

Trout Anglers All Set for Annual Pilgrimage To Streams and Lakes of Area

Oregon's army of trout fishermen will take to the out-of-doors in full force Saturday, April 24, the date that marks the opening of the 1971 trout angling season. At dawn on that day all lowland lakes and most streams in the state become available to trout fishermen as do some of the larger lakes and impoundments in the higher mountains.

Without a doubt, most intrepid fishermen will be in the forefront of this annual invasion which will continue unwavering until the general trout season comes to a close October 31.

Anglers are reminded that all coast streams remain off limits to trout fishing until May 22, as do the high lakes in the Cascades and Paulina mountains. There are numerous exceptions to this rule and, if anglers have any doubts, full particulars will be found in the 1971 angling regulations.

If the weather cooperates, trout fishermen should enjoy excellent success in almost any water they select. Individual success, however, will depend upon the skill and persistence of the angler. Trout have wintered very well and most impoundments have ample water, the result of a good winter snowpack or rainfall. Additionally, most popular fishing streams and many lakes are stocked with catchable-size trout, increasing substantially the angler's chance for success.

The opening weekend and several weeks following might be marred by adverse weather which could make angling miserable or muddy some streams beyond

A heavy invasion of trout anglers is expected in central Oregon, jamming boat ramps and camping areas on every lake and stream that can be reached. Anglers are warned that many roads are blocked by snow and numerous campgrounds will be snowbound. At best, anglers can expect only limited access at numerous lakes and streams in the higher elevations.

In the northern sector the Deschutes is always an excellent choice to inaugurate the season. Watch for a sudden thaw which could put the lower river out of shape. The Deschutes is generally stocked in the Maupin and Warm Springs area. Fishermen should take note of the special six fish bag limit in the river below Pelton Dam and the fly fishing only area in the Whitehorse Rapids area. Many trout are tagged. Anglers catching these trout are requested to report the location and the tag number or color.

Both Pelton and Round Butte reservoirs should provide good angling if weather cooperates, trolling as well as still fishing. The Crooked River arm of Round Butte is muddy. Best results will be had in the Metolius and Deschutes arms. Anglers can expect some large Dolly Varden in the Metolius arm and some large rainbows in the Deschutes arm.

Prineville Reservoir is off color but could clear enough to make good fishing. Ochoco

Exchange Student To Be Here April 27

Cecil Waldron, an International Farm Youth Exchange Student to Zambia, will be at the Santiam High School Auditorium Tuesday, April 27th, at 2:00 p. m. Arrangements for his appearance were made by the Santiam Canyon Home Extension Unit and they are extending an invitation to the public and especially the senior citizens.

Cecil will show slides and probably have items that he purchased while in Zambia.

The young man is from Beaverton and has a degree from Oregon State University in Animal Science and Farm Crops. He was in Zambia from September 12, 1970 until March 18, 1971, living with farm families and assisting in their daily routines.

is also somewhat off color but is expected to produce nice catches of rainbows to 16 inches. Haystack is not expected to be a top producer although some large rainbows to 20 inches are available.

Over 300 Out For Talent Show

DETROIT—Over 300 were in attendance Saturday evening at the talent show sponsored annually by the Deanna Parent-Teachers club in their annual scholarship drive.

The entertainment was dotted with humor and comedy that brought much laughter and thundrous applause.

The program opened with the De-Hi Chorales singing the Star Spangled banner, in which the audience joined.

The 3 1/2 hour show, with some 20 acts included vocalists, musical selections, skits, fire baton twirling, a hula dance, fairy tales, and a comical fashion show.

Many door prizes were awarded and refreshments were served.

Master of Ceremonies was Bud Crist. Door receipts totaled $113.90 plus some $50 made on refreshments. Pledges are not yet all in on the scholarship drive. A full report will be announced later.

Some $1,200 was netted in last year's combined talent show and pledge drive.

Lori Levon To Dance In Benefit Program

One of the featured dancers of the Carol Ray Dance Studio to appear on Salem TV, Channel 3, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, April 23, will be Miss Lori Levon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Levon. The program is being presented to help advertise a benefit show for the "School for the Deaf" in Salem at the Parrish Junior High auditorium at 2 p. m. Saturday, April 25. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Miss Levon has one of the leading roles as the "Princess" in the ballet, "Firebird Suite." She is also scheduled to sing a solo, dance a Hawaiian number and appear in the "line" having been a student at the dance studio for several years.

Senior Citizen Service Now at Detroit

DETROIT—A Senior Citizen Opportunities Service program was recently organized in the Upper North Santiam Canyon under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Wolf, co-ordinator from Stayton.

Senior citizens who need medical assistance, welfare aid or other beneficial assistance will now be furnished transportation. Area volunteers offering their services are Mrs. Jerry Lynn, Mrs. Paul VanFleet, Mrs. Howard Drago, Mrs. George Pflug and Mrs. Joe Lichlyter. More volunteers are needed and those wishing to participate in the program may do so by contacting Mrs. James Von Seggren, Marion Forks or Mrs. Wolf at 769-2373, Stayton.

Mileage will be paid by the Opportunities Service.

Detroit Completes House Numbering

DETROIT — Mayor Cliff McMillan announced this week that the Planning Commission has now completed the house numbering system for the city of Detroit.

Residents are required to purchase their own house numbers, and are requested to contact Paul VanFleet for assignment of numbers now. As soon as city maps are completed for the numbering of homes, the city recorder may be contacted for this service and Thursdays and Saturday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. at Detroit City hall.

VanFleet, map co-ordinator for the Planning Commission, said Monday in applying for assignment of numbers residents must bring with them their lot and block number, and designate the precise street (facing out) the number is to be attached on the home.

Those residing on multiple streets will have to decide which direction facing the street they would like to attach the house number.

The numbers come in a variety of colors, and some may want to follow the decor of their homes. However, dark numbers on dark homes or vice versa will not be permitted. The minimum height of numbers allowed is four inches.

John Cook, owner of Cook's Grocery said he would look into the matter of stocking numbers.

Other city business includes the installing of all new city street signs. The project has been turned over to the Detroit Woman's Civic club.

Upper Canyon Has Cool Weather

DETROIT — Weather readings for the week ending on Tuesday, April 20 at 8 a. m. are as follows: High temperature for the week was 63 degrees on the 19th and the low was 29 degrees on the 19th, with an average mean of 42 degrees. During this same period last year the high was 63 degrees on the 17th, the low 26 on the 16th, with an average mean of 40 degrees.

This year's precipitation (melted snow and rain) was 58 inches for the week, with a trace of snow on the 16th, against a precipitation last year of 1.36 inches and 35 inches of snow, with hail, the latter falling on the 19th. The mountains still show a covering of snow on the tops. Daffodils, primroses, hyacinths, and a few tulips are blooming, but the shrubs and trees are slow to bud, due to the cold.

The above report was given by Irene Paulini, Detroit Weather Observer.

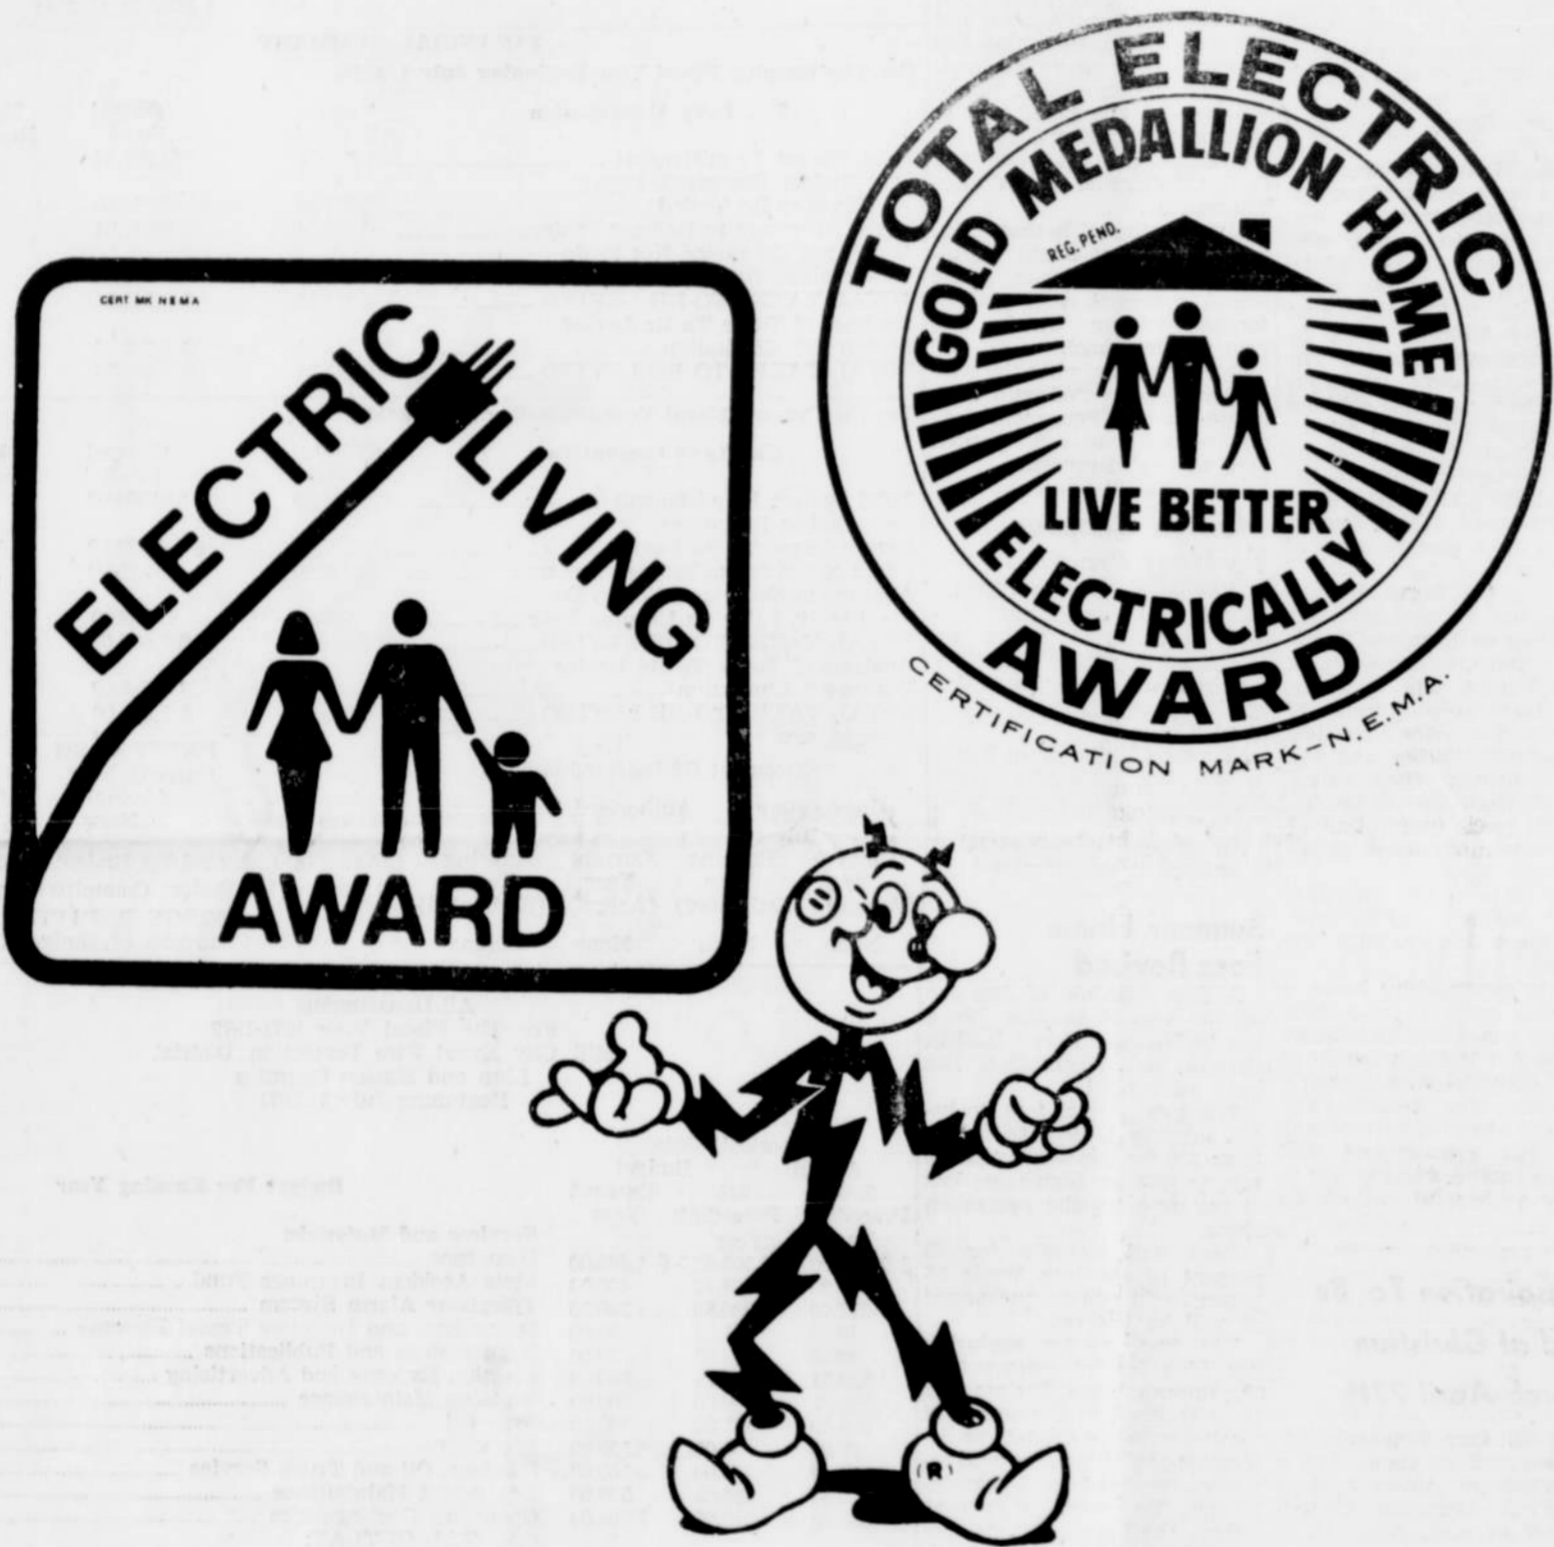

Hunter Safety Course Begins at Detroit

DETROIT — A Hunter's Safety Course for students 8 to 17 years began at Detroit school Monday under the direction of Jim Von Seggren, Gary Lindland and Dr. David Phillips, Corvallis.

The course will run for three consecutive Mondays with classes from 6:30 to 8:30.

Boys successfully completing the course will receive Oregon hunter safety cards, entitling them to obtain hunting licenses.

Fifty-one students have enrolled for the course.

The Signs of Modern Living

Today's homes—and today's homeowners—are proud to display these emblems of excellence. Because they stand for comfort. Convenience. And the quiet dependability of all-electric living.

Today, more than ever before, all-electric living makes good sense. Electricity's flameless. It's clean. In fact, the electricity you use in your home is 100% clean. And you can't beat that!
