Sometimes It's Smart to Act a Little Hoagish

There are times for giving to others . . . and there are times for looking out for ourselves; times when charity is appropriate . . . and times when there's not even spiritual profit in it.

One of the most common and least profitable forms of giving is the making of donations to the growth and prosperity of other communities . . . through unnecessary out-of-town buying.

Trade builds communities. Trade is the father of Prosperity. There is no other source of better jobs, better business, better social facilities.

Except when they're in real need we don't give to strangers the food, clothing and other necessities that our money buys . . . why isn't it also wise to keep for ourselves and our children the community-invigorating Vitamin $ that is part of the returns—to someone—for every dollar we spend?
