

Price of Beef Will Moderate.

Louis Gerber, the stockman, informs us, says the Klamath Republican, that owing to the high prices of beef in the California market, the consumption of that commodity has fallen away about fifty per cent. Also that owing to the low prices of grain and the splendid outlook for the feed this year in California, the large land owners in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys are stocking their places with Arizona and Mexican cattle. Mr. Gerber received a letter from a friend in Ft. Yuma, stating that in the last sixty days 1850 car loads of cattle, including over 5,000 head, had passed through that point, all bound for California.

"In my opinion," says Mr. Gerber, "it will be many years before beef reaches the high price which was obtained this winter, but for the good of the stock grower it will be better to have cattle at a reasonable figure and at a price at which the working people, who are really the consumers, can afford to buy it."

The School Entertainment.

Last Thursday evening Gunther Hall was filled with people to witness the entertainment given by the pupils of the Lakeview public school. Usually, while much interest is manifest among parents and relatives at school entertainments, such affairs are attended with a certain degree of monotony, but not so with this entertainment. From start to finish the program sparkled with interesting situations, witty sayings and talented addresses. We have heard on all sides since the program was presented that it was the best school entertainment ever seen in Lakeview. The teachers and pupils alike are to be complimented. The program was too long to attempt to comment upon in detail and our space too limited to do justice to each pupil. The affair was a financial success also, quite a neat sum having been realized for the object intended—the enlargement of the Lakeview school library.

West Side Eggs.

A. P. Koozer of the West Side made his weekly visit to Lakeview last Friday. He missed the week before and had with him, as a result, seventy-five dozen eggs, the product of two weeks from his poultry farm. This is an average of about 65 eggs daily. Mr. Koozer disposed of his eggs readily in the local market at 25 cents per dozen. This is an income of $9.37½ per week, which is a fairly good result from any kind of farm products. Mr. Koozer has a novel way of caring for his chickens. His wheat is put up unthreshed and is fed to the chickens, who do their own threshing in a thorough manner, while they get plenty of exercise in the operation. After the chickens thresh the wheat the straw is fed to the stock on the ranch. He also kills rabbits and feeds them to the chickens, the pickings from the green bones, it is claimed, being very good for egg producing.

The Alturas Flood.

On the 16th instant a warm wind and gentle rain began to melt the snow on the ground with great rapidity, while the ice in the river broke up and started on a journey down the stream. Efforts were made to prevent the ice from getting jammed and causing a flood. However, in the afternoon the river became gorged with ice just above town and the water overflowed and began to run through the streets. In a short time Main street was flooded so deep that gum boots were a necessary article of apparel for any one who wished to cross the street without getting wet. The water flowed into a few houses on the east side of Main street, but on the west side the sidewalk was not submerged except in a few places. About midnight the water receded rapidly and by dawn on Sunday the ground was covered with two inches of snow.—New Era.

Carrie May Come Here.

According to the New Era, Judge Spargur of Alturas is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Nation, in which the "smasher" says she understands that Alturas has more saloons according to population than any other place in the United States, and she is desirous of visiting that place—with her little hatchet. Carrie announces that she will be in Reno on March 1st, and wishes somebody from Alturas to meet her there at the train. After "doing" Alturas she may come on to Lakeview, where she will probably receive a hearty welcome(?). A delegation will be on hand to show her all the sights of this country—among them the hot water baths.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the kind friends in Lakeview who assisted me during the illness and death of my late husband, such friendship and sympathy making my sorrow more easily to bear. CORNELIA RORNE, Lakeview, Or., Feb. 25 1901.

LOCAL PICK-UPS.

M. W. J. Barry of Plush was at Hotel Lakeview yesterday.

Oliver E. Charlton was up from New Pine Creek yesterday on legal business.

None but first-class mechanical work turned out at The Examiner job department.

Mrs. Joe Howard and two daughters of Drews Valley attended the Woodmen ball last Friday night.

Wallace S. Painter and Mrs. Emma DeWitt, both residents of Alturas, were married at that place February 19th.

Joe Burrus returned from Modoc last week, where he was for several days separating the Thompson-Burrus sheep.

On Monday, March 4, 1901, a school election will be held in Lakeview for the election of a director of the Lakeview public school.

New Pine Creek was represented at the W. O. W. ball by Miss Inez Gallagher and Messrs. Laughlin, Gallagher and Laughlin.

Louis Gerber, the stockman from Klamath, arrived last week and went to the northern valleys in search of cattle and sheep for sale.

Charlie Branch and W. E. Barnum, representative citizens of Clover Flat district, were in town Monday, and stopped at Hotel Lakeview.

House bill 229, by Edson, which passed both houses of the Oregon Legislature, changes the legal standard of a bushel of oats from 36 to 32 pounds.

Miss Gladys Keser, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Thompson of Alturas, arrived last Saturday and will remain for some time visiting with Mrs. J. Burrus and daughter Pearl.

A business man's calibre is measured by the commercial printing he uses. Don't use anything but neat and mechanically printed stationery in your business. The Examiner office is the place to get good work.

The Examiner is informed that Mrs. E. B. Ramsby has gone to Merrill on a visit of a couple of months with her daughter, Mrs. S. Ed. Martin, and not to reside there. In the meantime "Doc" sojourns at Hotel Lakeview, when he is not plowing through the mud on the Western between Lakeview and Bly.

William D. Huff, a nephew of our townsman William P. Huff of the Central Market, was one of the soldiers to arrive in San Francisco with the Thirty-seventh Regiment from the Philippines, a few weeks ago. Young Huff writes to his uncle that he expects to pay him a visit before returning to his home in Kansas.

We are informed that the date of the school entertainment and big supper at Crane Creek was announced by The Examiner one week ahead of time. The affair came off on Friday night, February 23d, and was a joyous occasion. A debate, recitations and dialogues were features of the entertainment and the attendance was large.

Rufus Ward, D. M. Miller and H. B. Stevens were over from Ft. Bidwell last Thursday to attend a meeting of the I. O. O. F. Encampment. They are three leading citizens of the Bidwell section and have numerous friends in Lakeview who were glad to welcome them to our town. Mr. Ward is now lessee of the George Freeman ranch.

On February 10, 1901, a happy wedding of two popular young people of Modoc county occurred at the home of the bride's sister in Chico, Cal. The contracting parties were Erle G. Duke and Miss Vettelene Williams. The groom is a brother of W. D. Duke, well known as a manager for Miller & Lux, and himself a trusted employe of that big stock firm. The bride is a charming young teacher of Modoc.

Ashland Record: James Pelton of Sams valley, John E. Pelton and Elmo Neil of Ashland and George Kohlilagan of Roseburg, started from here yesterday for Klamath Falls to drive in 300 head of beef cattle that Kohlilagan bought from Pelton Bros. They will be shipped from Ashland to Puget Sound. This band of cattle will no doubt tramp down the snow and make a wide path on the summit of the Cascades.

Tuesday last more than 200 head of horses left Alturas and vicinity for Amedee where they will be turned over to agents of the United States Government says the Plaindealer. They are destined for service in China and the Philippines. Dorris Bros. had 100 head, Henry Weigert about 40, Ed. Ivory 30 or 40, and Jno. Kane had an equal number from the Witcher ranch. We did not learn the prices paid but they probably average from $30 to $40 per head. They are small, but are a fairly good looking lot of animals.

Sunday at Hotel Lakeview.

Patrons of Hotel Lakeview receive royal treatment. The dining-room is furnished with new and shining service and everything is as neat as a pin. Last Sunday was no exception to the feasts usually furnished at that hostelry, and many people enjoyed a fine chicken dinner on that day.

E. Follett, Merchant.

On the 4th page of The Examiner, this week, Mr. E. Follett, the enterprising young merchant of New Pine Creek, has an announcement. Mr. Follett has ordered a large variety of goods for the spring trade, and as soon as freighting begins he will have his store stocked to overflowing with first-class goods. Watch his space.

Judge Tonningsen Returns.

Judge Charles Tonningsen returned on the late Western Monday night after having placed the four Carlyle children in the Boys and Girls Home in East Portland. He says the children have a good home, where they will be given an education and taught everything good. The Judge says the management of this institution is first-class and it is a credit to the state. While absent he visited Portland and other points and also dropped down to Salem to watch the lawmakers try to elect a United States Senator. He reports the roads from the railroad to be in a terrible condition for travel, and thinks the people of Lakeview are fortunate in getting any mail at all from the West.

Lakeview People in 'Frisco.

"Dan DeQuille" (I. F. D.), writing from San Francisco to the Chewaucan Post, makes the following mention of well known Lakeview people: "I meet friends every day from Oregon. Met Harry Bailey yesterday. Frank Rogers is out again after a successful operation at Lane's Hospital. J. Frankl is almost well again. Victor Maxwell is studying hard at Heald's Business College. Mrs. Knox will soon return to Lakeview, prepared to photograph by all the latest methods; and I am passing an agreeable winter here in the city."
