Idanha Bible School To Start June 11th

IDANHA—It was announced here this week that one week of Bible school will start June 7 at the Idanha Community church and will run through June 11 from 9 to 11:45 a. m. for children from 4 through the 8th grade. The program will include Bible stories, craft, singing, games and refreshments.

Theme of the study is "Search for God's Hidden Treasures."

All children of the community in the age bracket mentioned above are invited to attend. Missionary project, will be for each child (who desires) to bring a wash cloth which in turn will be sent to various missionaries.

Directing the Bible school will be Mrs. Harold Roth. A staff of 18 will assist her.

GATES

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Geston had as weekend visitors, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobs of Cottage Grove. On Sunday the Jacobs took the Gestons out for Mother's Day dinner.

Mrs. Birdie Wilson and her children from Mill City attended church services on Mother's Day with their grand mother, Mrs. Walter Brisbin.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The evenings of May 7 and 8 were more than enjoyable for the people of Detroit and the vicinity. A large part of the high school pupils under the superb direction of English teacher, Mrs. Jeanne Blake and Music Director, Mrs. Margaret Minden Zelfer, put together a music comedy that will be long remembered.

The most important thing about a school program of this kind is to highlight the fact, that going to school is just a preparation for adult life. Any event is important that gives one the self confidence, self assurance, self esteem, and above all the feeling of "I can do." The whole community felt elated with the performance, and are thinking of making a show an annual affair. The pride of accomplishment rubbed off on all, even the ones who did not individually take part. All knowledge does not come from books, some of it is generated by the urge to be and do, and acting is very important in our getting along in life as it comes to us day by day.

FEWER FORM FILLER-OUTERS NEEDED
A study on paperwork by Ohio's "Little Hoover Commission," coupled with findings of a House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee, reveals an incredible waste of manpower and money.
Six departments of government in Ohio were surveyed and it was found that they spent $26 million a year to fill out 98,077 forms for the Federal Government. The total amount spent by all state and local governments must be staggering.
The House Committee found that the U. S. spends $8 billion (out of a $200-billion plus budget) to get answers on 360,000 different forms. According to columnist Henry J. Taylor, the filing cabinets required would fill twelve Empire State Buildings.
Obviously Uncle Sam should continue to insist upon adequate reports when Federal money is distributed for spending by state and local units of government. But superfluous reports should not be required and the trend towards increasing the number of Federal handouts should be reversed.

Detroit Residents Urged To Apply For House Numbers
DETROIT—Residents residing in the Detroit area are being urged to apply for their house numbers. To date, only 37 have applied. This represents about a quarter of the houses.
Residents can obtain their assigned number either by calling in person at the Paul Van Fleet home or by phoning 854-3576. The only requirement is to give the lot and block number (from deed) and designate which street, facing out, the number is to be affixed. Minimum height of numbers must be 4 inches. The numbers which cost about 39c each are available at Cook's Grocery.
New street signs are being made this week by the Detroit Woman's Civic club, and will be installed in the near future, Mayor Clifford McMillan said Tuesday.
