THE FAMILY LAWYER

No Soliciting Please

Do door-to-door salesmen have a legal right to come calling at your home? Generally speaking, they do indeed, according to the United States Supreme Court.

"The knocker on the front door," the court has ruled, "is an invitation."

But invitations can be revoked. And one way you can revoke this particular invitation is by posting a notice saying "NO SOLICITING PLEASE" — or words to that effect.

Any solicitor who disregards such a notice would probably be considered a trespasser. This, in turn, would reduce your chances of liability in case he happens to stumble over a stray toy or trip on a broken step.

For the duty of a household toward a trespasser is slight. You are not required to clear away hazards on your premises, but merely to refrain from injuring him recklessly or on purpose.

What about "NO SOLICITING" signs on apartment houses? Often posted by landlords, these signs have been attacked in court as an infringement of free speech — that is, the freedom to speak directly to individual tenants.

But courts have held that this is a reasonable and lawful way for a landlord to protect his tenants from being pestered.

This does not mean, however, that the landlord has unlimited control over access to the apartments in his building. In one case, an apartment house owner forbade any and all tradesmen to enter his building. When a grocer arrived to deliver fresh vegetables to a tenant, the landlord threw him out bodily.

In short order the grocer filed suit for damages, and the landlord was held liable on grounds of assault and battery. The court said the tenant
