Pacific Power & Light Company Pushes to Keep Up With Growth in Area

Pacific Power & Light Company reported Monday in its annual report to stockholders that growth in the areas it serves in parts of six western states has resulted in a broadening of the scope and diversity of commercial, agricultural and industrial activities supporting the economy.

New records were set for both energy sales, up 8%, and system power peak load, up 5%.

System power operations required nearly thirteen billion kilowatt-hours of electricity, the report noted. Household usage of electricity averaged 10,788 kilowatt-hours annually, a new high which is nearly double the national average.

The company now serves 480,948 customers, an increase of 10,353, most of which are electric service customers, and has 77,153 stockholders, more than half of whom reside in the six states in which the company operates.

Scio Group Wants Marion Lake Out Of Wilderness Area

Representatives from Scio, Portland, Salem, Dallas, Lebanon and Albany met at Scio Sunday in an attempt to seek reversal of a Congressional decision to include Marion Lake with the Mt. Jefferson Wilderness area. About 25 attended.

Alva E. Morris, Salem who was chosen chairman of a newly-organized committee to head up the effort, said Monday petitions were being circulated to present to Congress.

The advisory petitions would ask Congress to return the area to scenic area classification which would permit users to maintain boats and some man made facilities at the lake.

Under the Wilderness Area act, boat owners will not be able to leave boats at the lake, and existing structures, including equipment sheds and the Marion Lake Guard Station, will be removed.

"It is the contention of the committee that (re-establishing Marion Lake as a scenic area) will enable the public to continue to use the lake area for back country camping and picnicking recreational purposes, and will prevent the removal of the picturesque old guard station together with all the excellent tables, fire places, and sanitary facilities on the shoreline," Morris said.

The committee is asking all interested persons to write their views to Congressman Al Ullman for presentation to the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Forest Service officials estimate there are nearly 200 boats stored in the area on a permanent basis by lake users.

Mrs. Jack Carey recently accompanied her son, Phil Carey of Stayton, to Eugene where they attended the annual session of the Logging Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Rambo returned Sunday from a two weeks vacation trip to places of interest in California, Nevada, Arizona and Mexico. They particularly enjoyed the warm climate in Arizona. The Rambos made the trip down by bus, flying back to Medford where they were met by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson. A family dinner was held Saturday at the George Rambo home in Medford, observing their wedding anniversary and that of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Yankus were in Portland Sunday where they attended a birthday observance for Mrs. Eph Thomas who was celebrating her 87th birthday anniversary. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have been in quite good health recently.

Mrs. Don Moffatt was expected to return home Thursday from Portland where she had been in Emanuel hospital for a week of tests and treatment.

Mrs. Vic Thomas of Wrangell, Alaska is visiting with her father, Walter Wiggins, of Gates and with friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Atchison. She plans on returning to Alaska in a week or two.

business increased six percent, reflecting both the high level of economic activity and the added revenues from new industries and commercial enterprises, and amounted to $138,652,000. Due to higher salary levels and the effects of more taxes and inflationary pressures influencing expenses, the company's earnings per share of common stock was $1.54 compared with $1.53 the prior year. The federal income tax surcharge alone trimmed earnings by five cents per share.

The industrial gains were highlighted by a large paper mill of American Can Co. near Halsey; a trona mining and milling complex of Allied Chemical Corp. near Green River, Wyo.; and nationally-known firms that selected southern Oregon cities, Medford, Roseburg and Grants Pass, for new plants to serve West Coast markets. Expansions by well established firms such as Weyerhaeuser, Georgia-Pacific, Boise-Cascade, Crown Zellerbach and national-brand food packers added to the trend toward a broader-based economy in the region, it was noted.

Pacific Power President D. C. Frisbee reported construction expenditures of $44,668,000 included initial work on a large steam-electric plant near Centralia, Wn., ultimately to have 1,400,000 kilowatts of generating capacity; and an expansion of the company's Wyoming steam-electric plant, where a fourth unit of 330,000 kilowatts of capacity is scheduled. The bulk of the outlays were for improvements and expansions of the transmission and distribution system, the latter for local area work requiring $22,000,000.
