LESSON IN MORALITY.

The police of Omaha, Nebraska, have a prominent physician on the rack trying to force him to tell what he knows about a sensational tragedy that occurred in Omaha on the night of December 7th. The doctor depends upon the ethics of his profession to save him from an enforced confession, and the case stands without parallel in this country. The affair is the sequel of a visit of a Council Bluffs man to Omaha at the invitation of a "gentleman" acquaintance to meet two so-called swell society girls for a good time and a night of debauchery.

The man went to Omaha and was met by the friend, both feeling in joyful spirits over what was to occur. Together they entered a house in the fashionable quarter. Immediately after entering the premises a shot was heard, and the Omaha man staggered from the house with a bullet in his breast. The Council Bluffs man had been treated to a horrible surprise, and in the moment of his horror committed the act which was a fitting finale to an awful scene. The two "swell society girls" he was to meet and take to his arms in amorous embrace were his own lovely daughters—his own flesh and blood—each party being ignorant of the other's identity until the dramatic climax.

The father, enraged beyond all power of control, drew a pistol and attempted to kill the man who was flirting with his daughters, and had gone so far as to invite a father to meet his own daughters for a carousal. The wounded man was taken to the residence of the physician, who is now trying to shield from public view the disgrace of all concerned. The physician tells the story of the dramatic occurrence leading up to the shooting, but he refuses to divulge the names of the interested parties. The doctor insists that professional courtesy exempts him from divulging, even to the authorities, the name of the man he treated, but it is known that a prominent commission man is missing from Omaha and a railroad man of considerable prominence is said to be the father of the two "swell society girls." Presumably, the father objected, and justly, too, to taking a hand in the debauchery of his own daughters, and is probably excusable for shooting his friend, but he is morally guilty and deserves the punishment of the damned. Of course had the two girls been the daughters of some other father, the shooting would not have occurred, and the debauchery would have been complete. But, under those circumstances, this Council Bluffs father should have been killed. "It makes a difference whose ox is gored."

On the first page of The Examiner will be found a letter from C. A. Cogswell to the editor of the Morning Oregonian, regarding the "Warner Valley Case." The writer of the letter says: "It is very easy to sympathize with people when it does not cost anything. Let those who sympathize with these settlers state the amount of their sympathy in dollars and cents, and they will find that the people comprising the Warner Valley Stock Company are not behind any of them in that respect." It is refreshing to note that the Colonel would gladly show "sympathy" for the settlers of Warner Valley in "dollars and cents." But, we have yet to learn of a single Warner settler, who is fighting for his home and his family's welfare, asking for sympathy of any kind—particularly of the monetary character. The Warner settlers are not beggars. All they want are their homes which they honestly believe they are entitled to. And theirs is an heroic fight by brave and loyal citizens.

JUST NOW APPROPRIATE.

Lives of poor men oft remind us
Honest toil won't stand a chance;
The more we work there grow behind us
Bigger patches on our pants—
On our pants once new and glossy,
Now of stripes of different hue,
All because subscribers linger
And won't pay up what is due.
Then let us all be up and doing,
Send your mite, however small,
Or when snows of winter strike us,
We shall have no pants at all.

The State of Oregon will again witness a battle royal for the vacant Senatorship, if all reports be true, but it is to be hoped that no disgraceful "hold-up" of the Oregon Legislature will be repeated. The Salem Journal says that the fight is already taking form and suites of rooms are already engaged at the Hotel Willamette for at least three aspirants, and for twenty days on and after Friday, January 11th. The Legislature convenes on Monday, the 14th. Ex-Senator Corbett, it is said, will take personal charge of his candidacy and will make an open fight for the honor of occupying McBride's seat in the United States Senate. All manipulating and secret methods of the past will be cast aside. Senator McBride is expected to be on hand and strive for re-election. Ex-Senator Mitchell and State Senator Fulton will also be on the ground early to look after their fences. Governor Geer says emphatically that he will not allow his name to be sprung as a candidate. There is a growing impression that the fight really lies between Corbett and Mitchell, and that it will be a battle royal, while others believe that McBride will be a most important factor in the contest. If possible, the fight for the Speakership, as well as the Presidency of the Senate, will be kept out of the big event.

The State Board of Canvassers met on the 12th instant and canvassed the vote of New York. Only four of the sixty-one counties cast a majority of votes for Bryan. They were New York, Queens, Richmond and Schoharie. The following are the totals for President: McKinley, 821,992; Bryan, 678,386; Woolley, 22,043; Debs, 12,869; Maloney, 12,622. McKinley's plurality, 143,606. The plurality of Odell (Republican) for Governor was 111,126.

Among the articles of the proposed new game laws of Oregon, to be presented in a bill to the coming Legislature, the following paragraph occurs: "East of the Cascade mountains, season for all kinds of quail closed at all times." It's all right so far as the law goes, but the average pot-hunter in this section observes the game law about as much a politician observes the truth.

The Klamath Express sends Christmas greeting to the Medford Mail in this polite style: "The Medford Mail says it is 'dinged mean' of G. L. Webb and family to move to California. No doubt it is, but it is meaner to be vulgar than profane. 'Damned mean,' would be classical as compared with the average language in a Mail local."

A Deputy United States Marshal of Portland arrested Louis Dennis and his son at Pelican Bay, Klamath county, last week, for cutting timber on the Cascade Reserve. They gave bonds in the sum of $500 each and were released. Their name is surely "Dennis."

A Chinaman at Grant's Pass was fined $50 for keeping an opium den. The money was added to the school fund. A little genuine detective work in Lakeview would ferret out enough subjects for fines to make a very respectable addition to our school fund.

Great Britain has warned the world once more that she will have no interference in South African affairs. Well, that's about the proper kind of talk, provided she's prepared to back it up in proper style.

The anti-saloon league candidate of Ashland won out in the city primary election. The question as to whether or not saloons are to be licensed is to be decided by popular vote on an ordinance.

MRS. MAY SCHALLOCK-JONES.

Last Tuesday evening the sad news reached Lakeview of the death, in Warner valley, of Mrs. May Jones, wife of D. R. Jones, Jr., which occurred at 11 a. m. on the 18th instant, at the Jones ranch, at the lower end of the lake in North Warner. Deceased was ill but a few days and no anxiety was at first felt by her husband and other relatives until the fourth day, when her condition rapidly grew worse, and Harry Riggs was dispatched to Lakeview for a physician. Mr. Riggs arrived here at 10 o'clock Monday night and started back next morning before daylight in company with Dr. E. H. Smith, but before they arrived in Warner Mrs. Jones had passed away, and Riggs returned to procure a casket for the remains. It is understood that the funeral is to take place in Lakeview, probably to-day some time, but it is not known at what hour the remains will arrive.

May Schallock was a few years ago one of the handsomest women in Southern or Southeastern Oregon. Five years ago last September she became the wife of D. R. Jones, Jr., the wedding occurring in Klamath Falls, where the family reside. She was a most lovable woman, kind-hearted and of sunny disposition—admired and esteemed by all who knew her. She was devoted to her husband and little baby girl. She leaves a father, mother, sister and brother at Klamath Falls and a loving husband, little daughter and numerous marriage relatives in this county to mourn her death. Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Jones, Sr., loved deceased as their own daughter. She accompanied her husband to Lakeview on Thanksgiving day, and was the jolliest of all the jolly family who sat down to Thanksgiving dinner at the Jones residence. She was the picture of health, and remarked that she was very happy. To-day she is food for the worms.

The parents of deceased at Klamath Falls were notified by wire as soon as the news of the death was announced here. It is regrettable that The Examiner cannot announce at what hour the interment will take place, but, presumably, it will occur at 10 o'clock this morning.

LATER:—The funeral has been announced for to-day, from the M. E. Church, at 2 p. m.

Somebody at Fault.

We learn that the last week's issue of The Examiner did not reach our subscribers either at Plush or Adel. There is something radically wrong about this, and an investigation will be made to discover, if possible, where the fault lies. The papers were sent from this office, as usual, and were deposited in the Lakeview postoffice, properly labeled. Postmaster Wilcox says he is satisfied the bundles left his office in their proper pouches, and we understand that Postmaster Boone of Plush is just as positive they did not reach his office. An error has been made by somebody, however, and we shall endeavor to discover who is responsible for it. It is very annoying to have our papers miscarry, and particularly exasperating when the fault is not our own. We have had repeated inquiries from Plush and Adel during the week as to what had become of The Examiner of December 13th. Subscribers who pay for their papers are anxious to receive them in order to read the county news.

Annie Hickman Dead.

A few days ago the San Francisco papers contained a sensational account of the death of Mrs. Annie Giddings from a criminal operation performed by one Dr. O'Donnell of San Francisco. Mrs. Annie Giddings was formerly Annie Hickman of Lakeview. Her father once conducted the Pioneer saloon here, and the family removed from Lakeview in 1891. She was married to Giddings six years ago and has a little son five years old.
