CARDS OF THANKS

I want to thank my many friends, relatives, neighbors, the Presbyterian Church members and fraternal orders for the many acts of kindness of cards, flowers and gifts during my recent illness.
Sincerely,
Gladys Lake.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fiekle Goat

In the backyard of a suburban apartment, the landlord installed a billy goat as a mascot for the building. For months the goat reigned as favorite pet of the neighborhood children.

But one day, without warning, he severely butted a young woman tenant. Cut and bruised, the victim demanded damages from the landlord for bringing "this dangerous creature" onto the premises.

However, the court dismissed her claim on the ground that the landlord "did not know and had no reason to believe that the animal was of a bad disposition."

Generally speaking, the law gives domestic animals — horses, cows, goats, sheep — the benefit of the doubt. That is, they may be considered harmless until proven otherwise.

Actual misconduct, however, puts the owner "on notice" to take precautions in the future. Thus:

A man owned a pony which he allowed visiting youngsters to ride. But again and again, the pony showed tendency to nip and buck.

When he finally kicked a boy in the head, a court ruled that the owner could indeed be held liable. The court said that even though ponies are usually harmless, bad behavior will put a specific pony into the "dangerous" category.

In one unusual case a farmer kept a beehive near his back fence, only a few feet away from a neighbor's doghouse. One day the bees swarmed over the fence and attacked the dog, then the neighbor himself when he rushed to the rescue.

True, these bees had never injured anyone before. Nevertheless, a court pointed out that bees are prone to attack if kept too close to another creature. Holding the farmer liable on grounds of simple negligence, the court said: "The owner of a domestic animal is bound to take notice of the general propensities of the class to which it belongs."

Miss America Goes 'Travelin' Freedom's Road'

Shirley Cothran, Miss America 1975, tempts Bert Parks, M.C. for the popular Miss America Pageant for the last 20 years, with the coveted crown. Parks, who will enjoy his 21st year on the NBC colorcast of this magical event on September 6, has been known to question, "Isn't it about time I won?"

This year, the 55th annual Pageant, will have a bicentennial theme, and all 50 finalists plus Miss Cothran will participate in the "Travelin' Freedom's Road" show. At the beginning of the spectacular, co-hosted by "sports personality" Phyllis George, Miss America 1971, and lyric soprano Debbie Ward, Miss Louisiana 1973, the finalists will appear in the Parade of States, this year in the order of the state's admission to the Union.

At the exciting Miss America Pageant, the new bicentennial Miss America 1976 will receive a $15,000 scholarship award. The award is granted by the Miss America Scholarship Foundation, the largest Scholarship Foundation in the world, which awards more than one million dollars each year at all levels of the Pageant. And this sum will be awarded in addition to the money, between $50,000 and $100,000 the new Miss America will earn as a result of personal appearances and pageant-related activities during her official reign. Runners-up will receive $10,000, $5,000, $3,000 and $2,000.
