Librarian Editor Is Former Local School Teacher

Mrs. William Lamman of Pileburg, Wash., formerly Louise Fletcher Meon, a teacher in the Mill City High School a number of years ago, works in the Curriculum Laboratory there and has this year assumed editorship of the state publication for school librarians, and is serving on the board of directors and the council of the state association. Her husband covers six counties in Washington for the reference division of Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Mrs. Lamman's daughter, Cathy, and husband (Mr. and Mrs. Dan Zaklan) recently purchased a new home in the Haven Bridge area between Eugene and Springfield. She teaches at Santa Clara Grade School in Eugene and he is in one of the Springfield Junior Highs.

The family recently said goodbye to the son, Martin Mason, and family, leaving for three years to be stationed in Puerto Rico with the Coast Guard.

Steve Cahan Speaks At Junior Woman's Club

The December meeting of the Mill City Junior Woman's Club was held at the home of Mrs. William Bogle. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Terry Morris and Mrs. Ed O'Donnell.

Guest speaker was Steve Cahan, local VISTA worker. Mr. Cahan spoke on various ideas in helping the area with transportation for senior citizens, better medical facilities and how, as a club, the Juniors could help on these projects.

Following the meeting, a gift exchange was held and refreshments were served.

The January 2nd meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Dale Brosig.
