New Meeting Place For Mill City Clubs

Ogden Photo

Since taking over the Malt Shop in 1973, Neil and Corine Stewart have gone "all out" to make their place of business a credit to Mill City. This is amply evidenced by the clean and wholesome atmosphere and the fine discipline they maintain at Dew Drop Inn. The pleasant decor inside and the flowers growing by the door are added proof of their concern for their customer's pleasure. They believe that good food is even more enjoyable in wholesome surroundings.

In accordance with a long term plan, each month has seen some improvement for the benefit of their customers. They now have provided a new facility which should be of great service to the community.

One of the game rooms has been remodeled, carpeted and nicely furnished to provide a quiet, relaxing atmosphere for small groups to enjoy. The room will accommodate up to 20 persons. Provisions include tables and comfortable chairs; the billiard table converts for other games or to a serving table if desired. A juke box with old time records is provided for those with nostalgic tendencies.

Altogether, the room is an ideal, handy location for small business conferences, birthday parties, reunions, or "mom's night out." The key feature, of course, is the excellent variety of foods and soft drinks which the Stewarts can provide. They state that the room is available, by advance reservation, at a small charge to their customers.
