OBITUARIES

Kirk Wirick, Sr.

Word was received by the Louis Verbecks of the death Saturday, Dec. 1, of their daughter's father-in-law, Kirk Wirick, Sr. of Sonoma, Calif., whose family lived in this vicinity a number of years ago. Death was attributed to a heart attack. Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday afternoon in Sonoma, and the Kirk Wirick family (Marlene Verbeck) of Reedsport, planned to attend.
Mr. Wirick was 76 years of age and had operated a large lumber yard with his son, Wayne, in Sonoma until September of this year when it was sold.

When the Wirick family was here, they lived in the Fox Valley area where the two youngest children, Wayne and Carol, attended school, later coming to the high school in Mill City. The family attended the local Christian Church.

Surviving Mr. Wirick are his wife, Nome; five sons, Don Alvin, Ralph, Kirk and Wayne; one daughter, Mary; and a step-daughter, Mary; also a number of grandchildren.

Chris Barker

Funeral services were held in Portland at the Sunset Hills

Mortuary last Friday for Chris Barker, 86, of 234 S. E. Hazel Street who passed away in a Salem hospital last Tuesday.

Mr. Barker had been in poor health for some time. He was a retired plasterer and a member of the Operative Plasters of Oregon and the Eagles.

Private interment was in the Sunset Hills Memorial Park in Portland. The family suggests contributions to the cancer society.

Survivors include the widow, June Barker of Mill City; two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Stubbs, Nehalem, and Mrs. Beatrice Nutt of Whittier, Calif., and three sons, Gerald Marquez, Donald Marquez and Del Roy Marquez all of Portland; one grandchild and three great-grandchildren.

"John Kohls and I want to talk to you about your electric bill and conservation."

Today's tight power situation continues to call for energy conservation and points up the need for new generating plants like Centralia and plants under construction such as Trojan, Jim Bridger and others.

These new plants mean higher power costs. And... a new impact on your electric bill.

In the past, the average price you paid for power declined as you used more electricity. This reflected our costs. As a matter of fact, the price of residential power to our customers declined about 35 percent from 1940 to 1968.

New technology, larger, more efficient power plants, and improved operating methods had a lot to do with the descending price.

But... in the last few years, the cost of new plants has skyrocketed. And there are four basic reasons why.

1. Our rivers are delivering about all the firm electrical energy they can. From here on out, it's new steam plants with high operating costs.
2. Money costs have gone out of sight. And interest and other money costs are the largest single element in power costs.
3. Essential pollution control equipment has added 20 percent to the construction costs of new steam plants.
4. Inflation... which has hit everyone... has really whacked your utility in the vital area of construction costs. As an example, new steam plants are costing three to four times more per kilowatt compared to 15 years ago.

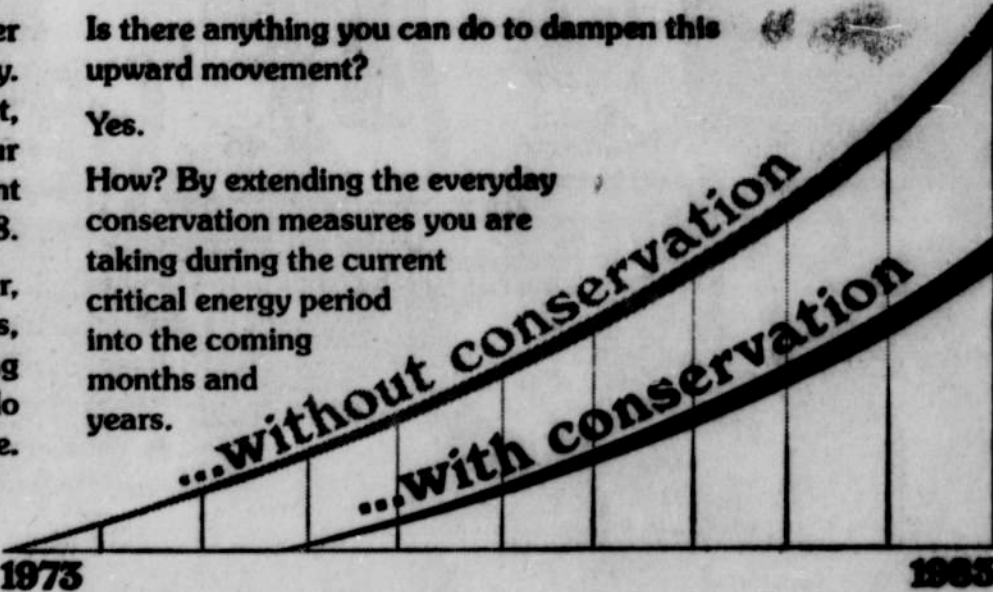

What does this mean? The cost of power at Centralia, at Trojan, at Jim Bridger and other scheduled plants will generally exceed the revenues they will produce at present rate schedules.

So with growth in demand... the upward pressure on our electric rates becomes overpowering.

Is there anything you can do to dampen this upward movement?

Yes.

How? By extending the everyday conservation measures you are taking during the current critical energy period into the coming months and years.

In short... by making energy conservation a routine part of our daily lives.

We see no way of keeping your electric rates from moving up. But with continuing energy conservation... together we can keep them from going through the roof.
