cannot come in during regular office hours the office is open on Monday evening until 7:30 p.m.

HAROLD JACKSON MORRIS
Friends and relatives in this area were saddened to learn of the sudden death on Saturday, November 9 of Harold "Jack" Morris of Portland.

He was born December 20, 1909 at Mehama where he attended school. He worked as a lumberman, logger and on ranches during his lifetime and had made his home in Estacada for a number of years.

Death was attributed to a heart attack. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Fred (Eva) Duffy of Mill City, four brothers, Roy and Elvin of Portland, Wayne, Bonville, and Lee of Salem. Bert Morris of Mill City and Kenneth Morris of Prineville are uncles of the deceased. Effie Smith of Oregon City is an aunt. Also surviving are several nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, November 12 for Mr. Morris from Weddie Funeral Home in Stayton at 2 o'clock with the Rev. James Murray in charge. Interment was in Fox Valley cemetery.

Tom Drynan Speaks To Idanha Youth On Drug Usage

IDANHA—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiebert were hosts at a Young Peoples meeting of the Idanha Community church, when the group met at their Idanha home Sunday at a 5:00 P.M. meeting.

Guest speaker was state police officer, Tom Drynan of Mill City, who gave a talk on marijuana and the weed's effects. To augment his address officer Drynan showed the group samples of the weed including plant leaves he confiscated near Lyons. He also showed a colored film on marijuana, denoting whether the weed is harmful, or if it should be legalized.

Following the showing of the film the Young People asked questions on the subject including the use of L.S.D. To augment his answers on the L.S.D. questions officer Drynan showed a short film on L.S.D. and its drastic effects.

Following the meeting refreshments was served by the host, Mrs. Freda Hiebert to Tom Drynan, Rev. Harold Roth, Martha Taylor, Henry, Gerald Jimmy and Donald Hiebert, Ricky, Mike and Gina Williamson, Delva Saner, Sharon Johnson, Robin Whiteley, Kathryn Hancock, Linda Roth, Glenda Beachy, Paul Michaelson and Dorsey Smith.

The first of the groups special meetings scheduled Nov. 17 through the 23rd will be held at the Idanha Community Church Sunday at 7:00 P. M. Guest speaker will be Rev. Clyde Freeman of Vancouver, Wash.; who will include chalk drawings and magic to augment his address during the meetings.
