Lake County Examiner.

THURSDAY..........OCTOBER 24, 1889.

Editorial News Notes.

Mary, wife of William Grue, committed suicide because they were unable to pay off a mortgage on their home near Elder Creek, Tehama county, Cal., and were forced to surrender it.

There are more than 100 cases of small pox on Pelee island, in Lake Erie, the great fishing resort. The island has about 1,000 inhabitants, and it is expected that none will escape the dread disease.

Green B. Raum of Illinois has been appointed commissioner of pensions, vice James Tanner, resigned. General Raum is a prominent member of the Grand Army of the Republic. After taking the oath of office he was presented to the chiefs of division and other officers. He entered upon his official duties on Monday.

Pension Matters.

The annual report for the fiscal year 1888-89 of the commissioner of pensions shows there were at the close of the year 489,720 pensioners. There are added to the rolls during the year the names of 51,921 new pensioners, 1,754 were restored to the rolls and 16,507 dropped from the rolls for various causes. The amount paid for pensions during the year was $88,275,113, and the amount paid as fees to attorneys 1,363,583. Since 1861 there have been filed 1,248,146 pension claims, of which 789,121 have been allowed, the amount disbursed on account of pensions since 1861 being $1,052,218,-413. During the past fiscal year 145,-298 certificates were issued, 51,921 being originals. At the close of the year there were pending and unallowed 479,000 claims of all classes.

Rivers and Harbors.

Brigadier General Casey, chief of engineers, in his annual estimates submitted to the secretary of war, makes the following recommendations for appropriations for continuing work: Columbia river, at the Cascades' $700,000; Columbia river, mouth, $700,000; Columbia and lower Willamette rivers, $200,000; Arkansas pass and bay, Corpus Christi, Tex., $300,000; Galveston harbor and ship canal, $1,100,000; Humboldt harbor and bay, California, $200,000; Oakland harbor, California, $500,000; San Luis Obispo, California, $100,000; Coos bay and harbor, Oregon, $250,000.

The total amount recommended by General Casey for river and harbor improvements is $30,186,300. The total amount appropriated by the River and Harbor bill for the year ending June 30, 1890, was $22,397,617. The Mississippi river commission recommends appropriations for the year 1890-91 of $5,586,250. The Missouri river commission asks for $2,700,000.

Desert Lands.

There is a strong prospect that the entrymen of desert lands will be obliged to go to congress to protect their holdings from wholesale sequestration by the geological survey. The bill passed by the last congress relating to surveys for irrigation bureaus, gave the secretary of the interior sweeping powers for the reservation of all lands recommended by the director of the geological survey as necessary or suitable for the extension of irrigation canals. It fixed the date of reservation at October 30, 1888, and any entries made after that date must be at the entryman's risk of having them taken by the government. Many such entries have been made, and it is understood that the registers and receivers have not in all cases notified entrymen of their risks. In a talk with the California Associated Press agent a day or two ago, the commissioner of the general office stated that the law was mandatory and left him no discretion. He should, therefore, be compelled to set aside all entries of lands said by the director of the survey to be necessary for its purposes.

Only an Oregon Horse.

A majority of our readers will remember when "Al. Farrow," was "pulled" in a race in California, last year. The race was on Saturday evening, and the board of directors being present, of course seen the job. But they could not take action on the question until the following Monday, and did not see fit to do anything until Tuesday, when they ruled the trainer and rider of the horse off the track forever. And while the testimony given before the board showed conclusively that Tupper (the then manager of the horse) knew and was in with the job to "pull" the horse, the directors allowed Tupper to run two more races with the horse at the same meeting.

Subsequently, Tupper was tried before the board, and himself and the horse suspended. Now, the question has often come to our mind, why was Tupper not suspended at the same time the trainer and jockey was? The board knew that Tupper was the prime mover in the "pulling" job, and yet they allowed him and the horse to continue the meeting. Still later by suit in the California courts, M. T. Walters regained possession of his horse, from Tupper, at considerable cost. Immediately after, which was in May, a petition, generously signed by leading horsemen, was presented to the secretary of the board, asking that "Al Farrow" be reinstated. And while individual members of the board, had promised that the horse would be reinstated, the board has not acted on the petition one way or another, although it has had at least three regular meetings since May.

Now comes the injustice of the board [illegible] in the matter. On the promises of several members of the board, that the horse would be reinstated, Mr. Walters entered the horse in several races at the California state fair meeting, and expenses to run him during the entire fall. But the board took no action in the matter then nor has it since, and Mr. Walters has been out the use of his horse, his entrance fees in races and the horse's probable winnings in races.

Now we can but conclude that there is, and has been a big job to keep "Al. Farrow" off the race tracks. And we also believe that had the horse been bred and owned in California, he would have been reinstated long ago. But the fact of "Al. Farrow" being an Oregon bred horse and a very fast one, has worked an injustice and hardship on Mr. Walters and his horse.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Boston is thinking of establishing free winter baths.

It would take a train 3,125 miles long to carry the Kansas corn crop.

Los Angeles now has twenty-seven miles of cable roads in operation.

The wool market of Boston is steady and prices have an upward tendency.

Quail and jack-rabbits are about to take possession of Jefferson City, Mo.

A railroad collision near Omaha, Wednesday, injured more than fifty persons.

They call this an "off year" in Ohio politics, because thus far the campaign mud is only knee-deep.

The farmers in Miner and adjoining counties in Dakota are suffering, owing to the failure of the crops.

Congress will be urged to make provision for marking the Confederate lines on the Gettysburg battle-field.

"The popular will," says a dispatch from Honolulu, "is strongly in favor of annexation to the United States." Where there's a will there's Hawaii.

The female organist of a Utica church has eloped and married a 14 year-old boy who pumped the organ. The affair has taken the wind out of the choir.

Hippolyte and fellow Haytians are to have a constitution modeled after that of the United States. The constitutional congress is assembled at Gonaives.

A transportation canal, water-works, gas-works and electric-light plant are to be put up in Albany by a newly incorporated company of New York capitalists.

The internal revenue receipts for the three months ending September 30th were $30,684,525.74. This is an increase of $3,670,807.20 over the same period last year.

The Louisiana lottery, which robs poor and foolish employes, wishes to perpetuate its charter for fifty years, and offers to pay the state debt, $12,000,000, for blood money.

Hon. Samuel J. Randall is reported to be seriously ill, and his friends fear that he will never take his seat in congress again. He has had a relapse, which has greatly weakened him.

A curious computation has been made with regard to the Indianapolis and Vincennes railroad, which shows that it is 117 miles in length, with 117 bridges and 117 curves between Indianapolis and Vincennes.

A bride and groom were publicly united at the Raleigh, N. C., state fair Monday, whose clothing was made entirely of cotton bagging material. The groom wished to show his opposition to the jute trust in this way.

Ellensburg, Wash., views with extreme satisfaction the fact that a new iron furnace and rolling mills are to be built within its corporate limits. Large iron ledges and superior cooking coal exist in the neighborhood.

Thomas Stevens, the bicyclist, who, after making a tour of the world on his wheel, was sent to Africa to "discover Stanley," has returned to Zanzibar. He has failed to find any trace whatever of Stanley. His mission is a complete fiasco.

John L. Sullivan announces that he is ready to fight again, and would like to have a match arranged as soon as possible. He is anxious to meet Jem Smith. His next choice is Charlie Mitchell, but he is ready to meet anybody who will challenge him.

There are over forty pension office employes drawing large salaries who were re-rated by Commissioners Tanner and Black. The government, it is believed, will take some steps to recover the money which has been paid to all those pensioners who have been rerated.

Chauncy M. Depew has been making predictions. He says the world's fair will be held in New York, that Cleveland will surely be the democratic nominee for president in 1892, that Harrison stands the best chance of heading the republican ticket and that the prohibition party is going to pieces.

About five hundred Highlanders are going over to Paris under the chieftainship of David White of Abbey Craig, who has patriotically thrown down the gauntlet to the world with the object of proving that, for athletic skill, swiftness of foot, and manly beauty there is no nation in the world like the Scotch.

Arrangements are now about being perfected which will bring the eastern mail to this coast ten hours sooner than at present. It is proposed to put a new schedule in operation November 1. The plan is to save all delay at Ogden by running trains through, including Pullman coaches. This will enable travelers to ride from Council Bluffs to Oakland pier without change.

The belief is general that President Harrison is about to issue his proclamation admitting the Dakotas and Washington to statehood. The president makes no statement as to what he intends to do, but in official circles the impression prevails that the proclamation will soon issue without Montana, unless the result of the election there is very soon determined.

News from Apia give additional details of the voyage of Malieota on his return to Samoa. He entertained serious fears, all knowledge of his destination having been kept secret from him until his arrival at the islands. It is reported he twice jumped overboard with the intention to commit suicide, to escape, he knew not what, and it was not until he was safe home that he became calm.

Governor Shoup, of Idaho, has issued a proclamation, declaring an election will be held Tuesday, November 5, 1889, for the adoption of the proposed state constitution, and recommends that the county commissioners in each county to provide for conducting the election according to the constitution. The governor urges all citizens to carefully read the constitution and to vote conscientiously for or against its adoption.

The Indian, as a political factor, is likely, in the near future, to attract public attention. By recent acts of congress, every Indian over 21 years of age, who receives an allotment of land in severalty becomes a voter. The successful termination of the negotiations with the Sioux Indians next year will throw into the state 4,937 voters. The other nations now being negotiated with will soon make many more. At the interior department it is thought that upwards of 20,000 Indians will be entitled to vote at the next presidential election.

Jas. A. McCormack, known as a land agent in southern Oregon during the former republican administration, but fired by Cleveland, has been reappointed as a special agent by Harrison, with his headquarters at Vancouver, W.

In Oregon there are reported 212 sawmills, 31 shinglemills, 183 planingmills, of which 29 are classed as sash and door factories. Seven logging railroads are in operation, fourteen dry kiln plants, and one mill has a band saw. There are thirteen wholesale dealers and twenty-five retailers reported.

Blessed is the man who sitteth not in the seat of a kicker, nor mingles himself in the congregation of the mossback, but his delight is in new railroads, street car lines, manufactories and brick blocks, and in schemes to build up himself and his own town. And he shall be like an evergreen tree planted by the river of waters; his leaf shall not wither in the early fall like cottonwood, for the Eli of the boomer shall get there, but the kicker shall be left to hold the bag.

Was surprised to see Charley Coolidge (who was stabbed in the back at Lakeview some months ago and came to Portland as thin as a sheet, with a very slim chance of recovery) as fat as anybody. He is stopping at St. Vincent's, and when he arrived there the best surgeon in the city pronounced his case hopeless. He has just had the three tubes that were hanging out of the wounds in his back to breathe through removed and the place is now healing.

The prospects of there ever being another daily paper of any size, weight and influence, to divide the honors, attentions and emoluments of the public with the Oregonian, is very slim. This paper just naturally monopolizes the whole earth in that section, and outside of the fact that it has made its proprietors rich men, it is to-day a larger dividend paying institution than any bank, wholesale or retail business house doing business in the northwest, and when you inquire of the standing or business of any of the big institutions there they will rate it this way: "Next to the Oregonian, this makes the most money," or "Next to the Oregonian and somebody else, this pays the best," with the Oregonian at the top all the time. For a daily paper to make a showing against it would require an immense outlay of capital.

The volume of trade on the great lakes, which western statisticians say long ago surpassed our whole coastwise traffic, is certainly increasing enormously. There will be built this winter thirty-five new vessels, with a tonnage of 67,000 tons and at a cost of $4,600,000, for next season's business.

The Marysville Democrat of last Wednesday says: Matt Daley, the stage driver, informed a Democrat reporter last evening that on the road between Strawberry valley and Gibsonville he saw about 1,000 dead sheep. The owner told him that he had lost about $5,000 in a few days, as the sheep had died from eating wild turnips.
