State Line Wedding

The Nuptials of Dexter F. Amick and Minnie B. Reid Celebrated at New Pine Creek.

Sunday evening, April 7, 1901, Dexter F. Amick and Miss Minnie B. Reid were united in marriage at the Christian church, New Pine Creek, Oregon, Rev. C. Wesley Raymond officiating. The bridal party entered the church marching to the beautiful strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Dennie Reid, sister of the bride. They marched to the hymeneal altar, and standing beneath an arch beautifully decorated with evergreens and natural orange blossoms, from which three wedding bells were suspended, the impressive words were spoken which united the lives of the happy bride and groom. Back of the altar high on the wall was a streamer of evergreens and flags which lent to the attractiveness of the pretty scene. In addition to other decorations was a large "R" made of evergreens over the entrance door and a large "A" over the door of exit—signifying the change of name.

The bride was beautifully attired in white silk wearing the bridal veil and orange blossoms, making a charming picture. The groom wore the conventional black and looked his best. The bride's maid, Miss Lura Amick, sister of the groom, was also attired in white, and looked very pretty. Mr. T. H. Cloud acted as groomsmen.

After the ceremony, which was very beautiful and impressive, the bridal party, followed by fifty or more invited guests, repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, parents of the bride, where an elegant supper awaited them. After congratulations and supper, the guests were permitted to view the numerous beautiful and useful wedding presents.

The evening was very pleasantly spent in conversation and music until a late hour, when the guests returned home, to meet the day following at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amick, parents of the groom, where they enjoyed the bountiful hospitality of these amiable people.

The bride is a highly accomplished and charming young woman, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, long-time residents, respected and prosperous people. She is amiable in disposition and is universally admired for her many graces and sweet traits of character. Her young husband has won a treasure.

The groom is a cultured young gentleman, a former teacher in the public schools of Lake county, and recently engaged in the mercantile business with Mr. E. Follett at New Pine Creek. He is a young man of sterling worth—one who will doubtless make a success of life in every avenue he traverses. The happy couple will reside at New Pine Creek, and have the best wishes of a host of friends.

The wedding was pronounced the grandest ever solemnized at the state line, and it is estimated that three hundred persons witnessed the ceremony.

Following is a list of the presents received by the bride and groom:

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Mulkey, Rochester lamp.

Ike Davies Returns.

I. F. Davies returned home from California last Sunday, after an absence of about four months. During his time away Mr. Davies saw about everything that was worth seeing in the attractive parts of the Golden State—from San Francisco to San Diego. He visited the great observatory at Mt. Hamilton, saw the beauties of Santa Barbara, picked oranges from the trees in Los Angeles groves, and rode all over San Francisco in an automobile. He also visited the Hawaiian Islands for a brief period and had a delightful trip across the Pacific. He says John Watson's trip wasn't in it with his, as Watson was asleep under a Los Angeles orange tree most of the time he was away. Mr. Davies met "Dan de Quille" nearly every place he went, and that worthy and The Examiner kept him posted on the doings in Lake county. He rode from San Francisco to Northern California in his automobile and sold the horseless carriage at a good figure over the purchase price to a gentleman who wanted to be in style. After a brief visit about his old "stamping ground" at Jacksonville he returned home happy, in good health, and delighted with his grand trip. Ike's many friends are glad to see him home again. He will probably engage in the woolgrowing industry again in Lake county.

Raising Waters of Anna River

Barnes Brothers Establishing a System of Irrigation at the North End of Summer Lake.

Frank Barnes recently returned from Summer Lake, where he and his brother, W. B. Barnes, have in course of construction a dam at the source of Anna river. Barnes brothers have located land at the north end of Summer Lake, and their object in building the dam is to raise the water 30 feet at the upper spring, to bring the land under irrigation. The scheme is a feasible one, as the work of damming is not difficult. They are building the dam of logs, and when Mr. Barnes left there they had succeeded in raising the water five feet. The work will be completed early this summer. The upper spring flows 2000 inches of water and will irrigate a large body of land. Frank Barnes has a homestead on the land covering the springs and W. B. Barnes has a desert claim adjoining. There are two other big springs lower down that form the Anna River, and it is claimed the water can be raised from them in the same manner, securing from all sources over 20,000 inches, which will be sufficient to reclaim many thousands of acres of land, which body, in its present condition, is considered worthless. There is said to be a large quantity of land in Summer Lake valley still vacant which can be brought under irrigation from these springs. This should certainly claim the attention of intending settlers who are seeking for new homes.

Change in Local Telegraph Affairs.

The California & Oregon Telegraph office was removed last week by Superintendent McKinsey from the Boyd residence to the office of the Hotel Lakeview. This will be a great convenience to patrons of the telegraph, as the office is now centrally located. Will T. Boyd, who has occupied the position of local operator ever since the line was constructed to Lakeview, and who was always courteous and obliging, sent in his resignation last January and as a matter of courtesy continued in the position until Superintendent McKinsey could arrange to come here and name his successor. E. Burke was given the position and is now installed in the company's office in the Hotel Lakeview, where he will devote his attention to the service. Mr. Burke is an efficient operator and a courteous gentleman, who will endeavor to make everything agreeable for the patrons of the line. He will always be found at his post during office hours ready to fulfill his duties. Mr. McKinsey is to be congratulated in making such a wise selection.

Home Seekers' Rates

All the Railroads, Including the N-C-O., are Offering Attractive Fares to the Public.

The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railways having published their intention of making a round trip rate of $50 from Chicago to Puget Sound points and Portland, as well as San Francisco, for the occasion of the Epworth League meeting in San Francisco, July 18-21, 1901, the N. C. O. Ry. has given notice to connecting lines and its agent at Reno, that a rate of one fare the round trip to all stations on its line, will be made available to all holders of one way or round trip excursion or tourist tickets to California coast points. The N. C. O. tickets will be good for 30 days from date of issue to enable California visitors to examine into the resources and advantages offered to colonists, home seekers and others, and this arrangement, so far as the N. C. O. Ry. is concerned, will remain in effect for six months from April 1st, 1901.

These exceedingly cheap round trip rates as well as the cheap colonists rates from the east, will undoubtedly bring many thousands of people to California during the next six months, and it is an opportunity which should not be lost sight of for the people in Reno and the counties before mentioned in eastern California and Southern Oregon to set forth their claims to the superior advantages which they possess for home-seekers, speculators, and others.

Any printed information regarding the advantages, resources etc. of any city or county may be sent to W. N. Weil, Secretary, 106 Pine St., San Francisco. Mr. Weil has been appointed Secretary of an important association for the express purpose of disseminating reliable information as to the resources, climate, etc. of the various counties and localities in the state of California, and it is understood that no county or locality will be discriminated against, but that the Secretary will work and use his best endeavors in behalf of all localities. While the visitors to California during the summer season may be reached through Secretary Weil, individual efforts should be made to induce capital and enterprise from the eastern cities to western Nevada, Eastern California and Southern Oregon, as these localities seem to have been entirely lost sight of in the advertising of the advantages of the soil and climate of the Pacific coast.

WM. HARVEY, President.
V. L. SNELLING, Secretary.

The great majority of the people in the middle states are apparently under the impression that there is absolutely no opportunity for investors, home seekers, or health seekers, east of the summit of the Sierra Nevada mountains, while the eastern slope of the Sierras has lain unmolested for ages with its mineral, timber and agricultural resources equal if not superior to those on the western slope; while the climate is not so mild as that of the coast counties, it is exceedingly bracing and invigorating to those who are benefited by the four distinct seasons of the year, and is entirely free from the enervating influences of the semi-tropical climate to be found to the southward. This seems to be the proper occasion on which the people of Eastern California and Southern Oregon should join in proclaiming to the world, "now is the acceptable time; I say unto you, 'come.'"

Settlers to Locate Here.

Messrs Woodward and Beebe, the two gentlemen who have been looking over this country for a location for ten families to settle have selected a desirable location and made some surveys. They have also selected a site for a reservoir to supply water for the land which they have selected and will go to the land office at Lakeview to investigate the matter and will decide upon plans as soon as they can find under what title they can secure these lands, says the Post.

The gentlemen have made an excellent choice of location, where no chances are to be taken in making fine homes. There are thousands of acres of as fine land in this vicinity with good opportunities for building reservoirs. This scheme is undoubtedly the redemption of northern Lake county and is creating much interest; more in fact, than the people of this country realize. People of other places are looking into the matter and will soon investigate.

Wells, Fargo Express Co.

Division Agent W. B. Lobner Establishes an Office in Lakeview with W. R. Steele as Agent.

W. B. Lobner, Division Agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., arrived here last Thursday from Reno, and on Saturday established a branch office for his company in Lakeview. An express service has long been needed in Lakeview, more particularly on account of the quick returns on merchandise packages and C. O. D. goods. Mr. Lobner is an agreeable and social gentleman and made a good impression on the Lakeview business men whom he met. He informs The Examiner that his company will take no chances on road agents over the stage lines, and all moneys entrusted to Wells, Fargo & Co.'s care will be transmitted in paper form—checks or drafts. The express office has already been established and the company is doing business in Lakeview via Terno, Cal., and Reno, Nev. The office has been located at the Bank of Lakeview, and W. R. Steele has been installed agent. One of the stores in town would probably have been a more convenient location for the office, but Mr. Lobner concluded to place it at the bank, in order to avoid any seeming show of partiality toward any particular merchant. Banking hours are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., when the institution closes for the day, but probably arrangements will be made whereby express office hours will be observed at that institution.

Public Spirited Citizen.

Charlie Graves of the Red Shoe Store is not carrying on as extensive a business as some other business men in Lakeview, and has not an abundance of capital to back him, but when he is called upon to contribute anything for the benefit of the town, he is not behind any man in enterprise or liberality, and his money is always ready to assist a public enterprise. He subscribed $20 for racing purposes in Lakeview during Fourth of July week. When the solicitors displayed surprise at the generosity of a man in such a limited business as the Red Shoe House affords, Mr. Graves remarked that the races would prove a public enterprise and benefit the town, and, while he might not reap any direct benefits therefrom, the event would help Lakeview, and what was good for the town would be of indirect benefit to him. Such public enterprise is commendable. The Examiner hopes that the business of the Red Shoe House will grow in proportion to its proprietor's generosity and public spirit.

Talk About Creamery

Mr. Mitchell Visits Lakeview and Says That This is the Place For a Fine Creamery.

W. T. Mitchell, the creamery expert of Adin, Modoc county, visited Lakeview last week on private business, and remained several days to become acquainted with the people of this vicinity. We had heard so much about this man, who is just now "the man of the hour" down in the Northern California counties, that we had sized him up as one of those "tony fellers," whom it was difficult to approach unless one habitually wears the silk tie and kid gloves. But he is not a man of that kind. We found him to be a plain, unassuming gentleman, of good business acumen, who can perhaps see a trifle farther ahead on the stony walk of life than the average man. While here Mr. Mitchell contracted with several business men to deliver 5,000 pounds of bacon and hams, cured under his supervision, by an expert from More & York's big packing house in Sacramento. In visiting Lakeview at this time it was not Mr. Mitchell's purpose to talk creamery to our people, but to become acquainted so that when he comes again, in about thirty days, he can meet the people here more readily upon the question of a creamery for Lakeview. Just now he is deeply engaged in getting in operation the $4,000 creamery and cheese plant to be built by a joint stock company in Alturas, and in arranging for another enterprise of the same kind in Surprise valley, at Cedarville.

The first thing Mr. Mitchell does when the people of a community show a disposition to want a creamery is to meet with the farmers and business men and find out how many cows could be had in the community in the event of the establishment of a creamery and its auxiliaries. At least 300 milk cows are necessary to start an average creamery. It is not required that these cows be in a body, but to be used for the purpose within a radius of a dozen miles or so of the creamery plant, so that the product can be brought to the plant each day. In some localities, remote from the plant, a separator is used at a central ranch, where the product of all the neighboring ranches is brought to separate the cream from the milk, and the pure cream is taken by one man to the creamery plant, where it is used in the manufacture of pure butter and cheese—the milk thereafter reverting to the ranchers who furnish it, to be fed to their calves.

In this way the various ranchers, who now home manufacture a quality of butter considered good, can realize more actual money from their cows than they can obtain by the home manufacture process, besides getting their milk returned for the young calves, and being relieved of the labor and inconveniences incident to butter making at home. And when they discover this fact they will quickly augment their bands of milk cows and make a business of furnishing cream to a sure and paying industry.

It is argued by some that there may be a scarcity of cows to furnish the product for a creamery here, but this is a flimsy argument in a county where the greatest industry is cattle raising. Mr. Mitchell says that it will not be many years when three or four creameries will be in operation in Goose Lake valley, and that every one of them will be big paying enterprises. He also says that in all his experience in the creamery industry he has never seen a town more fitted and better located for a creamery than Lakeview.

He will return here in about thirty days to talk the matter up with our business men and ranchers, at which time a meeting will probably be called in Lakeview which will be addressed by Mr. Mitchell on the subject of creameries.
