Buttermilk.

[Orange County Farmer.]

In warm summer weather many persons feel an irresistible craving for something sour, and often gratify this desire by a free indulgence in pickles or vegetables made acid with vinegar. This demand for acids indicates a deficiency in the acid secretions of the stomach, and the demand for an artificial supply is a natural one, but vinegar is not the best substitute. Lactic acid is one of the chief agents that give acidity to the gastric juice of the stomach in health. This is the acid of sour milk, and, therefore, one of the best summer diet drinks we can use is buttermilk. It satisfies the craving for acids by giving to the stomach a natural supply, and at the same time furnishing in its cheesy matter a good supply of wholesome nutrition. A man will endure fatigue in hot weather better on buttermilk than on any diet drink he can use.

Medicinal use of Tar.

Tar is highly useful in various details of sheep management, as in some kinds f tropical shelter, and as an application to cuts from clipping and to parts affected by the fly. It serves either alone or in combination with some fatty substance to protect the sore or diseased feet of cattle from being further injured by wet or abrasion, and when spread upon coarse cloth it is a prime covering for broken horns, and makes an excellent application to various kinds of wounds and punctures in cattle. A mixture of equal parts of tar and tallow, by the use of heat, makes a good stopping for diseased feet, and a mixture of equal parts of tar and lard oil is an excellent dressing for hoofs. A liniment composed of two parts of tar, two of cocoanut oil and one of yellow wax is an excellent dressing for mange and an efficient detergent in most kinds of scabby or eruptive skin affections in the horse, but requires to be rubbed in with a hair cloth or a rather thick brush. The rectified oil of tar, popularly called the spirit of tar, mixed with twice its bulk of fish oil, when well rubbed with a brush every night on both crust and sole, is an eminently good application for hardness and brittleness in the horse's feet.

Washing Butter.

[Indiana Farmer.]

There is a stage in the churning process at which it is comparatively easy to remove the buttermilk and all that it contains. When the butter is yet in a granulated form the churning may be stopped and the butter washed with cold water and brine. Advantage is taken, at this stage, of the different specific gravity of the whole mixture. The butter is lighter than the water; the cascine, etc., is mostly heavier than the water. After agitation, the butter rises to the top of the water, and the other solid matter remains mixed with the water, with a tendency to fall to the bottom. By drawing off the buttermilk, or water, from the bottom. the solid matter foreign to butter is more or less carried away with it. Two or three repetitions of the process complete the separation, sufficiently at least for practical purposes. Advantage may be taken, also, of the difference between the size of the granulated butter and of the solid matter in the buttermilk. The granulated butter being of the size of peas, or grains of wheat, or even pin heads and smaller, will not pass through holes, or in other words a strainer, that will allow the other solid matter, which is too small to be visible to the naked eye, to pass through it.

Assessment and Taxation.

[Willamette Farmer.]

The Oregonian quotes the Boston Transcript as showing the methods pursued by New York millionaires to avoid taxation. They devise miserable and despicable schemes by which to cheat honest men and compel farmers and others to pay more than their just proportion. The truth is that New York's moneyed men have managed to influence legislation always and prevent the framing of statutes so thorough and complete that evasion is impossible. We propose to continually harp on this theme and encourage others to write on it, until the session of the legislature is held for the purpose of securing such a perfect knowledge of state finance that the people will demand honest legislation. It is possible to enact laws that cannot be evaded if the people will elect competent and reliable men to do the work. The trouble is here; sharp practice prevails and the ordinary legislator is cheated and does not know it. Words that sound well enough to him are weak and inefficient in law and do not stand the test of the courts. Often laws are pronounced unconstitutional or they are deficient in some particular and legislation fails of its object. It is true that to the majority all was correct. They meant well and did well, as they thought, but some sharp practice was on hand and the weak clause was inserted. All appear honest and sincere and the world receives the failure as unavoidable, but the thing was premeditated, often, and both parties had their wise legal talent employed to perfect the fraud. Let us then go to work and never rest until honest men give us honest legislation that will insure honest administration of the laws. As to assessment laws, let the tax-payer make a full written statement and make oath to all particulars. Let every man's return be a public record subject to public inspection, with a fearful penalty in case of fraudulent returns, and we shall then see honesty and no evasion of taxation.

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases.

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE effects of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness or private diseases of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a hearty restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5. Call or address DR. SPINNEY & CO., (3-31—tf) No. 11 Kearney St., San Francisco.
