The New Stock Inspector Law.

Sec. 3350. There shall be appointed by the county court, sitting as county commissioners, an inspector of stock for each of the counties of the state of Oregon, who shall reside in the counties for which they are appointed, respectively. Each of such inspectors, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall make his oath of office and give an undertaking to the state of Oregon for the use of the respective counties thereof, with two or more sureties, who shall have the qualifications of bail on arrest, to be approved by the county judge, conditioned in such sum as the county court of the respective counties may deem sufficient for the faithful performance of the duties of his office and enforcement of the requirements of this act. It shall be the duty of the inspector to administer oaths, and to personally examine all sheep and bands of sheep in their county every spring, between the first day of March and the first day of June, and every fall, between the twentieth day of September and the twentieth day of December of each year; and also to examine, free of charge, any other kind of live stock in his county at any time he may be called upon to do so, by request in writing of at least ten persons owning or controlling stock of the class he is by such persons called upon to examine, said persons making a written statement that said stock is affected with some infectious or contagious disease; and if upon examination said stock are found to be affected or infected with any infectious or contagious disease, and that there is imminent and immediate danger of the spreading of said disease, and that it will cause great and irreparable injury to other stock owners in the vicinity of said infected or affected stock, the said inspector shall forthwith issue his order quarantining said stock; and he shall engage a sufficient number of persons to hold said stock secure from other stock, and shall, if there be a state officer having charge of such diseases, immediately notify him of the quarantining of such stock, and, if there be no such officer, then to the governor. Each inspector shall have power to oppoint deputies, not exceeding one for each precinct, for whose acts he shall be responsible, and by any of whom he may perform any act required of him by this act, except the semi-annual inspectors, which shall be made by the inspector in person; and it shall be the duty of the inspector to advertise in at least one local paper, if there be one in his county, at his own expense, the names and postoffice addresses and precinct of any and all of his deputies. Any indebtedness incurred under the provisions of this act, except for which the inspector should pay, may be recovered by such inspector in his official capacity by an action in any court having jurisdiction of the amount.

Sec. 3351. Any person, company or association intending to bring or cause to brought from any other state or territory into any of the counties of the state of Oregon any sheep, must first obtain from an inspector of stock, duly appointed under this act, a certificate that said sheep are sound and free from all infectious and contagious diseases before crossing the boundary line of said county; and it shall be the duty of every inspector, at the request of any person, company, association or corporation owning or controlling any sheep in his county, or within twenty miles of the line of such county, upon being paid the amount, his compensation for other special examinations as herein provided, to, with all convenient speed, examine any sheep he shall be requested so to examine, and if sheep be sound and free from all infectious and contagious diseases and are perfectly sound, to give his written certificate to said applicant, over his official signature, setting forth the soundness and freedom from disease of such sheep, and permit and authorize such applicant to move such sheep to all counties of this state. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars.

Sec. 3353. Whenever, on examination of any bands or herds of sheep, kept or herded in any county of the state of Oregon, the stock inspector shall find such sheep, or any portion of them, affected with scab or scablies or any infectious or contagious disease, he shall forthwith notify the owner or person in charge of such sheep, in writing, to dip said sheep for said disease within a period of fifteen days from such notice, and also during such period to keep said sheep from contact with other sheep by such means as he may specify; and if, upon examination at the end of fifteen days from such notice the inspector shall find that said sheep have not been dipped for said disease, or have not been kept from contact with other sheep that are sound, the owner or owners, or person or persons controlling said sheep, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars; and in case said sheep have not been dipped for said disease, the inspector shall immediately take possession of said sheep and dip them for said disease, and all expenses incurred in so doing, including a compensation of three dollars per day for every day or part of a day in which the inspector may be engaged in dipping said sheep, shall become a lien upon said sheep, and the inspector shall hold the sheep until the same is paid; or if it be not paid within ten days after such dipping is completed, he shall collect the same, together with the costs and expenses of collection, by advertising and selling said sheep, or so many thereof as may be necessary, in the manner provided by law for the sale of personal property upon execution. If, however upon examination at the end of thirty days from such notice, as before mentioned, the inspector find that said sheep have been dipped for such disease but are still infected with the same, [illegible]

[illegible] ation at the end of thirty days from [illegible] the inspector find that said [illegible] been dipped for said disease, [illegible] still infected [illegible] possession of said sheep [illegible] owner or person [illegible]

[illegible] between the first day of March and the first day of July [illegible]
