Fall College Enrollment To Pass 54,000 Mark

Fall term enrollment at the State System of Higher Education's nine institutions is expected to pass the 54,000 mark, the Office of Institutional Research reports. Final head count for the 1969-1970 school year was placed at 53,606 students, an increase of 5.3 per cent. Total registration for 1968-1969 was 50,932. With 444 more students (the number registering after this date last year) still expected to sign up, the final estimated total registration is estimated at 54,050 students, an increase of 1.3 per cent over the budgeted total of 53,347. Both the University of Oregon and Oregon State University climbed over the 15,000 mark, UO registering 15,154 students, an increase of 392, or 2.7 per cent, over 1968-1969, and OSU enrolling 15,094, up from 14,474, or 4.3 per cent, over last year. Biggest gain percentage-wise was recorded by Oregon College of Education at Monmouth. Enrollment climbed 14.7 per cent to 3,688 students. For 1968-1969, OCE registered 3,215 students.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: We would like to say just a few words about the recent city council meeting, when the councilmen chose to turn down the application of the Circle K store, which was to be located on the Santiam Highway. It is our understanding that two of the councilmen could not or would not vote yes on this matter due to their personal convictions and religious beliefs about the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages. We wish these men would realize that when they vote at a council meeting, on issues that concern the entire city, they are not speaking for themselves, but for the people they represent—therefore if they can not vote with an open mind, they should abstain from voting at all on certain matters. Does their negative vote in this matter also mean that they will vote no when the other packaged beer and wine outlets apply for renewal of their city licenses? Hoping these men will be able to realize the injustice they have done to the advancement of our community. Sincerely, Mrs. Fred Krecklow, Mrs. Ralph Spurgeon, Mrs. J. W. Scott.

"Tribute to a Newspaper Man" First of all, I would like to emphasize upon and quote from a dictionary; the definition of the word "enterprise": "Enterprise: A quality that which is undertaken; a bold attempt; adventure; willingness to engage in labor which requires boldness and energy; to undertake; venture upon." This quotation was taken from a 1906 edition of a Webster's dictionary. Many years ago, the word, "enterprise," had a strong meaning; as does The Mill City Enterprise! But remember, it's who edits "any" paper, that really counts!

In a small city, such as Mill City, it is rare to find such an honest, dedicated newspaper man; that the people of this city have working in their behalf. His interest in major events of this area are not only reflected and clearly brought forward, but also in minor contributions that are given to him to be published. He possesses true concern and wisdom toward another's article, brought to his attention on many assorted subjects. In his own articles he "tells it like it is"... a quality that some of the larger newspapers fail to do! He is not afraid to voice constructive criticism. This is not done merely because he is an editor; but because he cares about the good and bad that surrounds each and every person living in an age of changing ideals. What he writes and prints is meant to improve or wake some of our sleeping neighbors; encouraging public involvement in Humanity's role; not only in city or social obligations, but written to improve living and thinking in general. He speaks only the truth, and let no man or woman condemn anyone for this! He does not back away from being an open-minded writer; allowing other's opinions to be voiced in his paper; even though they may not always coincide with his own. Through this may not be a first in a tribute to you and your newspaper, let it never be the last! Joyce Earls, Box 184, Mill City.

TAC Plans For Year's Activities The Teen Age Committee (TAC) held their first meeting of the fall season last Thursday. Plans for the annual TAC sponsored 4th of July parade and crowning of the queen was discussed. An election of officers was held with Tom Rush re-elected president; Chuck Swaim, vice-president; Lisa Gabriel, secretary; Twyla Fultz, treasurer, and David Evans and Chuck Swaim, historians. Advisors for the committee this year are Fred and Bonnie Krecklow and George and Norma Long. The group is in the process of planning a full year of events with a "just for fun trip" is on the agenda. This hard-working group of teen agers and their advisors are something in which the community should feel a real sense of pride.
