

Salem Flea Market

Lots of Fun

GATES — Have any of you ever participated in a flea market? Believe me, it is quite an experience as Catherine Turnidge, Kathy Meader, Jere South and myself can now tell you. We had a table at the Flea Market on Sunday at the Salem Fairgrounds. This is a monthly affair and there are between 70 and 80 tables set up with displays of almost everything imaginable including many antiques of all kinds, dishes, books, tools and the very popular popcorn machine. We were set up for photo buttons and the etched brass social security plates.

I have no idea how many people passed through there in the course of the day, but, believe me, there were a lot. We found people very friendly and really had a great time. Of course we were rather tired when we got home but that we expected. The next one held in Salem will be on Sunday, Mar. 25, at the Salem Fairgrounds.

Firemans Corner

by Clyde Golden

Something new is being added to the fire department... a 4,000 gallon tanker truck. This will decrease the insurance rates for those who live in the outlying areas of our district. Firemen donated money from the proceeds of their annual November benefit toward the purchase of the new truck.

Fire safety tip: Don't overload your electric circuit and check your appliances for bare wires and loose connections.

Mill City Woman's Club Shown Childrens Art Work

The February meeting of the Mill City Woman's Club was held at the home of Margaret Snow last Tuesday evening. Assisting the hostess were Goldie Rambo, Elizabeth Cyr and her daughter, Mary Youmans.

The patriotic theme was used for the serving table decoration and cherry topped cheese cake was served for dessert.

Antonia Thomas conducted the business meeting when it was voted to have a salad bar on Friday, April 13 at the Fellowship Hall from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Money derived from this will go to Camp Easter Seal for crippled children. Members of the junior women's club will assist the seniors. Serving on the committee are Mamie Reed, Mary Youman, Ruth Cummings, Kate Doble and Helen Kimmel.

It was also agreed to operate the sno-cone machine at the Mill City 4th of July celebration. The club women will assist in serving the Easter breakfast which will be held at the high school cafeteria.

Needs at the children's farm home were discussed and several members said they had items that they would donate. The Mill City club sponsors Multnomah cottage at the farm.

Mae Mowry, state conservation chairman, gave a report on the work she is doing. She also reported that scrapbooks from the Mill City club would be entered in the national community improvement project contests.

Lillian Peck gave an interesting reading on the "Origin of the symbols of the dollar bill." This was a timely reading with both George Washington and Abraham Lincoln's birthdays being celebrated this month.

Following the business meeting, Ruth Tohl, fine arts chairman, introduced Beulah Bowes, art instructor in the Mill City schools. Mrs. Bowes showed many interesting items that had been made by the youngsters, including ceramics, paintings and crafts of many kinds. Also showing paintings were Marie Tolbert and Evelyn Fox, both of whom have done some fine work. Alma Beyer had a beautiful collection of her china painting to show. Mrs. Mowry showed some of the tohl painting done by Doris Rogers, who was unable to be present. Mrs. Mowry also wore two "conservation" pins hand painted by Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Tohl had a large display of some of the attractive and intricately designed ceramics she had made. Of particular interest were the large burnished antique gold vases and umbrella holders. She also brought a cherished hand painted porcelain doll she had done a number of years ago.

Guests present at the Tuesday evening meeting included Mrs. Leonard Muehlenkamp, Mrs. Joe Bowes, Mrs. Marie Tolbert and Mrs. Clyde Bate. Mrs. Teresa Saalfeld, who is currently vacationing in Hawaii, will be in charge of the March meeting. Members are asked to wear clothes of another, past or future, era. There will also be a jam and jelly shower for Multnomah cottage.

There were 24 ladies attending Tuesday's meeting with the next one to be March 20 at the home of Kate Doble.

Kids Think The Most Amazing Things

Young children have more thoughts going around in their heads than adults often realize. Here is a sample of some of those thoughts from second graders at Gates primary school. "Grown-ups" please take note.

I wonder why trees can grow in the ground.

Michelle Baughman I wonder why I grow.

Tami Tuers I wonder why the sun does not burn the world.

Greg Mowery I wonder why boys are boys and girls are girls.

Annie Porter I wonder how people make metal.

Kevin Snider I wonder why I like people.

Shellie Morris I wonder why my brothers are so mean.

Kristi Lengacher I wonder why books have words.

Kevin Poole I wonder if I am nice.

Gloria Pedersen I wonder how a TV is made out of little pieces.

Mike Stewart I wonder if my dog is going to have a baby.

Janice Ogden I wonder why owls can fly and ostriches can't fly.

Stephanie Sanders I wonder if God is real or not.

Teri Mumey I wonder why worms wiggle.

Chucky Murphy I wonder why summer is hot.

Peggy Jennings I wonder why cows have horns and horses don't.

Kim Adkins I wonder who Batman really is.

Kurt Syverson I wonder why cats meow.

Elisa Syverson I wonder why Miss South is a teacher.

Brent Fadenreicht I wonder why Mr. Lonnquist is a teacher.

Gates 2nd Grade Visits Salem Sites

On Wednesday, Feb. 21, the two second grade classes with Miss South and Mr. Lonnquist took a field trip into Salem where they visited Bush House and Bush Barn. Of the many interesting things to see, the children probably enjoyed the bedroom upstairs, filled with childrens things, like dolls, tea sets, clothes, baby buggy, sled, ice skates, carousel and many, many more things of many years ago. There was also a handmade wooden train set that was quite remarkable.

The group was accompanied by several mothers who went along to help with the children. They all left school about 11:30 and returned home about 2:30, tired but happy after a delightful outing.
