ere are some little things you can do to keep Oregon livable

Kick your car's smoking habit. All cars contribute to air pollution. But if your car smokes, it compounds the problem. Get it fixed.

Drive less. Contrary to what you may think, 60% of the air pollution in Oregon cities is caused by people driving cars. You can help clear the air by driving less. Share rides more. Use public transportation more.

Drive fewer horses. Maybe there's no public transportation where you live, and you have to drive your own car. But do you really need all that horsepower to get where you're going? Fewer horses pump out a lot less pollution.

Spend a few bucks for the environment you enjoy. Support tax and bond measures designed to improve Oregon's environment. Support tax incentives that encourage firms to maintain the quality of our environment.

Limit open burning. Observe burning regulations. This is simply a matter of common sense. On smoggy days you shouldn't burn trash because it just makes the smog that much worse.

Let litter bug you. Don't let litter lie around. If it's yours, take it with you. If it's somebody else's, make the big sacrifice and pick it up. Worry a little. Don't put this problem out of your mind. It's your problem. So anytime you see an abuse of Oregon's environment, report it. Let your local or state government people know about it.
